Renovations Are Still Planned For The Braethorn

At the recent meeting of the Mtn. Lake Park Mayor and Town Council, Karen Spiker, of A & A Realty, informed the council of the status of the renovation of the Braethorn. She stated that due to the paperwork, reviews, and other issues involving the rehabilitation of an historic property, they have had delays, but are still planning to renovate. She said the Braethorn will house eight families and have off-street parking.

Charles Keaton gave an update on payments received for the sewer rehabilitation. Total payments have been $72,500, including the fourth payment of $13,300. A state payment of $2,218 is forthcoming. Keaton stated that at this time, there has been no definite answer to the change order from the state.

Mayor Russell B. Alexander informed the council that several complaints have been received from citizens regarding the sewer rehabilitation work. Ditches that were excavated are sinking and right-of-ways have not been properly cleaned up. The mayor's office will inform the contractor that this work must be done in accordance with the contract before the bond will be released.

The mayor read a memorandum from Senator John Bambacus on proposed regulations for the management of sewage sludge. It was agreed that these regulations do not apply to Mtn. Lake Park.

The new parking ordinance was approved by the mayor and council. The purpose of this ordinance is to regulate parking on town streets, especially in the winter months. In the past, vehicles have been parked on town streets which hampered the removal of snow and the passage of emergency vehicles. This ordinance will make it a misdemeanor for any violations, and vehicles will be towed away at the owners expense.

The town has received its constant yield tax rate from the State Department of Assessments and Taxation. The mayor asked council to approve the new rate of 50 cents per $100 for fiscal year 1986-87. This rate is three cents less than last year.

A letter from the attorney general's office was read regarding the tax differential. According to this letter, the county commissioners and the county attorney are not satisfied with the wording in the differential law. The county attorney in his letter to Delegate George C. Edwards pointed out that the county provides services at no cost to various municipal corporations. He mentioned that these include but are not limited to sludge, erosion and sediment control, stormwater management, dog control, landfill use, road work, and procurement services.

He went on to suggest that the county should be entitled to a

IN TRAINING for the annual Hike and Bike, sponsored by the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, is Rosalie Finch, Oakland, and her two daughters, Stacy, left, and Rebecca, right. Rosalee's husband, the late Frank Finch who was sheriff of Garrett County, was a strong supporter of GOH and a participant each year in the Hike and Bike, collecting over $500 in pledges each year. Rosalie has decided to take her husband's place in the event, but was concerned that she might not be able to complete the five miles without some personal training and conditioning at the Southern High School track. The Hike and Bike will be held this weekend, with the Oakland event on Saturday and the Grantsville area event on Sunday.

$41,805.54 Collected For Flood Relief

The Flood Relief Fund, coordinated locally by Brad Stewart, netted a total of $41,805.54 to aid November flood victims in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia counties.

Of that amount, according to Stewart, $13,000 was given to the town of Rowlesburg, W. Va. for food, clothing, small appliances, kerosene heaters and other household items.

Pastor Richard L. Longbon of Grove Street United Methodist Church, Petersburg, W. Va., accepted $13,000 on behalf of the town. Those funds were used for the purchase of small appliances and household items.

Pastor Eldon Shingleton from St. John's United Methodist Church in Parsons, W. Va., accepted a check for $13,000 for that town to purchase needed supplies.

The remaining $2,805.54 was presented to the Kitzmiller Lions Club for flood relief in Kitzmiller and Shallmar.

Stewart commented, "In visiting and talking to the leaders in the flood areas, I can pass along their heart-felt thanks. One cannot imagine the devastation and damage that was done until it was seen first-hand. Each dollar made an impact on the rebuilding and on the hearts of the people."

Those desiring to make further contributions to aid flood-devastated areas may send them to: Stewart Disaster Coordinator, 32 South Second St., Oakland, Md. 21550.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Grantsville Fire Hall on Friday, May 9, from noon to 6 p.m.

According to Lela Bender of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, the Red Cross believes in community responsibility; that it is the responsibility of healthy, able-bodied members of the community to give blood needed to help treat sick and injured people.

"Blood is a vital human resource. It should be available to all who need it regardless of economic status, ability to donate, place of residence, or membership in a specific group," Bender commented. "People should receive blood because they need it—there should be no other reason."

Mrs. Bender explained that Red Cross blood donors are part of a continuing system that helps to assure that blood will be available for those members of the community who cannot donate: children, the elderly, and those with chronic illnesses.

Grantsville Town Council Sets New '86-'87 Tax Rate

The Grantsville Town Council voted to set the 1986-87 tax rate at 72 cents per $100 of assessed property value. This vote was taken at the April 21 meeting of the Grantsville Mayor and Town Council. This is in accordance with the constant-yield tax rate. The ad valorum tax rate will remain at 45 cents per $100 of assessed property value.

Parents Voice Strong Opposition To Closing Of Yoder School

The fate of Yoder School in Grantsville was the subject of a public hearing held there on Tuesday with approximately 75 parents attending to broach their concerns to members of the Garrett County Board of Education about Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage's recommendation that the school be closed within the next three or four years.

Dr. Ryscavage told the group of parents that he knew it would be difficult for them to understand his reasoning and his decision, however, he felt obliged to give the board of education what he considered to be the best advice possible.

He said he would stick to his recommendation unless Yoder School was made into either a "realistic alternative education program for all potential students in Garrett County, or established as a school with a distinct attendance area like other schools."

He explained that his reasons were not based on economic or educational grounds. He said that the school has demonstrated that it prepares its students well and is cost efficient, also. "My rationale is partially predicated upon the fact that the enrollment at the Yoder School will always prove tenuous, given that the school has no defined attendance area".

Dr. Ryscavage stated that if the school continues to exist, "I believe it will be most difficult for board members to hold that they are providing equal opportunity for all children." He stressed that as one of the provisions in Public School Law 4-107, along with provisions that direct the board to maintain uniform schools throughout the county, as far as both quality education and equality to students is concerned.

He also said that the board is directed, under that law, to determine educational policies and to adopt rules that are not inconsistent. He related that a prior decision, relevant to the possible duplication of attendance areas, was made after two public hearings. The attendance areas being disputed at that time included an Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park area, areas of Sang Run and Bittinger, and areas of Accident, Grantsville, and Friendsville. Those schools all now have distinct attendance areas.

Two others, Yoder and Swan Meadow, which he said were both developed to provide an educational program for the Amish, still have undefined districts. He stated that Swan Meadow School is still being used for its original purpose, but that Yoder School is not.

Dr. Ryscavage said that in January, the board decided to clarify the boundaries for all the schools mentioned, and that decision was important to him in weighing his decision to provide "equal opportunity for all children."

He said he made the recommendation, not to close next year, but in the next three to four years, "so that those students who have already had previous years of schooling at the Yoder School be allowed to complete most, if not all, of their program of studies at this school, if they so choose."

In conclusion, Dr. Ryscavage said that the decision came down to two forces, "one that surrounds the head and one that surrounds the heart. My decision came from the head."

Much of the discussion centered around equality, and parents asked, "Who is suffering from inequality, our children, because they have no gym, cafeteria, or music program; or other children in the county, because they are not able to attend a school like Yoder?" Larry Bruch, who hopes his children will be able to attend Yoder School, suggested that no two schools are equal, using the differences between programs available at Northern High School and Southern High School to prove his point.

Bruch compared Yoder School to so called magnet schools in urban areas where children can go to study specialities such as art or math. "There ought to be a way for parents to have some say in their child's education," Bruch stated.

Commissioners, Staffers Meet For Monthly Session

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday heard reports from various county staffers on a number of issues concerning county government.

First to speak was Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, who thanked the commissioners for attending the briefing last week on the progress of the Northern High School renovation.

Dr. Ryscavage then announced that the Board's budget had been submitted but that there was an impasse with the support service group. He said a panel, with an impartial arbitrator will convene May 3 to attempt to solve the issue.

The superintendent also informed the commissioners that the current maintenance budget is nearly in the red and that the Board will be requesting a transfer of funds from operations to maintenance. He also noted that state guidelines will be changed considerably for long-range maintenance plans in the future.

Finally, Ryscavage related the difficulties the closing of Bruce High School to the commissioners and the implications it would have for middle school students in that school district. A meeting will be held in the next few weeks to discuss those concerns.

Soil Conservation

The commissioners then welcomed James Schlossnagle, newly appointed district conservationist for Garrett County.

Schlossnagle outlined the Rural Abandoned Mine Program (RAMP) for the county officials and noted that the Bowser site, consisting of 32 acres, would be completed in September and that several other sites are now in the planning stages.

He then explained the priority system of RAMP citing health and safety as the number one priority.

Social Services

Director Robert Shaffer from the Department of Social Services informed the county heads that the county was "particularly high" among the state in the areas of public assistance and food stamps.

He indicated that 405 families were on public assistance in April of last year compared to 431 families this year. He added that over 1,000 families in the first four months of this year were receiving food stamps while that total was topped only one month last year.

Shaffer informed the commissioners that a higher freeze had been imposed on the department effective April 1, due to federal cuts.

The director also noted that the state was ranked fourth in teen pregnancies and stated that programs were underway to combat the problem. He said a statewide hotline was also recently instituted.

Finally, Shaffer invited the commissioners to attend the annual Foster Parents Appreciation Dinner to be held May 10.

Development Corporation

Development Director Tom Jones gave an update on the recent meeting with Thomas Maddux, secretary of the Department of Economic and Community Development.

Jones said the county is seeking funds to aid in the development of the Savage River area where the Pan Am Cup and 1989 Whitewater World Championships are to be held. He noted that he had met with the Department of Natural Resources

A BIKE-A-THON held in Oakland on April 26 has resulted in the collection of over $1,500 to assist youngsters like eight-year-old Todd Brinkley, of Loch Lynn. Todd, son of Stan and Elaine Ziemba and a second grader at Loch Lynn Elementary, was diagnosed at the age of one as having cystic fibrosis, a serious illness affecting the respiratory system. Although he had no major problems for nearly seven years since the disease was diagnosed, he had to be admitted to West Virginia University Hospital in November with pneumonia. He is now home, but must have innalation therapy and chest physical therapy every day, along with numerous medications. According to one friend of Todd's family, "He doesn't complain, he has a good sense of humor, a good attitude." He enjoys riding his bike, hiking, drawing, visiting his relatives, and watching professional wrestling on television. He is a member of the Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church. Winners of the Bike-A-Thon, which was coordinated by Candie Kish, were Kathy Baker, Jessica Yost, Paul Warnick, Roger Artice, and Tanya Thomas. Helping sponsor the event were Radio Shack and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company. Ms. Kish stated that another bike-a-thon will be held in July.

Continuing Concerns At GCC To Be Discussed By State, Local Officials

A meeting which was to be held this week between the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, Senator John N. Bambacus, Delegate George Edwards, the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees and Richard Kline from the State Board for Higher Education has been rescheduled for next Thursday.

According to Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr., the meeting has been set up for the purpose of discussing continuing personnel and financial concerns and Interim President Dr. David A. Puzzuoli.

The most recent turn of events at GCC this week is the threatened walk-out of over half of the faculty if the Board of Trustees appoint Dr. Puzzuoli to the position of president at the college.

Some eight faculty members spoke with the press this week on the performance of the interim president but felt they would be reprimanded if they gave comments for publication.

When asked why they (the faculty) gave Dr. Puzzuoli a high rating in the evaluation of his performance in January, they said they felt they had been "duped" or "misled" and called his management techniques "extremely intimidating." Others said they were afraid to use their own typewriters let alone their own handwriting, lest the interim president detect a less than favorable rating from them.

All eight faculty members who talked with the press this week felt Dr. Puzzuoli's comments and "misleading statements" in his recent interview in The Republican damaged the "whole school's reputation."

"He made the entire faculty look like a bunch of do-nothings," said one faculty member. "We've been dragged across the carpet and treated like two-year-olds."

"We fear he's left the impression on the community that we have so much time on our hands we have nothing more to do than complain," said another instructor. "We're really not a bunch of malcontents. There is a real element of fear here and apparently the Board of Trustees just can't see it. There's not one of us who puts in only 20 hours a week here. Usually it's somewhere between 40 and 48 hours."

"The fact of the matter is we spend just as much time here as anyone else," said one assistant professor. "We also spend countless hours at home for classroom preparation and grading papers."

A more detailed report on the faculty concerns and an evaluation of the interim president requested by many members of the faculty will appear in next week's edition of The Republican.

A random interview of GCC students is also planned for next week to give them a voice on the performance of the president and faculty and the way they view the situation at the college.

and American Canoe Association to devise a final site plan.

The director then indicated that following a winter shutdown, work would be proceeding on the Southern Garrett Industrial Park.

Sanitation Department

Sanitation Department Director Wendell Beitzel told the county officials that the hill slide issue in Kitzmiller had been resolved. He said the Bureau of Mines was assuming responsibility.

Beitzel stated that construction was now underway on the Bloomington Sewer Project and that construction would begin this week on the Kitzmiller Project.

In an update on the Deep Creek Lake Sewer Project, Beitzel indicated that the underwater line was near completion.

GCC

Garrett Community College Comptroller John Culp said that the college budget has been completed and noted that a fixed asset report had been completed at the college. He said that the college is meeting with Gary Mullich, director of general operations for the county, in regard to equipment at the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

Culp then announced that Career Day at GCC, in conjunction with the two local high schools, would be held May 14 and that commencement would be held May 17 with over 60 graduates.

Health Department

Edgar Harman, environmental health officer, informed the commissioners that spring rabies clinics would begin on May 10 and that specifics on the times and places would be given to the local media within the week. The clinics are sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department.

Harman said his department is also sponsoring a one-day seminar on ground water protection for local well-drillers in the near future.

Promotion Council

Garrett County/Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council Director Diane Wolfe informed the county officials that the Vacation Guide had been distributed to local businesses last week and noted that a summer ad campaign was underway.

She noted that since an April 6 ad was placed in the Washington Post over 1,300 requests for information packets on Garrett County had been received. She stated that was a 75% increase over requests last year.

Yoder School

fore Dr. Ryscavage and the board of education by a parent was, "If Swan Meadow is allowed to remain open to educate the Amish children and Yoder is closed because there are no Amish enrolled here anymore, isn't that religious discrimination? If our children were Amish, there would be no question of closing the school."

The school board's projection of future enrollment at Yoder School was questioned by John Neubert. That projection shows that attendance will be down to 30 students by 1993. Neubert told the school board that the parents had conducted their own survey, complete with names and addresses of parents hoping to send children to Yoder in the future, which came out drastically different from the school board's survey. The parents' survey shows the enrollment eventually leveling off at the 1985 number of approximately 63 students.

Neubert said that there were even discrepancies between two different projections made by the school board. As to the idea of developing magnet schools, Neubert said, "Yoder is already a magnet school, a regional school of excellance."

Parent Gerry Miller, who has two children attending Yoder School, said that Yoder parents see the school as an alternative form of education, and feel that education is more important than gym or band programs.

She and many other parents brought up the positive atmosphere that surrounds Yoder School, the teacher-child relationship, which the parents feel is excellent and very important to them.

Milton Canan, who has had three children graduate from Yoder and two presently enrolled, said, "I think it's a shame the rest of the county can't have quality education like Yoder School." And another parent asked "Why can you not bring to other schools what we have here? Why get rid of what we have so they are equal?"

Board of Education Member William Goldsborough asked the group of parents to tell the board why quality at Yoder School is any better than other schools. Answers came from many parents, but included the fact that the atmosphere is a big plus. "The atmosphere means something very big to us," said parent Dorothy George, who added that the teachers show love, attention and consideration to her son who is attending Yoder School for medical reasons.

Parents said that children at Yoder must meet a challenge, and they seem to meet it very well. Larry Miller, who has two children at Yoder, said "Having several grades in one class creates interaction between my children, which is very important. The older one helps the younger one."

The parents also told the board that notes and phone calls they get from teachers, not only when there is a problem, but when the child does well, are important, as is the link between the parents and the school. "The teachers do their best because they know they are supported (by the parents)," said parent Steve Wilson.

Nancy Yoder, addressing Dr. Ryscavage, said, "I don't think a head's much good without a heart. This is a small school with a special closeness. Teachers often become role-models to the students for life."

Parent Del Proudfoot explained that he was not a native of the area but had grown to love the community, and stated that he believed the Menonnite influence in Yoder School was most important. "It's a Christian school, although it may be taboo to say 'Christian' in a public school."

Dr. Ryscavage was asked why nothing had been said about closing the school within three or four years in the report of the ad hoc committee which studied the issue, to which he replied, "The recommendation is mine, solely mine." He explained that the board of education must make the final decision and could overrule his recommendation. The record of the hearing will be left open for letters and comments from the public until the school board meets on May 8, when the board will make its final decision.

A round of applause was given to Herman Yoder when he said that he felt the parents' feelings had been well expressed, that they would all like to see the school stay open as long as it can, if longer than four years, great. The applause came when he asked the board if they had heard the old saying, "If it ain't broken, don't fix it."

IS BANK REALLY MORTGAGE HOLDER?

You borrowed the money for your home purchase from your local bank or savings and loan association. You make your monthly payment to that very same bank. Does this mean that your bank holds your mortgage? Not necessarily. In fact, in many areas of the state the chances are great that they have sold it on the secondary mortgage market.

Two of the most dominant forces in the secondary market are Fannie Mae (Federal National Mortgage Association) and Freddie Mac (Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.). They buy well-secured mortgages at a discount.

Most of the banks in Garrett County have up to now, kept the loans they make. In those cases where loans are sold, there is little impact on the homeowner because the local lenders continue to service the mortgages. The ability of local lenders to package and sell loans on a secondary mortgage market helps keep a continuous flow of money available to buyers at affordable rates. When adequate funding for home buying is available, everyone benefits.

Best System Available . . .

It is so easy to take for granted many of the rights and freedoms we enjoy in this nation. Once in a while current events remind us just what we have here and that the people of many other countries are not so fortunate.

Once such current event this week is the nuclear accident which occurred at a power station in the Soviet Union. The reporting of this event, or should we say the non-reporting of this event, by TASS, the Soviet news agency, has pointed out clearly to the rest of the world the power and control of the Soviet Union government over its people.

Because of our own investigations into the incident, and those of other free nations, the average American on the street knows far more about this disaster than any Soviet citizen, with the exception of those poor souls who were located at the disaster site. Such restrictions on news reporting in the Soviet Union actually makes TASS and its news reporting a total farce.

This nation's only nuclear accident, which occurred at Three Mile Island, was an event which by comparison was minor, to say the least. There were no deaths as a result of it and relatively little damage. Yet we knew every single detail about the incident because of thorough investigation and reporting by the media.

It is this right to know that we take for granted almost every day. It is closely tied to our freedom of speech and freedom of the press, so obviously absent in the communist nations. Although our news media is at times guilty of sensationalism, distortion, and occasionally, misinformation, we know we can depend on it for complete coverage.

Another freedom which was exercised many times by some of our citizens soon after the Three Mile Island incident, and continues today at our nuclear test sites, is the freedom of assembly. Public protests and rallies are legal here, as long as they are orderly and non-obstructive. We are certain there will be no such activities in the Soviet Union, even after a disaster of the magnitude which occurred this week.

Our system of government and way of life are certainly not perfect here. But we are convinced once again that it is the best system available and we are real pleased to be a part of it.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Please allow us to take this opportunity to publicly thank Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey for his continued support of programs and services for handicapped citizens in Garrett County.

On April 19, 1986, the special education students from the 3 self-contained classrooms at Dennett Road Elementary School were able to attend the Circus Galaxy of Stars sponsored by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, due to the generosity of Commissioner Braskey who provided tickets for everyone free of charge. All the children enjoyed the trip to the Circus at A.C.C. and had a great time as well as an educational experience.

On behalf of our students, we say again, "Thank you Commissioner Braskey!"

The self-contained Special Education Teachers from Dennett Road School.

To the Editor:

It was with a sense of loss that I read that Lowell Bender will be leaving GCC. The Continuing Education Division, under the direction of Lowell, has been a tremendous ally to emergency medical services.

Through cooperative arrangements with our office and the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute, the Continuing Education Division of GCC has sponsored the annual Trauma Disaster Short Course each May. By combining resources we have been able to develop programs led by nationally known EMS educators. In addition, the continuing education division has sponsored EMT classes, CPR instruction for citizens and special workshops for physicians and nurses.

Without the participation of Lowell and his staff, many of these programs would not have been possible.

The Region I EMS office thanks Lowell for his help in providing emergency medical service training opportunities and wishes him well in his new endeavors.

Sincerely,
Dave Ramsey
Region I
EMS Administrator

To the Editor:

Having read your editorial of April 7, 1986, I strongly support your statement with regard to certain property owners whose interests are purely self serving without regard to "us local folks."

As a "flat lander", who has known and become personal friends of "many local folks," I am certainly aware of the need to strengthen the local economy and the importance of the tourist industry to Garrett County. It is hard to understand how such a quality development can be completely rejected by the Zoning Board in the face of what appears to be the obvious willingness on the part of the developer to cooperate and compromise some of its plans.

I feel that this project is essential to the continued health and growth of one of Maryland's most treasured communities.

Very truly yours,
Michael G. Hendler
Baltimore

To the Editor:

It is reassuring that in this country we can voice our opinions without being eradicated. The person embarrassed to give a name needs a free ticket to Libya (one way). Qadhafi should have been eradicated long ago. Congratulations to our President from all the citizens of the USA (except one who won't tell his identity). Even liberal O'Neill was for it. Bomb him more!

Thomas E. Doyle

To the Editor:

Garrett County should be concerned about H.R. 3838, passed last year by the House of Representatives.

Our present tax laws relating to forestry, tree farming, logging, etc., allow for (1) Capital Gains Treatment on the sale of timber. (2) Allowing the expensing of annual operating costs and (3) Granting the small timberland owner provisions for reforestation. H.R. 3838 would do away with these incentives.

For the tree farmer and landowner, the retention of Capital Gains Treatment is essential, given the long holding period of the investment and the high risks involved. Property taxes, interest and costs for fire protection and insect control should continue to be deducted annually rather than carried through the term of the timber investment.

Loggers and truckers need the continued benefits of the Accelerated Cost Recovery System in their purchases of equipment. Dropping the investment tax credit and reducing depreciation benefits will make it more difficult to write off investments.

H.R. 3838 has placed a difficult financial burden on those Garrett Countians willing to invest in the future of its forests. Garrett County has a good renewable resource in its forests. Let's leave it that way.

Yours truly,
William D. Scherer
Senior Forester

To the Editor:

An April 17 letter in your paper from Texas spoiled my day. In referring to Garrett County citizens, the statements were made that Americans are selfish and it was indicated that black bears are more important than human beings. No consideration was given to children who like to play in the woods or must wait for a school bus, or even adults who hike on public trails.

The people of Garrett County are largely farmers, working 12-hour days and, in many cases, for less than the interest on their investment. What do you think these people think about their livestock being torn to death by black bears for the benefit of people from out of state?

The bear situation, like the Youghiogheny corridor problem is promoted by people who are not affected by them. Nearly all of these promoters are from out of the county and many from out of state. Now, Mr. Editor, what do you think is most important and who do you think is being selfish?

The statement was made in legislation at Annapolis that Garrett County's beautiful resources do not belong to the people who own them and have preserved them for many years. They said since they are unique, they belong to everyone. Let us thank God for all these things and use them in a way that is right for everyone involved, to God and man. How many have thanked God for the beauties of nature?

Yours truly,
Homer Mellott

To the Editor:

The problem of the bears has been the big topic in the paper for about the last three months. I agree with the person who wrote about three weeks ago of the bad effect that bears have.

As far as I'm concerned, the bears have very little good to offer the public and a lot of bad. I do agree that most of the time you see one is when it is passing through, but, an old she bear is one dangerous animal and will attack anyone if she is separated from her cubs.

Now it looks like the state is bent on protecting the bears—so I believe the state should make every effort to see they don't get off of state property.

Land Owner in remote area
Stanley Friend
Oakland

To the Editor:

I cannot believe in last week's letter to the editor the couple from Texas! For anyone to publicly say human lives are not the most important form of life on earth needs to be up a tree with these bears.

They say we need to preserve bears, wildlife, etc., even if it results in losing personal belongings or lives. How would they like it: if a child of theirs lost his life? Or one of their pets or farm animals?

Sure, we have beauty, peace, clean air and recreation for which we're glad to have, although they do not pay the bills. How long will we have all of this if we keep populating the bears? How many of us who think we're brave now can honestly say if we were walking in the wood that we would not be frightened by a bear?

Let's use some common sense, we do not need these bears!

They talk that, later, if there are enough bears, there will be a bear season. To me, that's talking out of both sides of their mouths. The way the guys were condemned for the last killings, how can they say in the next breath there will be a bear season possible in years to come? Will the piece of paper stating "license" make it all right? Think about it.

I know, we're not going to have hundreds of bears running all over the place for a while yet, but look at our beautiful deer. It doesn't take many years to populate to the point of having a season. If a few bears were to amble into our county, fine, but to deliberately populate . . .

How many films, books, etc., have we seen and read from a youngster about the bears being wild? We've already had farmers in Garrett County to have livestock killed by bears and they do not need these losses.

I know, maybe we could capture these bears and send them to Texas! If they're so safe for us, you can start populating them in your town!

Thank you,
Concerned Citizen

To the Editor:

I was recently invited by Gary Alt, bear research biologist for the Pa. Game Commission, to observe his work at a black bear den in Somerset County. This particular bear had a radio tracking collar so she could be located and studied after her cubs were born.

Once the mother bear was sedated, the three cubs were removed from the den and passed around to the people who were watching, to hold and take pictures, while Gary did his research on the mother. Gary is studying bears in their dens to determine productivity and how black bears utilize their waste and urine and turn it into protein during hibernation. This research could be vital to medical research in areas such as kidney dialysis and liver disease, and is one example of how people can benefit from the bears.

This female had three healthy cubs and, according to Gary, she was in excellent condition, and the cubs were larger and healthier than in most areas he works in Pennsylvania. The reason for the healthy cubs is because of the excellent habitat available to bears in Southwest Pennsylvania and Western Maryland. He said that Garrett County has good areas for bears because the bears [illegible] killed this winter had a high number of cubs.

In this particular area where we took the bear out of the den, Gary said there had been at least 25 bears taken during the hunting season. In this area there has never been a known injury to people from bears. Gary stated that black bears are not aggressive animals and they do not attack people if they are not provoked.

Another point he made was that the black bear does not prey on farm animals, but feeds mainly on vegetation and sometimes garbage. In the spring of the year when food isn't available, they might come around

To the Editor:

Thank you for printing my recent verbose letter to you in its entirety.

Thank you also for your answer, and while it is not my intent to start a war of words, (although it would be fun) I must take umbrage at a couple of your statements. First you accused me at not reading your editorial carefully, overlooking the word 'SOME.' We no doubt interpret words differently (vive la difference) but, as I usually do, I looked up the word 'some.' One meaning, according to Webster is "being part and perhaps all of a class." This is construed as a 'logical' meaning and since I tend to reason along those lines, I so interpreted—I still think I am right.

Secondly, I did not question your statement as being unethical or illegal. I used (seasonally) a baseball analogy as a lead my letter. A 'spit ball' is unethical (unsportsmanlike would have been a better word) and it is illegal. Taking the analogy to the conclusion I stated quite plainly that I would 'strike out'—ergo—no apology. I really did not expect one.

Again, thanks for printing my letter even though it was strongly adverse to your editorial—thanks to our American freedom of the press. As Thomas Jefferson said in his first inaugural address:

"Error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

Peace,
Frances Acton

Our Turn

Pomp . . . and the Circumstances
by Susan Alvarez

It's May. That means it's time for proms and graduations, flowers and tuxedoes, beaming faces, and yes, a few tears. For me, however, it's a time of disbelief and strain.

I find myself bewildered, spouting out comments like, "Little Jimmy Hall is g-r-a-d-u-a-t-i-n-g?!! I just saw him at story hour sitting on his mother's lap, teething on her beaded necklace."

Yet, ala, there he is walking up on the stage. Little Jimmy, sporting a mustache and an earring in his ear, has given up his mother's necklace to grab a diploma. And that's not all. The real strain comes when I realize that not only is little Jimmy growing up, but there is a strong possibility that I will open my front door and find Jimmy, carrying a boom box and wearing a tee shirt that reads, "Let's Get Wild." And I'll be wondering if my daughter would accompany him to the graduation bash. Yes, graduation becomes more stressful every year.

Oh well, I needn't be so depressed. May will soon be over. Then it will be June. Time for weddings, brides, tuxedoes, beaming faces and more than a few tears. And time for me to start my annual lament, "Little Janie Smith is getting m-a-r-r-i-e-d?!! She was just standing on my back porch with a dripping popsicle!"

I wonder . . . could it be possible that when I'm the mother of the bride, little Jimmy Hall will be the groom?

houses looking for food. Even then the bear is usually just passing through and could be run off by a loud voice. Dogs, foxes or hawks kill more farm animals than any bear.

From seeing Gary's work and reading about black bears, I feel we can have bears in Garrett County. Gary said he plans to give a slide program on bears in Garrett County this fall, in co-operation with DNR, and it would be good for people who are concerned about bears to hear him talk. I had a lot of fear of black bears before I learned the facts about them and their habits. It would do everyone who is afraid of bears in Garrett County some good to do some research.

It would be nice if Clifford Friend could attend this lecture and learn more about the black bear. I've always had respect for Mr. Friend's comments and letters as long as he talked about politics, but when it comes to black bears in Garrett County, I think he's out of his league.

I personally believe that man and bear can live together in Garrett County, if the bears are free of man's intervention.

Robert R. Morgan Sr.
Oakland

To the Editor:

In the last few months there has been letters to the Editor in Allegany and Garrett County newspapers concerning the black bear in Western Maryland.

It was stated in these letters the danger that the black bear would cause the human population, farm animals, etc. First of all, there has not been anyone killed by black bears in the eastern United States since Wildlife Departments have been keeping records on bear, which has been for the last 60-80 years. In Western Maryland we have had bee hives destroyed by bears; this problem is eliminated with electric fence. We also have had only one reported killing of a calf. Also, bear have been accused of other killings such as rabbits and calves, but after an investigation, free roaming dogs were causing the damage.

Black bear are found in heavier populated areas than Allegany and Garrett counties, and no people have been killed or mauled, and no school children have been attacked at bus stops. Northern New Jersey, which has many farms and people, has bears and few problems. Closer to home, Somerset and Westmoreland Counties in Pennsylvania have larger bear populations and more people than Western Maryland. Again, no women, children or livestock have been attacked. West Virginia has black bear, and how many people have been harmed there, based on actual facts and not rumors?

It is the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service's responsibility to manage all wildlife in the State of Maryland, and to provide as much factual information as is available on Maryland's Wildlife. We have available a slide presentation on the black bear in Maryland that is given by our District Wildlife Managers. This presentation could calm many fears that people have about black bears. All we ask before you, the public, form an opinion on the bear is to hear our side of the story, which is based on years of bear research throughout the country, and not tall tales told by people who have never dealt with the bear, except on television or story books.

There are District Managers in Allegany and Garrett County available to give this slide presentation to any group, be they scout, homemaker clubs, 4-H Clubs, social clubs, etc. The District Offices are located at Mt. Nebo, Oakland, 334-4255; and Billmeyer, Flintstone, 478-2525. Also, the Regional office is located in Cumberland, 777-2136. Please give us a call and give the bear a chance.

Sincerely,
Ed Golden
Regional Wildlife Manager

Something To Think About
D. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR
PREPLANNING MAKES SENSE
It would not be amiss for persons during their lifetime to decide what they consider a dignified and meaningful funeral. This phrase has different meanings for different people, almost as wide a range as individual life-styles. A funeral home should make every effort, within reason and propriety, to accommodate these wishes.
Funeral costs should likewise be considered. It is helpful if the survivor understands how funeral charges in the community are computed. This could be investigated during the lifetime of a married couple. In that way, the survivor will be saved the task of making a judgment with respect to these matters at the height of his or her bereavement.
Such costs, as well as the cost of burial or cremation—and usually the cost for arranging the perpetual care of the plot—are considered proper estate expenses and should be billed to the estate.

Lakers Sweep Pair Of Doubleheaders Before Dropping Two To Allegany

The Garrett Community College Lakers swept a pair of doubleheaders over the weekend, both on the road, but the momentum did not stay with them into yesterday afternoon at home as they dropped a pair of games to arch-rival Allegany Community College, 10-2 and 9-4.

Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt's team will take its 19-13 record to Pittsburgh today to face CCAC-Allegheny.

The Laker victories this past weekend included 12-2 and 10-4 decisions over CCAC-Boyce in Pittsburgh on Saturday, followed by 6-3 and 10-3 wins at the Beaver Campus of Penn State on Sunday.

Vaughn Yenich yielded only four hits and fanned eight batters in the first game against Boyce, while Bill Liller held the Pennsylvanians to just five hits in the nightcap.

The Lakers were on top 6-2 after four innings in the opener and then added five runs in the fifth to insure the victory. Jim Keller led off with a single in that frame, followed by back-to-back home runs by Brad Basinger and Bruce Erminio. With two outs, Phil Carr rapped his second triple of the game to bring home Lynny Shook and then Carr scored on a passed ball to stretch the GCC lead to 11-2.

Kent Freeman smacked his 12th homer of the season in the nightcap to highlight a six-run second inning.

Also in that inning Carr had a two run single which scored Rick McPeek and Jeff Veritek, both of whom had reached on singles.

Benny Shreve also rapped his fifth homer of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth inning.

Freeman, who is one of the leading hitters in the JUCO conference, added four more RBIs in the second game against Beaver on Sunday to up his season total to 45.

In the first contest, Erminio hit a key two-run single in the seventh inning to help Denzil Evans preserve a Laker win for starting pitcher Brad Basinger, whose record is now 3-0. Carr, Shreve, and McPeek each finished with two singles.

Freeman had a two-run single, another RBI single, plus an RBI sacrifice fly in the second contest, while Erminio, Shreve, and McPeek each recorded triples. Brian Wagner, who received relief assistance from Evans in the sixth, was credited with the win.

In yesterday's games against ACC the Lakers were dominated by the long ball as the Allegany CC Trojans upped their overall record to 33-5. Garrett did manage to out-hit ACC in the second game, 10-7, but three of the Trojans' hits were home runs, one of them a grand slam. GCC managed only four hits in the opener, compared to 11 by the Trojans, six of them being homers.

ACC went on top 4-0 in the second inning of the first game behind a solo homer by Jim Miller and a two-run blast by Jon Szynal.

The Lakers came back with their only two runs of the game in the bottom of the third as Shreve walked, stole second, and came home on a single by Keller. Basinger then reached base on an error which plated Keller.

A two-run homer by Matt Thomas in the sixth, followed by a single shot by Steve Nemes, put ACC on top 7-2.

A solo shot by Jeff Stenta, followed by Miller's second round-tripper, concluded the scoring.

An RBI double by Gary Pipik in the first inning of the nightcap gave the Trojans a 1-0 lead and they added one more run in the third and five in the fourth to take a 7-0 advantage.

It was in the fourth that Stenta smacked a grand slam and Pipik followed with a single shot over the fence, the second back-to-back homers on the day for the Trojans.

Miller added another ACC run in the sixth with a solo shot.

The Lakers finally picked up a run in the fifth when Freeman singled to right in a bases-loaded situation to bring home Dave McLaughlin. They added their three final runs in the bottom of the seventh as Carr led off with a double and Shreve followed with a home run. Freeman then added another single, Keller walked after being hit with a pitch, and Rick Harasti recorded a double to send home Freeman.

Freeman finished with three hits for the Lakers in the second game, while Shreve and Harasti each had two.

Rams Top BW, Then Split With Berkeley Springs

The Southern High varsity Rams improved their baseball record to 6-4 this past week by whipping Bishop Walsh on Friday, 12-7, in Oakland and then splitting a doubleheader on Saturday at Berkeley Springs. Southern took the opener against Berkeley, 8-3, before being edged in the nightcap, 7-6.

Coach Jim Bosley's team will host Northern this afternoon at 4 p.m., travel to Valley on Friday for a 7:30 p.m. contest, and then play a doubleheader at home on Saturday against Tucker County.

An eight-run second inning was the highlight of the Rams' win over Bishop Walsh, as they recorded six of their dozen hits in that frame. A two-run double by Tim Chapman, plus another double by Max Hill occurred in that inning, which wiped out the Spartans' 2-0 advantage after the first inning.

Hill finished the game with three hits for Southern, while Chad King, Brian Glass, and Jon Reneslacis each recorded two.

A three-run homer by Tom Elliott in the fifth inning, followed by a two-run shot in the sixth by Kevin Coulehan accounted for the remainder of the Spartans' runs. The Rams added three more runs in the third and one in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Dale Bittinger, who was relieved in the sixth by Phil Spaulding, was credited with the win, his second of the season against no defeats. Kevin Jessie absorbed the loss for BW.

The Rams jumped out to a 3-0 advantage in the first inning of the opener against Berkeley Springs on Saturday.

Reneslacis led off the inning with a walk, Chapman reached on an error, and then J.R. Bosley and Jeff Sweitzer smacked back-to-back doubles to account for the first two runs. Max Hill followed with an RBI single.

The West Virginians came back with a pair of runs in the third inning on an error, a double, and a wild pitch to narrow the Rams' lead to one; however Southern answered with two more runs in the fourth.

Glass led off the fourth with a single, Horner followed with an RBI single and then came home himself on an error.

The Rams added three more runs in the fifth to put the game out of reach. Southern led off with a pair of walks, Robert Goad followed with an RBI squeeze bunt, Chad King rapped a single, and a third run scored on an error.

Reneslacis upped his personal record to 4-0 on the mound for the Rams after receiving some relief help by Spaulding in the sixth inning. John Clatterbuck took the loss for Berkeley Springs.

It was only the fourth loss against ten wins for Berkeley.

The first inning of the nightcap was a repeat for the Rams as they again took a 3-0 lead, highlighted by a solo home run by Donnie Horner on the second pitch of the game.

The score was tied at 5-5 heading into the fifth inning when the Rams picked up another run to take a 6-5 lead. However, Berkeley Springs' Tom McClintock smacked a two-run homer in the sixth to give his team the victory.

Toby Stotler finished with three hits for the winners, while Horner hit two for the Rams.

Scott Lohr started on the mound for the Rams. Bruce Bosley, took over in the fifth, was relieved in the sixth by Spaulding, who took the loss. Unger was the winning pitcher.

In jayvee action the Southern team upped its record to 2-0 on Friday with a 3-2 defeat of Bishop Walsh.

Southern was held to only one hit in the game, while BW recorded five hits. Jason Park, the winning pitcher for the second time in two games, had the Rams' only hit, a double in the last inning. He moved to third on a wild pitch and then came home with the winning score on a throwing error by the catcher.

The jayvee Rams are slated to play again this afternoon against Northern following the varsity game.

Huskies Edge Bulldogs Before Loss To Spartans

After getting off to an 0-6 start this season, the young Northern Huskies captured their fourth straight win on Friday by edging visiting Bruce, 11-9. The win streak was halted on Monday, however, as a seventh inning rally against Bishop Walsh fell short and the Huskies lost, 7-5, also on the Northern diamond.

The Huskies smacked ten hits in the win over Bruce, while Wayne Tabor and Rodney Lipscomb held the Bulldogs to just four hits.

Northern scored in every inning of the game, highlighted by a solo home run in the first and a two-run double in the fourth by Lipscomb, plus a two-run blast in the fifth by Junior Savage. Tabor and Jim Brady each finished with a double and a single.

Bobby Marsh and Dave Shaw led Bruce with two RBIs each. It was the ninth loss against four wins for the Bulldogs.

Savage and Lipscomb again led the Huskies hitting in the game against Bishop Walsh on Monday, as each of them finished with two singles. However, the Spartans rapped out a dozen hits, picked up two runs in the seventh inning, and stopped a rally by the Huskies in the bottom of the seventh to preserve their win.

Frank Cornachia and Denny Martin each hit RBI doubles in the second inning to give the Spartans a 4-1 lead at that point.

The Huskies came back with single runs in the second and third frames to narrow BW's advantage to 4-3, however a single by Craig Clay in the sixth gave the visitors a 5-3 lead.

Mike Wilson doubled for BW in the seventh and scored on a single by Jessie, who later came home on an error to close out the Spartans' scoring.

Sean Jones smacked a two-run single in the bottom of the seventh to bring the Huskies back within two runs, however Cornachia retired the side to end the game.

Bill Keegan, who was relieved by Cornachia in the fifth, was given credit for the win, while Todd Wagner took the loss.

Southern Jayvees Nip Keyser To Remain Unbeaten

The Southern High jayvee baseball team remained undefeated on the season by nipping Keyser, 7-6, in an extra inning contest yesterday in Oakland.

Jason Park's single wth bases loaded and two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning gave the Rams their third straight win. Park finished with two singles, while Jamie Colaw recorded a two-run homer for the Rams.

Pat Henline, who relieved Park on the mound, was credited with the win.

Coach Ed Wildesen's Rams will play Northern at home this afternoon following the varsity game.

Northern Girls Lose To Keyser

The Northern High girls tennis team dropped a match to visiting Keyser, 7-2, on the Lady Huskies courts.

Jennifer Dailey won the only singles match on the day for Northern, and then teamed up with Tanya Burdock to capture a doubles event.

Plans Finalized For Children's Lit. Festival

Participants of Frostburg State College's spring festival of children's literature, set for May 9 and 10 in the Lane Center, will have the opportunity to participate in a number of small group sessions, all planned around children's books, festival organizers reported this week.

Registrants may select two from six small group topics, scheduled for 10:10 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. on Saturday.

R. Anthony Baraloto in his presentation, "The Value of Microcomputer Software," will show and discuss computer software applicable to children's literature. Baraloto is a computer evaluation assistant with Montgomery County public schools.

Another group leader Jimmie Cook, dean of the School of Education Technology at Kean College of New Jersey, will address, "Children in Crisis: A Literature Approach," Dr. Cook will present examples of how children's literature can help children who are suffering problems associated with divorce, death and abuse. His wife, Pamela Cook, also of Kean College, will speak on "Props to Enrich Literature," using such classroom aids as puppets and flannel boards.

Also leading a group session will be Lorriane Disque, library media specialist of Walkersville Elementary School in Frederick County. She will share ideas using trade books to help teachers enrich the primary language arts curriculum.

In "Birthdays, Celebrations and Holidays," books for the school year, speakers Donna DiSanti and Linda Gerwig, media specialists of George's Creek and Bel Air Elementary Schools respectively, will explain how teachers might plan a literature program with books aimed at specific holidays and celebrations.

Estelle B. Williamson, a retired Baltimore schoolteacher, plans a session called "Language Development Through Picture Books."

The fourth annual children's literature festival, according to earlier stories, will also feature Keynote speaker Peter Spier, who has garnered two Caldecott awards for Noah's Ark in 1978 and The Fox Went Out On A Chilly Night in 1962.

credit for these services when computing the tax differential within municipalities and that the law should be amended to provide for this. Mayor Alexander pointed out to the council that the town only claims those items which are a duplication of services.

He stated that in a court case of the Circuit Court of Garrett County, the court ruled on the tax differential, stating it concerns only the situation where the county and the municipality provide services which are sufficiently similar to result in double taxation. He said that he was disappointed at the legislators for even thinking of changing this law.

The mayor read a letter from Senator Bambacus which stated that "...no changes in the tax differential law are anticipated at this time."

The projected expenses for the Trout Run Treatment Plant for FY 86-87 was discussed. Wendel Beitzel is to send a revised statement showing a breakdown of the operating revenue from Oakland, Broadford School and Garrett Crossroads. The mayor also informed the council that a month or so ago he had read an article in the local paper in which Beitzel, administrator of Garrett County Sanitary Commission, stated that the creation of a new sanitary district in Shady Acres Development would help ease the sewer moratorium which is now in effect in the town. Mayor Alexander pointed out to council that creation of any new districts would not help the town and that the only way the moratorium would be lifted would be the updating of the Trout Run Treatment Plant.

He said that the Trout Run Treatment Plant was only in operation for five years when it became obsolete and a sewer moratorium was placed on the town by the state health department. The mayor further stated that the town has a list of people wanting sewer taps in order to build in the town. At this time, 81 taps are needed to fill these orders. He said that the large amounts of money spent by the town over the past seven years to reduce infiltration and inflow in the town sewer system should result in some taps for the town, but this will depend on the approval of the state health department.

The amended copy of the franchise agreement with Columbia Gas of Maryland was read and discussed by the town council. After much discussion, it was agreed that the requirements to obtain a permit to excavate and repair utility lines be incorporated into the franchise agreement. The amended agreement was approved by the town council.

Mayor Alexander and Councilman Charles McIntyre met with John Morris and George Brady of the board of education to discuss the sewer line at Dennett Road School and the town sewer system. The town will work with the board of education to find the source of the problem and alleviate it.

Hospice Board Meets, Slates Fund-Raisers

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc. Board of Directors met Thursday, April 24, at the Garrett County Health Department Assembly Room.

Major topics discussed were an Agreement for Hospice Care and Release of Information form which was approved and is now policy. This informs the patient and their family of hospice philosophy, policy, and by their signature gives permission to release information to necessary health, social, medical facility, physicians and rescue squads when necessary.

Four silent sweepers have been acquired. Kelly's Appliance and Furniture and A.D. Naylor's Hardware each donated one sweeper. Twenty-seven patient gowns were made to be used by hospice patients. The Cherry Glade and Maple Glen Mennonite Sewing Groups made the gowns from materials purchased by Hospice from donations and memorials from the community.

Meetings of the Hospice volunteers, patient and auxiliary, were scheduled. The auxiliary met Thursday evening to discuss up-coming fundraisers such as the raffle for a dump truck load of wood; Weekend-Get-Away drawing; golf tournament, sponsored by Adolph Coors Co. and Lohr's Distributing June 7 at Oakland Country Club (call 334-3883 for more information); fourth annual yard sale June 28 at Fitzwater Furniture; bake sale at the Fourth of July Celebration at Broadford Park. Persons who have items for the auction may call 334-8111 or 895-3111 for information.

Johnson noted once again that Hospice receives no monies from any government agency. All funds must be raised via fundraisers or from donations, memorials or through hospice membership. All contributions are tax-deductible.

Hospice has been declared eligible for non-profit bulk mailing and has already saved the fees necessary for the bulk mailing, Johnson said.

The Membership Drive began last month and is going well, although donations are coming in slowly, he said. Another mailing is planned for the near future. Persons interested in joining Hospice are asked to call 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Should any club or organization have need of a program and want to find out more about hospice, its goals, objectives and philosophy, persons may call Johnson at 334-8111 or 895-3111 between 8 a.m. and noon.

GOP Women Meet

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women recently held their April meeting at the Knights of Pythias Building in Oakland. The club was led in the pledge of allegiance to the American flag and the Lord's Prayer by Sue Shockey, president.

After the regular business meeting, the club heard the first of several guest speakers, State's Attorney Jim Sherbin and Sheriff Van Evans, who addressed the issue of drug abuse in the public schools and the various efforts by their departments to combat the problem. They were followed by Paul Shockey, administrator of the Garrett County Roads Department, who explained the different aspects of Garrett County's extensive roads system.

The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments were served by William Calhoun and Glenna DeWitt.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

Rotary Notes

Members of the Terra Alta Rotary Club visited Hopemont on April 17 for an evening of singing with the residents of that institution.

Lee Rice announced that he will have the program for May 22 which will be held at the Communications Satellite Corporation at Etam. A tour of the facility and explanation of its purpose will be provided.

The club's board of directors met recently and it was decided with the assembly vote that members of the club will participate in the Health Fair to be held in the fall.

May is usually the month for the Senior Citizen recognition. It probably will be held May 1.

It is still not too late for Rotarians to apply for attendance at the International Convention of Rotary to be held in Las Vegas June 1 through 4.

Mammography New Service At Garrett County Memorial

by Pam Ashby

Mammography is not a new science. It actually dates back 30 years but was developed into a more exact and safe procedure in the early 1970's. In the early days of mammography, doctors and technicians had to weigh the benefits and risks more carefully because the radiation exposure was so great. Today, the risks have been greatly reduced and many women can determine whether or not the lumps in their breasts are benign or cancerous with the simple procedure called mammography.

In the not too distant past, mammograms were available only in larger metropolitan hospitals and health centers, but Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently acquired the "state of the art equipment" required to do mammograms by converting a radiology machine already in place at the hospital. The cost was $100,000 as opposed to $250,000 for a new unit.

Rick Shaffer, director of radiology services at GCMH, explained that the procedure for taking pictures of the interior of the breasts is a simple procedure that is painless to the patient. He noted that the hospital has done nearly 75 mammograms since the machine become available.

"In the few months we've offered the service," said Shaffer, "we've proven the need for this technology in Garrett County."

The director said many women will discover lumps in their breasts and ignore it, hoping it will go away. He said it was important to have any lump or dimpling of the breast examined by a physician. "The doctor will then refer the patient to us if he feels the lump requires further study," said Shaffer.

Mammography also serves as a useful tool for the patient's medical history. Shaffer recommends that all women at the age of 35 should have a mammogram which will be part of their medical file for comparison in later years should problems arise.

Mammograms are done in two ways. The standard method is with film, such as an x-ray. The other method is called Xeroradiography in which the technician uses a copier to process x-ray images on paper. Shaffer says this method gives a more detailed picture and is faster and easier to interpret than film.

Xeroradiographs can show breast cancers as small as 1 mm - many times smaller than the 1 cm cancers physicians can palpate.

Presently, two radiology technicians are trained to take mammograms. They are Rosalie Finch and Mary Lewis.

Who Should Have Mammograms?

Patients who are to undergo mammography can be divided into two categories; those with clinical disease, and those in whom the examination is performed as a screening procedure.

All women (or men) who are going to have a biopsy of the breast or the axillary lymph nodes as a diagnostic procedure should undergo bilateral mammography before the surgery is performed.

Certain indications for breast x-ray examination are well-established. The following guidelines for mammography, in order of priority, are listed below:

1. Previous mastectomy (to follow the remaining breast).
2. Preoperative mammography (to detect clinically occult lesions).
3. Dominant palpable mass (to evaluate other areas prior to surgery).
4. Breast changes (ulceration, dimpling, discharge, nipple retraction or skin thickening.)
5. Strong family history of carcinoma.
6. Previous biopsy.
7. Women who have never had children; women who have children after age 28, and girls who have their first menstrual cycle before age 13.
8. Chronic cystic disease.
9. Large or difficult breasts to palpate.
10. Routine annual screening of women 35-40 and older.
11. Previous breast reduction or augmentation.
12. Cancerophobia (fear of cancer).

Foremost Killer

One of every 15 American women will develop breast cancer, which is the leading cause of death among women 40-44 years of age and the second largest killer of women in other age groups.

In the past 35 years, there has been no great reduction on the shocking breast cancer mortality rate. The American Cancer Society estimates that 88,000 women will develop breast cancer in 1975 and 33,600 will die of the disease.

If breast cancer is diagnosed and treated early, while still confined to the breast, 85% of patients survive five years or more. Despite advances in diagnostic methods, 95% of women continue to find their own breast cancers by self-examination. Unfortunately, 60% of these palpable cancers have already spread to the axillary lymph nodes. At this stage, there is only a 40-45% chance for survival.

The only way to improve survival is through early detection of smaller cancers, which typically have not spread beyond the breast. Mammography often can reveal the presence of early carcinoma - before the patient has symptoms and before a mass is palpable.

Shaffer reminds women that they must be referred by their physicians for mammography. He further noted that the procedure at GCMH maintains the dignity for the patient.

Personal Account

The following personal account was written by a local woman who has undergone two mammographies in the past ten years.

"Even though my first mammogram was done ten years ago, my thoughts at that time could be identifiable with someone in a similar situation today.

"Upon seeing a gynecologist for my regular check-up, a lump was found in each breast. The doctor ordered the mammogram and it was scheduled within a few weeks.

"This occurred during December when I would have been attending a holiday dinner party. I was afraid I would have to miss the annual event because I would be in the hospital for surgery. I also feared the lumps would be malignant and that both breasts would have to be removed.

"When the mammography was completed, I'm sure the radiologist sensed my anxiety because I was told to wait for the interpretation. The film was developed within a matter of minutes. I was told there was nothing to worry about and that the doctor would confirm this information.

The next day I was contacted by my doctor and he told me I had fibro cystic disease (a lot of milk glands fed by taking birth control pills). Once I stopped taking the pill, the lumps disappeared.

"Since this service is now available at GCMH, I recently had another mammogram (a baseline) done here upon the recommendation of my physician."

Administrators at the hospital are happy to have the service available for the local citizens of the county feeling it is in keeping with the Wellness Together Program now instituted at the hospital.

"We are constantly looking to provide better services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and to provide them in a cost-effective way," said Ben Rosenthal, assistant administrator. "It once took at least a half a day for a local patient to travel to Cumberland or Morgantown, W. Va. to have the same screening provided. We're here to serve the local people and we are proving that we can do it."

REVEALING, YET PAINLESS is the best way to describe a mammogram. Mammography is now available at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for those who have been referred by their physicians for the test. Nearly 75 women have been screened for possible breast cancer since the hospital began offering this service a few months ago, according to Rick Shaffer, head of the Radiology Department at the hospital. Pictured above, is technician Mary Lewis preparing to take a mammogram on a woman who discovered lumps in her breasts ten years ago. She was diagnosed at that time as having fibro cystic disease. She is still cancer-free and her doctor can confirm that every few years with the science of mammography.

Glades Chapter Of DAR Meets

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the DAR met at the home of Mrs. Robert Proudfoot on April 21, with 24 members present. The opening ritual was led by Mrs. Richard Sherwood, Regent. Reports were given by secretary, Mrs. Robert DeWitt, and by the treasurer, Mrs. Charles Thomas. The president general's message and the national defense report were read by Mrs. Sherwood.

Mrs. Asa Lewis, chaplain, gave a short talk, followed by prayer in memory of deceased members Mrs. Reaford Purbaugh, Mrs. E. Ray Jones and Mrs. Hervey Smouse. A donation in their memory had been made to the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, and a letter acknowledging the gift was read.

A program was presented by Mrs. Jeanne Whitehair, assisted by her daughter, Jennifer. Mrs. Whitehair is a diagnostic and prescriptive resource teacher, and her work is under the sponsorship of the Garrett County Board of Education. Using the "Go-Getter" puppets they demonstrated how handicapped children can be helped. Two scripts portrayed children with various handicaps. Mrs. Whitehair has presented her puppet programs to many handicapped children in a number of schools in Maryland and other places. She said that children who have disabilities can readily identify with the puppets and learn to understand and to accept their own disabilities more easily. A question and answer session followed the program.

The business meeting continued with reports on the Continental Congress by Mrs. Robert Zeller, Mrs. Charles Thomas and Mrs. Richard Sherwood. Mrs. Paul Calderwood read an address which was given at the Founders' Day Meeting held in Hagerstown.

The nominating committee submitted a slate of names for officers for the ensuing year. It was unanimously voted to accept the list as presented, and the new officers will be installed at the next meeting.

Donations of five dollars or more are being accepted from members. This money will be used to help with the publication of the cemetery book.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Proudfoot, Mrs. Charles Thomas and Mrs. William Friend.

The chapter will meet again on May 19, at which time a patriotic program will be presented by Mrs. Paul Calderwood and Mrs. Luther Parrack.

Public Hearings Scheduled For Aging Services

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the State Office on Aging, has announced a series of hearings throughout the State of Maryland's Annual Plan for aging programs and services during Fiscal Year 1987.

She said the hearings offer an opportunity for senior citizens to present their views on such subjects as housing, long term care, senior centers, nutrition and Medicare, as well as on other issues regarding senior citizen programs and services, as provided primarily through local Area Agencies on Aging.

Comments received at the hearings will be considered in formulating the final Annual Plan to be approved by the Governor and the Federal Government.

"We urge senior citizens, their elected officials and members of the general public to attend these hearings," Abrams said. "Fiscal Year 1987 could be a very critical one for determining priorities to meet the service needs of our State's growing elderly population, in the face of possible severe reductions in Federal funding."

The hearing for Garrett and Allegany counties will be Tuesday, May 20, 1-3 p.m., at the Allegany County Area Agency on Aging auditorium, 19 Frederick Street, Cumberland.

Copies of the Office on Aging proposed Statement of Priorities may be obtained in advance of the hearing from local Area Agency on Aging offices, listed in the "Community Services" section of C & P telephone directories.

Skiing, Indoor Activities Score Spending Gains

Marylanders spent more than $67.2 million on taxable entertainment during the third quarter of Fiscal Year 1986 (January, February and March, 1986), which is down slightly from the $68.8 million reported during the same period of Fiscal Year 1985, but movies and other indoor leisure activities showed strong gains, stated Louis L. Goldstein, State Comptroller.

Skiing was among the traditional winter activities benefited from significant increases in spending, despite the relatively mild winter weather. "Spending for snow skiing admissions and equipment rentals totaled $1.2 million, up by 34%, while skating rentals amounted to $1.6 million, a 31% jump", explained Goldstein.

According to the comptroller's figures, spending for night club admissions increased by 36% to $2.9 million. Attendance at movies resulted in spending of $12.7 million, up 4.7%.

As expected, Marylanders spent less money on admission to athletic events and on coin operated amusement devices such as arcade video games.

Comptroller Goldstein says "All of this leisure time spending resulting in admissions and amusement tax revenue which is being returned to Maryland's counties, cities and towns. Checks totaling $4,420,354 are being sent to the state's counties, cities and towns as their share of the admissions and amusement tax revenue for the third quarter of Fiscal Year 1986. That's 1.2% less than the $4,473,344 they received for the same period of Fiscal Year 1985.

The State Comptroller's Office collects admissions and amusement taxes at rates set by local elected officials, and returns the revenue on a quarterly basis. For the third quarter of Fiscal Year 1986, the amount returned to Garrett County was $38,424, compared to $30,041 after the third quarter of 1985.

Mathias Closing District Office

Senator Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.) announced this week that, effective June 2, his Cumberland District Office will be closed for the remainder of his term.

"Regular visits by his staff will continue in Allegany and Garrett counties through November," Mathias said. "Constituents in Western Maryland will continue to be served."

A schedule of those visits will be announced. Constituents will also be able to call Mathias' Washington Office at (202-224-4654), Baltimore at (301-962-4850), and Lanham (301-344-2453) offices for prompt attention or can write to him at 387 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Mathias has maintained the constituent services office in Cumberland since 1977 when he took it over from former U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall Jr.

Aircraft To Begin Area Gypsy Moth Control In May

As gypsy moth egg masses begin to hatch, the Maryland Department of Agriculture's (MDA) Gypsy Moth Survey and Control Section is making final preparations for the 1986 aerial suppression program against the gypsy moth.

MDA, in cooperation with participating counties, plans to treat 94,000 acres of trees that are heavily infested with gypsy moth. Seventy-nine thousand acres will be treated with the insect growth regulator, Dimilin. The other 15,000 acres will be treated with Bacillus thuringiensis (B.t.).

Approximately 50 percent of the proposed treatment area occurs in Allegany (28,000 acres), Garrett (4,500 acres), Washington (600 acres) and Frederick (12,400 acres) counties. Some 33 percent of the treatment will take place in the Piedmont counties, while the remainder of the treatment will occur in eastern suburbanized counties. No spraying will be done in Baltimore City.

Based on surveys conducted in the fall and winter of 1985, specific treatment areas were selected in January and landowners in these sites were notified individually by MDA in February and early March. Maps depicting spray areas in each county are posted in the Cooperative Extension Service Office in that county.

Treatment areas will receive one insecticide application using helicopters or single-engine airplanes. Treatment began on Monday, April 28, in the southernmost counties and will conclude by the end of May or early June in the western counties of Allegany and Garrett. Insecticide applications will begin at dawn each day and continue as long as conditions permit (usually until 9 or 10 a.m.).

When applying insecticides, aircraft will fly 25 to 50 feet above the trees and will be only slightly higher during approaches and while turning. This is a relatively low altitude for most aircraft but not for the spray aircraft. All pilots are licensed with the Federal Aviation Administration; are certified by MDA to apply insecticides over forested, residential and suburban areas; and are required to have extensive experience applying pesticides to forests. Their first priority is to operate the aircraft in a safe manner at all times.

All spraying will be confined to specific treatment sites where residents have consented to the insecticide application. However, residents near treatment areas will also experience these low flying aircraft, but there is no cause for alarm.

More detailed information concerning the 1986 gypsy moth suppression program may be obtained through the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service office or by contacting Robert Tichenor or Nathan Erwin at MDA Headquarters in Annapolis, 841-5922.

Tourism Week Being Supported Again By Coke

The 15 Maryland Coca-Cola bottlers have teamed up with the Maryland Travel Council and the Maryland Office of Tourist Development to sponsor a giant Sweepstakes to call attention to Maryland Tourism Week May 18-25.

The sweepstakes, featuring 30 vacation trips around Maryland and a grand prize trip to Scandinavia, will operate between May 18 and May 31. Persons may register to win anywhere Coca-Cola products are sold or at the Maryland State Information Centers.

The sweepstakes, a new event this year, has been added by the groups to the already existing programs that Coca-Cola sponsors each year. Other promotions include "Coke Is It" on Maryland truck backs and point-of-purchase materials, litter bags and t-shirts to be given away at the Information Centers. Coca-Cola sampling will also be offered at the Centers throughout Maryland Tourism Week.

According to John Grove of Hagerstown Coca-Cola, who spearheaded the efforts to promote tourism in Maryland, Coca-Cola recognizes the importance of tourism in the state. "The state brings in $3.8 billion and employs over 84,000 persons proving that tourism works for Maryland," he said.

Grove said additional trivia contests are also being included statewide on radio.

The entire effort will cost the Maryland Coca-Cola bottlers about $15,000.

The 15 bottlers involved in the promotion include:

Annapolis Coca-Cola, Havre DeGrace Coca-Cola, Cambridge Coca-Cola, Easton Coca Cola, Salisbruy Coca-Cola Westminster Coca-Cola Central Coca-Cola, (Cumberland, Hagerstown, and Oakland) and Mid-Atlantic Coca Cola (Baltimore, LaPlata Rockville, Capital Heights Frederick and Silver Spring).

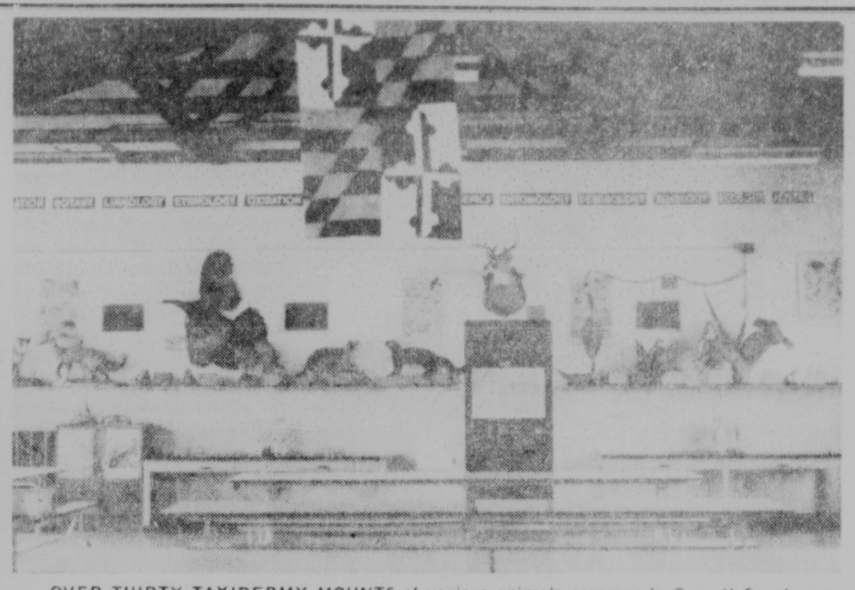
Insight Into Education



OVER THIRTY TAXIDERMY MOUNTS of various animals common to Garrett County are displayed in Camp Hickory's interpretive nature hall, pictured above. The hall also features numerous collections dealing with rocks and minerals, insects, fruits and seeds, bird nests, insect homes and an observation bee hive. Pictured below is Camp Hickory's pine plantation. At the camp, students learn to tell the age and identification of various Garrett County trees.

The following article was written by Joseph L. Winters, Coordinator of Environmental Education for Garrett County.

Here in far western Maryland, our students can experience two types of learning resources that, believe it or not, are not available in all public school systems in Maryland. These resources are the planetarium chamber/classroom in Oakland and Camp Hickory which is situated on an 80 plus acre wooded tract adjacent to Northern Middle School off Route 219 North.

Camp Hickory had its beginning back in 1965 through federal monies (ESEA Title I) under the direction and leadership of Charles F. Strauss, Sr. who has since retired and Willard Hawkins, who was superintendent at that time. Since 1972, funding of the program has come from local dollars.

If you were to visit this center today, you would find nature trails throughout the wooded area as well as a trail to a small stream, Cove Run. In addition there is an apiary, an arboretum and several areas that receive extensive use in the summer, a swimming pool, archery range and sheltered picnic table areas.

Should you enter the interpretative nature hall on your visit, you will find over thirty taxidermy mounts of various animals common to Garrett County. There are also numerous collections on display dealing with rocks and minerals, insects, fruits and seeds, bird nests, insect homes coupled with other interesting nature items such as an observation bee hive. Additional features at our facility are heated sleeping areas that can accommodate approximately a hundred people and a fully equipped school kitchen. The interpretive nature hall is not only a learning center but also serves as a meeting and dining hall.

Over the past five or six years we have become actively involved in two state-wide programs on a voluntary basis. We are an integral part of the Maryland Agricultural Weather Network (MAWN) which is a system of stations set up for collecting weather data daily and reporting this data using a computerized telephone response system. Also Camp Hickory is a collecting and reporting station for the Cooperative Extension Serivce, through the University of Maryland, Department of Entomology, in the Mid-Atlantic Blacklight Insect Trap Program. This program monitors the population and life cycles of various agricultural insect pests from early spring through late fall.

During the school year, day and overnight classes are scheduled by teachers on a "first call-first served" basis. These sessions are designed to introduce, review and/or reinforce the natural sciences curriculum for that grade level. Some of these nature study topics center around seasonal changes, soil, weather instruments, Garrett County plants and animals, trees (age and ID), food chains, rocks and minerals, compass orientation.

Part of the fall and spring seasons bring the seventh grade students from both middle schools to Camp Hickory at various times for a three-day resident program. Their activities are also centered around the science program which emphasizes the life sciences at this grade level.

For a number of years, the summer months have seen a five-week resident program evolve. Fourth grade students from the various schools have an opportunity to attend a week-long resident program. Activities during their scheduled week include nature study, swimming with instruction, orienteering, computer experiences, archery and nature crafts. To round out the summer program, all special education students in our school system can take part in a week-long resident program.

Because of all of the scheduled learning opportunities available during the school year and summer months, over 3,000 Garrett County students on the average each year have participated in one or more of these activities.

Budgeting and staffing of the environmental education center is provided through the Garrett County Board of Education. In addition to myself as coordinator/teacher, the support staff includes an instructional assistant, Lisa K. Baker, a cafeteria manager/cook, Mary E. DeWitt, and a part-time custodian, Delmar Rodeheaver. Additional summer support personnel for the cafeteria as well as for the care and maintenance of the grounds and facility are provided by the Summer Youth Employment Program. This program has proven to be invaluable.

In addition to providing a work site for SYEP, our summer program also provides an employment opportunity for college students from this area. Over the past several years Camp Hickory has also been the site of a two-week statewide conservation workshop for high school students sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards.

Quite often the facility is "booked" for weekend retreats by various area church groups. The Garrett County Girl Scouts have also held weekend camps over the past years.

Worth noting here is the fact that the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts at their winter meeting this past January through their grant program has awarded Camp Hickory two grants, in the sum of $500. These grants are for conservation-related projects for teaching, promoting, or applying conservation principles in solving natural resource problems.

Perhaps a good summarization of what Camp Hickory is all about is expressed on a large oak plaque that was presented by the Garrett Forestry Board. It reads "in recognition of Camp Hickory for its efforts on behalf of the youth of Garrett County".

FSC Astronomer Becoming Known For Presentations

Cornell University can claim Carl Sagan, but Frostburg State College has its own prolific astronomer, Robert Doyle.

Counting all his writings and off-campus work, the physics professor for the past ten years has established for himself and the college a reputation for imaginative shows and lectures on a wide range of celestial events.

Long before Halley's Comet captivated the country, Dr. Doyle, in addition to a regular teaching load at Frostburg, took on the responsibility of writing a weekly Sunday newspaper column, "Under Cumberland Skies," complete with star maps and monthly computer programs.

A recent program written in BASIC, for example, allowed the home computer hobbyist to compute the age or phase of the moon for any month in any year.

Recently, Dr. Doyle's column has been helping amateur astronomers track Halley's Comet and reminding area residents of special free weekly public programs the college offers in its Tawes Hall planetarium. The planetarium is the only such facility in western Maryland open to the public.

While the planetarium stages an occasional pre-packaged program like the recent "Comet Halley: Once in a Lifetime," produced by the American Chemical Society, most of nine monthly shows, running from September through May, are the creative products of Dr. Doyle himself.

He tries to create several new shows every year, including his current program, titled "The Living Universe."

Requiring some 40-50 hours of work, Dr. Doyle, sometimes with the assistance of a student or two, collects color slides, writes a script and generally packages the show much like any theatrical production. Students and the professor handle speaking parts and record the audio; once the tape is finished, it joins the planetarium's interchangeable repertoire of scientific star shows, ranging from "Have You Ever Seen a Hairy Star? ' to "Mysteries of Deep Space."

Wednesday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 1:30 p.m., the college's planetarium is open to the public, free of charge, for up to fifty persons who relax in reclined seats, gathered around the Planetarium projector, to take in a two-hour multi-media show. The three part Wednesday evening and Sunday afternoon programs include an electronic light show, a live presentation of the current night sky and concludes with the scheduled main feature. A yearly brochure is published by the college listing the monthly features as well as free school programs and tri-state area celestial highlights. A monthly news sheet, "Heavenly Happenings," is also made available to planetarium guests and others.

Like so many public offerings today, planetariums have also moved into the entertainment business. "I try to create some excitement and capture the audience's attention first," said Dr. Doyle, "and then, using the live lecture and special slide show, introduce the educational material."

When weather permits, planetarium visitors often join the professor outdoors with Sky Cannon, a huge, but portable telescope for on-campus sky gazing.

To date, Dr. Doyle has authored over 75 planetarium scripts covering the whole gamut of topics from Stonehenge to black holes and science fiction titles like "Voyage To The Edge of The Universe" to "UFO's: Pranksters From Outer Space?"

"I enjoy the creative outlet writing gives me," he said, admitting he sometimes becomes overextended. Besides his writing—usually accomplished on weekends at home—he also has, for the past four years, volunteered his time every Friday to teach elementary school students about astronomy with a portable planetarium call Starlab.

Spending an entire school day with classes of about 30 students each, Dr. Doyle gives about six to 13 half-hour presentations. This past fall, he also introduced a biological show, "A Visit To A Cell," which explores the inner workings of a living cell.

But astronomy remains his priority, and for primary, middle and high school students, the professor will present on-campus planetarium presentations. For these groups, too, Dr. Doyle will offer programs tailored to different academic levels. For middle school youngsters, he offers "The Seasons," explaining the earth's primary motions, or "Indian Star Myths." For high school students, there's the planetarium's Spanish, French or German language sky program as well as others.

Next fall, a number of improvements are planned, including digital sound (in the light shows), a new video presentation for the current night sky (called "Sky Busters") and a new Saturday course for primary students entitled "Computers in Space."

The Frostburg State College Planetarium is in the front lobby of Tawes Hall in the middle of the Frostburg State College with convenient parking close by.

Input Sought On Distribution Of Overcharges

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says an information packet is available for Western Maryland individuals and agencies in Western Maryland area who want to suggest publicly how the State of Maryland should distribute the $36.4 million it received as a result of a settlement between Exxon and the U.S. Department of Energy in an overcharge case. He says the packet is "important" because it gives specific guidelines on eligible programs and pre-registration information.

A public hearing seeking proposals from government agencies, private and non-profit agencies and individuals is scheduled for Thursday, May 8, in the county commissioners meeting room on the second floor of the County Office Building at 3 Pershing Street in Cumberland. It will begin at 3:00 p.m.

Thirty-eight individuals and agencies testified in the first set of hearings in the metropolitan Baltimore and Washington, D.C. areas.

Individuals wishing to testify are requested to register in advance, limit oral testimony to five minutes and submit 12 copies of written proposals. Interested persons may call (301) 269-3131 to receive an information packet.

Goldstein serves as chairman of the Energy Overcharge Restitution Fund which must recommend specific uses for Maryland's share of the overcharge case.

"Under the terms of the settlement and federal law, the money from the Exxon case must be spent under one of five federally established, state-level programs concerning energy," he said.

The eligible programs include residential weatherization, institutional weatherization, low income energy assistance, state energy conservation programs or state energy extension services.

A total of nine public hearings are being held throughout Maryland by the Energy Overcharge Restitution Trust Fund's Board of Trustees.

You call all the shots when you buy a home package from A&A Construction
And we have an exciting variety of new ideas available for you!
In the past, about your only option in building a new home was to go to a builder and give him your requirements. Then the builder would show you what he had to offer in the way of home packages from the one manufacturer he represented. If you were lucky, he'd have something you might like. Then you'd sign papers, pay money and the builder would take over.
This ruled out all the nice options most home buyers would have liked. For example, maybe you'd want a special all-glass greenhouse on the end of your new home. Or perhaps you'd want the energy efficiency of foam core construction. Or maybe you'd like a solid log structure built to special modern-day design.
At A&A Construction, we recognize that every person interested in building a new home is different. Talents and interests vary. For example, you probably want something really special, something a bit unique, and there's a good chance that you will want to be involved in the actual construction to a greater or lesser extent.
Maybe you have the time and the expertise necessary to serve as your own general contractor. Perhaps you'd like to do all the plumbing work yourself. Or maybe your good friend also is a builder and you want him to build your new home for you.
All these options are open to you when you come to us for consultation about your new home. And substantial savings often can be passed directly to you in the form of lower prices.
Architectural/Structural Options
The traditional home builder represents a single line of packaged or pre-built homes. He might be able to offer you a "stick-built" home, but you'd have to provide the architectural plans yourself. But A&A Construction offers packages from a variety of manufacturers.
Modular homes? They've come a long way since they were nothing more than a couple of trailers pulled in beside each other. A&A represents the Polaron Company which manufactures truly unique, very attractive modular structures which, in addition to being extremely functional homes, reduce construction time to a bare minimum. After you've seen the Polaron line, you'll have a completely different idea of what a modular home can be.
Panelized homes? The idea of panelized homes means that large portions of the structure are pre-built at the factory. Walls go up in large pieces and often, the exterior and interior finishing already is done. This process greatly speeds the construction process but in the past, it locked the builder into a not-too-attractive set of options. Homecraft has carried the concept of panelized construction to a far greater sophistication than most others in the field, opening the way for you to innovate and finish with a truly striking, handsome and functional home without all the hassle of stick construction. Because of its unique quality and design options, A&A Construction has selected Homecraft as another unique building option to offer its customers.

Log home structures. Natural insulation and solid construction make log structures an increasingly popular form of home construction today. Traditionally, folks have considered solid log construction only when thinking of traditional "log cabin" architecture. But that's no longer true. A&A Construction can put together a package of solid logs and related materials for construction of a surprising variety of modern, contemporary, or traditional homes. And because of our unique supplier-direct arrangements with Wholesale Supplies Company, substantial savings can result. If you haven't considered the advantages of solid log construction, you need to learn more from A&A Construction.
Lincoln Homes. A&A Construction has represented Lincoln Homes for nearly two decades. Numerous and varied models have been built during this time and the Lincoln Home line—from a quaint A-frame to a sprawling ranch—offers a variety and solid value which significantly enhance the product line offered by A&A Construction.
Unique builder options abound at A&A. We're keenly interested in innovation and modern building techniques and materials. That's why we represent Delta Industries, leader in modern foam core panel building systems which offer unparalleled insulation, strength, and economy. A&A Construction also represents Sunplace, manufacturer of distinct glass structures for greenhouses, recreational areas and other home areas—the same kinds of panels made so popular by fast-food restaurants in recent years.
A&A also represents manufacturers of the Topsider, a unique house-in-the-round. We're most enthusiastic about modern, comfortable and long-lasting foam core wood construction for foundations too. We know and understand—today—many of the building processes which will become industry standards in the future. Isn't this the kind of insight you'd like to have when considering construction of your new home?
Building/Contracting Options
A&A is not interested in dictating to you details regarding who will do what in constructing your new home. Unlike other firms, A&A is most happy to break out the costs involved in your new home construction. We will provide you with the technical consultation and we will be happy to sell you the home package. But from that point on, we're willing to do as little or as much as you want.
If you have a builder in mind, we will be happy to supply the home package to that builder. If you would prefer to do the general contracting yourself, that's OK with us too—and will save you money. We'll even go the extra step in helping you determine what reliable contractors are available for functions such as foundation, plumbing, heating, electrical, finishing, or even landscaping work.
Or, if you insist, we will also handle the general contracting for you. But before decisions are made, we will be happy to go over costs, step by step, to help you determine where savings can be made if and when you do the work yourself. Indeed, we would be happy to supply the home package directly to you!
You might call A&A Construction the "consumer's advocate" in new home construction, for we are happy to work directly with you to help you find the best possible design, the best possible construction materials, and help you determine how best to handle the contracting.
This is an exciting, new way to build your own home and the savings potential is great. You should make no commitment for building a new home until you have checked first with A&A Construction. We want to work with you and we're sure you'll be pleased with what we have to show you.
Give us a call right now: (301) 387-4143, and let's get together. You may end up with a far better home because of this one phone call. Call us today.

All the info fans hope for on Durham

By Kimberly Redmond

I think Christopher Durham, who plays Dakota Smith on "Ryan's Hope," is dreamy. Can you give me some background on him? — S.G., Jamestown, N.Y.

Christopher Durham

Durham's first recurring daytime role was that of football hero Matt McCandless on "Capitol." While creating the role of Matt, Durham got the chance to show off his abilities as a gymnast.

Born in Hopewell, Va., the actor is a graduate of William and Mary College. Durham moved to New York upon graduation. While working as a lifeguard in a posh hotel, he was spotted by a talent agent. Durham has appeared in several off-Broadway theater productions, and hopes, one day, to appear in a Broadway play.

I heard that "The Young and the Restless" is going to write off Tracey E. Bregman's Lauren Williams. Is that true? — M.A., Ashville, N.Y.

As far as we know there are no plans to write Bregman out of the CBS soap. Her story line may have slowed down in the last few weeks, but Lauren is still in the foreground.

What happened to the character of Beth Raines on "The Guiding Light"? I haven't seen Judi Evans on the show for some time now. — S.M., Icard, N.C.

Judi Evans, the actress who portrays Beth, took some time off after her on-screen husband was killed, but she has since returned. The news around the "GL" set is that Evans plans on leaving the show when her contract comes up for renewal this fall.

It's a fact of life: Whelchel is on a roll

By Gillian George

"The Facts of Life" is a hit. The sitcom has just completed its seventh season, the show is the longest-running of all NBC's current series and it has millions of devoted fans. But "Life"er Lisa Whelchel admits there was a time when Hollywood insiders referred to the show as "The Fats of Life."

The actress, who plays Blair Warner, is referring to the those years when she and two of her co-stars had something in common: 15 to 20 pounds of excess weight.

"Believe me," Whelchel recalls, "there was lots of pressure from the producers to do something about it. Unfortunately, it coincided with the edge of my puberty, and I think a lot of the extra poundage came from the fact that I was subconsciously rebelling against that pressure.

"Losing the weight was the toughest thing I've ever gone through in my life," the actress adds. "And even though I felt like leaving the show rather than facing more trouble, I really think the heartache and pressure has made me a better person."

Lisa Whelchel

After trying various diets and exercises, the 23-year-old actress entered a diagnostic hospital in Galveston, Texas, and learned that she had an extremely low metabolism. Even with this problem, however, Miss Whelchel achieved her ideal weight after growing three inches to her present height of 5'7". Although she still watches the calories, she's not finding it too difficult to stay just below 120 pounds.

Despite the fact that the series eats up most of Whelchel's time, the actress's second career is booming. A devout Christian, she spends most of her time singing before and speaking to non-denominational church groups across the United States. "Being a celebrity has given me a platform to speak to the young people and I want to use it the best way I know how," she says.

Miss Whelchel's first solo album, "All Because of You," was nominated for a Grammy Award as best inspirational album of the year in 1985, and a second record is now in the planning stages.

This summer, Whelchel is hoping to take "a good chunk of time off" to take her mother, aunt and grandmother to England for some antique shopping. "I think I've earned a holiday," she says, "but it won't be long before I get back to doing the things I enjoy the most."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Garber rises again as Southern saga airs

By Marc Minnelli

She's bright, attractive and — depending on which TV critic you ask — a dead-ringer for Vivien Leigh or Elizabeth Taylor. As the original episodes of "North and South" proved when the 12-hour miniseries aired last year, she's also talented. And let's not forget her wicked sense of humor and candor; the two ingredients that have made 25-year-old newcomer Terri Garber the current cause celebre.

Terri Garber

Whether she's talking about her original "North and South" audition — "I wore a dress that kept falling off my shoulders, exposing my breasts and giving two people cheap thrills" — or how she refuses to adopt the obligatory Hollywood ego — "I hate snooty, screwed-up actresses" — Garber is a woman to whom attention must be paid.

This week, audiences can catch up with her in "North and South: Book II," a 12-hour continuation of last year's sprawling miniseries. "North and South: Book II" is based on John Jakes' best-selling saga "Love and War," and in the miniseries Garber is reprising her role of promiscuous Southern belle Ashton Huntoon. Audiences can relive the turbulent Civil War years — complete with sexual shenanigans, murder and maimings — when the six-night miniseries airs beginning Sunday, May 4.

Though Garber says she did a fair amount of role research — "I watched 'Gone With the Wind' and met with John Jakes — she claims it was her character's wardrobe that helped her get into the proper Southern perspective.

"Once I stepped into those gowns, I got the right attitude," she says, sitting in the comfort of her newly purchased Laurel Canyon, Calif., home. "I wore layers and layers of crinolines. There were so many that I'd fly off walls like a bumper car. I remember," she adds with a laugh, "bumping into someone's arm, and he said, 'Ouch!'"

The actress says she wants to do more miniseries ("Watch out, Jane Seymour!"), even though she has one gripe about "North and South: Book II."

"My character is a slut," she says. "Or rather, she was a slut. When I wasn't in crinolines, I was in bed with every male in the South. But in part two," Garber sighs, "I fall in love with one guy. So much for the South rising again!"

Arnold feels 'Bash' needed time to grow

By Frank Lovece

If you haven't seen it by now, Friday night may be your last chance to see "Joe Bash," the most innovative and creative half-hour show on television. The ABC series, starring Peter Boyle and Andrew Rubin as the kind of cops who would've walked the beat on "Barney Miller," is neither a situation comedy nor a soap opera nor a detective series.

Danny Arnold

It is, as its six-episode tryout run proved, probably the closest thing on network TV to a weekly one-act play.

There's no laugh track, no studio audience, no one-liners. "It is a different kind of animal," explains creator Danny Arnold, who also produced and co-created "Barney Miller." "It's not a joke show — it's a character relationship between two people. If you expect to see a 'situation comedy' in those terms, you may be very disappointed."

Boyle, the much-respected movie actor, and Rubin, a sort of young Alan Arkin, play police partners pounding the beat on Manhattan's crumbling Lower East Side. The older officer isn't a wise father figure; the younger one isn't a spunky kid.

This is a realistic show. If you ever wanted to ride in the back of patrol car one night and see what goes on, "Joe Bash" is a good approximation.

Arnold, who also produced such shows as "Bewitched" and "That Girl," is something of a TV legend, partly because, in an industry where formulas and creation-by-committee is the norm, he's been able to mold his personal visions into TV shows.

"Joe Bash" is not "Barney Miller," but in the interplay between Boyle and Rubin, one can see the 61-year-old Arnold arguing with himself about what in life is still worth an effort. This series obviously is. Along with co-writing all the scripts, Arnold directed five episodes and had a hand in arranging the lighting so meticulously that videotaped scenes sometimes look filmed.

"Reactions to the show have been violent," Arnold says. "Some of the people who reviewed it said they'd expected something more from me because of 'Barney Miller.' They forget that when 'Barney' came out, they gave it terrible reviews!

"Any behavioral show has a period of growth," Arnold adds. "Characters' attitudes change. That was very apparent in 'Barney,' which was also a mid-season replacement."

Glynnis O'Connor stars as the girlfriend of convicted murderer Ted Bundy (played by Mark Harmon) in "The Deliberate Stranger," a four-hour miniseries airing Sunday, May 4 and Monday, May 5 on NBC.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

What can you tell me about Perry King, that lovable hunk from "Riptide"? I swoon every Friday night when I watch him in action! — C.C., Hawthorne, N.J.

Perry King

King, one of five children of a physician, was born in Alliance, Ohio, on April 30, 1948. The actor comes from a long line of celebrated ancestors, including Civil War General William T. Sherman, literary editor Maxwell Perkins and two signers of the Declaration of Independence.

He attended St. Paul's School in New Hampshire and received his B.A. at Yale. He studied acting under the tutelage of John Houseman, at the Juilliard School.

The actor has appeared in several films, including "The Lords of Flatbush," "The Choirboys" and "Slaughterhouse Five." He also appeared in the TV movies "The Hasty Heart" and "Helen Keller — the Miracle Continues." The actor is divorced and has a 15-year-old daughter, Louise.

Is Heather Locklear the same actress who appeared on "The Fall Guy"? — K.B., Augusta, Ga.

You're getting your blondes confused, K.B. The actress who starred on "The Fall Guy" was Heather Thomas.

My mother and I are having a fight. She insists that Shirley Temple was a midget; one of the leftover Munchkins from "The Wizard of Oz." I think she's crazy. Val, if I'm right, mom treats me to a four-course dinner at Wendy's. — D.L.R., Yonkers, N.Y.

Enjoy that double burger with cheese! Temple is not a midget. She was one of Hollywood's most famous (and talented) child stars. She now lives in Hillsborough, Calif., with her husband, Charles A. Black.

Gould may carry out a 'Vanishing Act'

By Ian Harmer

Elliott Gould admits that he was devastated when dwindling ratings prompted CBS to turn off the life-support system for "E.R.," his hospital-based sitcom from last season. He mutters that Norman Lear let him down by selling his production empire for a nine-figure fortune, just when "E.R." was most in need of a little creative CPR.

Elliott Gould

But Gould's visage brightens considerably when he talks about "Vanishing Act," airing Sunday, May 4 on CBS. In the TV movie, the actor stars as Lt. Wanamaker, a comfortably rumpled detective who tracks down a missing bride on her honeymoon.

Gould is refreshingly different from most actors hawking their TV wares. We met in a swank Beverly Hills restaurant, and the actor, resplendent in a dazzling Hawaiian shirt amid the comparatively muted tones around him, sat throughout lunch with a stereo headset slung around his neck. Gould has a reputation for being an oddball, and while talking about his latest venture, he does whatever he can to keep it flourishing. The headset, he said, was intended to keep him a moment away from news programs and classical-music stations.

"Vanishing Act" may be aptly titled: Gould says he may drop out of acting for a while to concentrate on producing and directing movie and TV projects.

"That's where the real creative control lies," he explains. "Still, the good work that's done on the screen can be ruined by a distributor or a network mishandling the product and selling it to the public as something it's not, so no one is really safe."

Gould says he's been offered several TV series since "E.R." was canceled, but has turned them down because he wanted to do something different. "I like television," the actor says. "I've made some very successful movies, but 'E.R.' has introduced me to millions of people who never go out to movie theaters. If a new series comes along, I might do it after all. It would be a shame to waste all those new fans."

Shari hopes to share her singing with Dad

By Cindy Adams

Shari Belafonte-Harper isn't satisfied being Harry Belafonte's daughter or a model (Calvin Klein jeans) or an actress ("Hotel"). She now wants to be a singer, and has decided to go larynx-to-larynx with her ol' pa. Says Shari, who has a recording contract in Europe: "I called Dad and asked him 'What do you think if I go for a new style of singing? What if I go for Calypso?' He said he'd be very interested in hearing me. Maybe dad and I might do something together."

Shari Belafonte-Harper

Parker Stevenson, who's long past the "Hardy Boys" days, brings a truckful of history to his role as Billy Hazard in "North and South: Book II." The sprawling miniseries airs this week on ABC. Parker's great-great-great granddaddy is General George Meade, who led the Battle of Gettysburg. Parker is a history buff, and he researched all the battles in which his great-great-great grandpappy fought. Old generals never die. They come back on TV.

Parker Stevenson

Nobody makes a monkey out of producer Dino De Laurentiis. His upcoming film "King Kong Lives" features a 60-foot mechanical monkey. ... Does anyone know that Margaret Stanziale, the composer of Madonna's "Like a Virgin," is the daughter of Rep. Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee? Does anyone care? ... Jesse White, TV's Maytag repairman, lives dangerously. He consumed two cream sodas at New York City's Carnegie Deli.

Fred Gwynne, Margot Kidder, Mike Farrell and Elliott Gould star in "Vanishing Act," a made-for-TV movie about a bridegroom's missing bride. The film airs Sunday, May 4 on CBS.

In many newspapers "Church news" seldom makes front page. Some coming-event, a special program, or visiting clergy receives notice somewhere in the printed page but hardly any mention on television. (Unless there is church controversy that rates as hard-core news.) And this is understandable from news media's point of purpose.

Yet the church is the "keeper of the springs" of society's great ocean. Jesus called His followers "salt" and "leaven" and "light." One seldom comments on the salt but the steak; not the yeast but the hot rolls; not the lights but the ballgame being played at night.

The church, the great "keeper of the springs," has seasoned society by being the first in education. Many of the great universities were birthed by the church as well as hospitals, medical schools, orphanages, and homes for the aging. Jesus' followers seasoned the U.S. Constitution and outright wrote the Bill of Rights through the efforts of Rev. John Leland and James Madison (whom moved its adoption).

While the church is not front page news, it is nonetheless quietly going about its appointed mission in hamlet and city keeping the springs clean and purifying the water that flows into the mainstream of human existence.

WE THINK YOU ARE LOOKING AT US!

In a recent study by a well-known research company it was determined that you, the public wanted to find a family pharmacist whom you could relate to on personal terms. You know, like in years past, where the local pharmacist was someone with whom you could talk.

We try very hard in our pharmacy to maintain just that type of relationship with our customers (we think of you more like friends.) Whoever is on duty filling prescriptions is always available, really wants to say a friendly hello, is ready to answer ethically any questions, and to help in any way that is possible. Come in and see for yourself.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE DEVIL TO PAY

May 4, 1986

Background Scripture: Matthew 12:22-32; Luke 11:5-13.
Devotional Reading: John 3:3-15.

I never heard much about the Devil when I was growing up. As a matter of fact, even when I was a theological student in seminary, references to the Devil were few and far between. But in the past two decades the Devil, it would seem, has made quite a comeback. To be sure, there are some Satanic religious cults that have grabbed occasional headlines and the motion picture studios have worked the Devil and other demons for all they are worth at the box office.

DEMONIC P.R.

Actually, however, it is none of the above who have brought the Devil to his current state of infamous renown, but multitudes of unwitting Christians, who seem to spend so much of their time looking under their neighbor's bed for the Devil that God himself gets far less of their attention. Christians have found that warning others about the Devil is more fun than witnessing to the grace of Jesus Christ. They have found that there is no better "put down" to another person than to suggest or outright accuse them of consorting with demonic powers. And, as quite a few have found out to their financial gain, the Devil also sells books.

Ah yes, some may say, that is the price we must pay for vigilance against the demonic, for we are safest from the Devil when we are most aware of his presence. And thus they rationalize their tireless public relations efforts that keep the Devil alive and well in the popular consciousness. Thus, they justify their self-righteous attacks upon other Christians so that they might keep them from becoming "unwitting tools of the Devil."

"ONLY BEELZEBUL"

It is important to remember that Pharisees also tried to discredit Jesus by using the same kind of charge. When he healed a dumb demoniac, they tried to counter the amazement of the people by saying, "It is only by Beelzebul, the prince of demons, that this man casts out demons" (Matt. 12:24). No other accusation ever brought so devastating a reply from Jesus. By robbing the Devil of his wretched human victims, says Jesus, he is actually plundering the Devil's "household" and evidencing the presence of the Kingdom of God in their midst.

Jesus goes on to utter some words that are probably the harshest he ever spoke: "...every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit... whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come" (12:31,32). This is, for Jesus, the worst of sins—as one commentator puts it, "that malignant moral blindness which deliberately affirms that which is good is evil."

Thus, to condemn our neighbor and his faith as "of the Devil" may put us in the position of blaspheming God's Holy Spirit. Then we will really have the Devil to pay.

State Water Conservation Conference Scheduled For June 6

James W. Peck, director of the Maryland Water Resources Administration, has announced that WRA will host a major water conservation conference on Friday, June 6, at the Annapolis Holiday Inn.

The conference will focus on water conservation as an important element of the Governor's Chesapeake Bay Initiatives, emphasizing the role of local government in plans to reduce water consumption. The charter of the Oakland club bears the date of December 7, 1925, and the membership at that time totaled twenty-three. The first president of the club was Dr. Henry W. McComas.

Throughout the past sixty years, numerous local charities and civic projects have flourished through the support of the Oakland Rotary Club's membership. Its major fund-raising project in recent years has been the French fry booth which operates annually at the Garrett County Fair.

The Oakland Rotary Club has five Harris Fellows: Dr. Frank Custer, Allen Murray, Clarence Stem, Lars Larson and the late Mason Glotfelty. The Club has had one District Governor: Dr. Frank Custer who served in 1983-84.

Goldstein Urges Rejection Of Federal Provision

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says state taxpayers have yet another reason to be leery of the federal tax reform legislation which has passed the U.S. House of Representatives and is now before the Senate Finance Committee.

"I have written Senator Robert W. Packwood, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, urging rejection of a requirement which would cost Maryland taxpayers about one-half million dollars per year," Goldstein said.

Under Section 145 of HR 3838, the tax reform bill, the State Comptroller's Office would be required to issue an information document to each taxpayer who paid $10 or more in state income tax each year.

"This notification provision would cost the state of Maryland nearly one-half million dollars in data processing and postage costs each year," he said. "The cost for all states to comply is about $36 million the first year alone."

Under the requirement, the state of Maryland would not only have to provide the information to individual taxpayers, but also to the Internal Revenue Service.

"The real benefit to the Internal Revenue Service of state and local income tax information is questionable," Goldstein wrote Senator Packwood. The comptroller noted that recent IRS compliance statistics indicate that taxpayer compliance in accurately reporting state and local income taxes is the highest of any major category of itemized deduction.

"This new proposed requirement is different from the three-year-old requirement that states provide a Form 1099G to taxpayers who itemized on the previous year's tax return and received a state refund check," Goldstein said. "Our office mailed 839,766 of those forms during January, 1986. The postage cost alone for that mailing was more than $152,000."

Goldstein noted that experience with the 1099G forms indicates they confuse taxpayers, many of whom jam state tax information lines with questions about the forms. "This adds to the cost of such a program because of lost productivity," he said.

ESSAY CONTEST WINNER — Melissa Bittinger, shown right, a student at Northern High School, was the recent winner of the essay contest for Women's History Week, sponsored by the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club, according to Mildred Wucik, Women's History Committee chairman. Miss Bittinger presented her essay at the April 10 BPW meeting held at the Will O' the Wisp and received a $25 award which was presented to her by Phyllis Buckel, pictured also, president of the BPW Club.

Lang Selected March Employee At B&L Plant

Stephanie Lang has been named as Bausch & Lomb's Employee of the Month for March 1986, according to John Sheltra, plant manager, and Donald W. Loomis, Plant Comptroller.

According to Sheltra, Ms. Lang is responsible for all accounts payable at the Mtn. Lake Park facility. During the past several months, she has been responsible for covering the plant's purchasing department responsibilities, in addition to her normal workload. She has implemented several cost savings during this time, Sheltra said, and she has also developed a shipment verification system for Frame Center part accountings.

Ms. Lang began her career in December of 1973 as an inspector. She later moved to the position of stenographer in 1973, and has also worked as a clerical technician. She is currently accounting clerk III in the plant's Administration Operations.

She is a 1961 graduate of Southern High and attended Frostburg State College, Garrett Community College and Strayer Business College.

Ms. Lang said that she is "very proud" to be chosen as employee of the month and "very proud" to be employed at Bausch & Lomb.

Mathias Calling For Arms Sales To Saudi Arabia

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) sent letters this week to his colleagues urging them to support the Administration's proposed arms sale to Saudi Arabia.

In the letter Mathias warned, "Failure to continue our long-standing defense arrangements with Saudi Arabia will be perceived as a weakening of these shared interests and will diminsh that relationship.

He cautioned that defeat of the arms sales "will leave a negative effect on how the nations of the area view us" and would lessen the ability of the United States "to play a constructive intermediary role between Arabs and Israelis that we have played for more than two decades."

Mathias, who recently returned from a three-week trip to Middle Eastern countries including Israel and Saudi Arabia, stressed that the proposed arms sale "will not alter the strategic situation with respect to Israel by one degree. It will not add to the aggressive capability of Saudi Arabia," he added.

Mathias further noted that the arms sale would serve to recognize that the relationship between the United States and Saudi Arabia is a useful one both in terms of the peace progress and in more general areas.

He also pointed out that the sale would "serve notice to enemies of moderation in the region, such as Iran, that the United States continues to back its friends. Failure to approve the sale would send the opposite message," he said.

GETTING HOOKED ON FISH

(The following material was prepared by Dr. Mark Kantor, Food and Nutrition Specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service).

It is hard to find a more nutritious catch than fish.

Fish ties in perfectly with the American trend toward eating lighter, low calorie foods that are also low in saturated fat and cholesterol. As an added bonus, research is now showing that some fish are truly "heart healthy" foods.

Fish have long been appreciated for being chock full of high quality protein, vitamins and minerals. But new research has shown that fish also contain a beneficial class of fats called "omega-3."

This strange sounding name refers to the chemical structure of the polyunsaturated fatty acids that are found in fish oil.

When eaten, this special type of fat has the unique ability to lower the levels of fats and cholesterol in the blood. In so doing, it helps to reduce the risk of heart disease.

Scientists had suspected for some time that eating fish was good for the heart. They noticed that the Eskimos living in Greenland rarely suffered from heart disease. In fact, during a period of 24 years in which a group of 1800 Eskimos were studied, only three heart attacks occurred—a rate 100 times lower than that of the United States.

Eskimos, of course, eat lots of fish, especially whale, seal and other fatty fish. At first, it may seem strange that fish which are high in fat should be good for human arteries.

The key is the omega-3 fatty acids. For reasons not yet clear, these substances are able to lower the amount of fat, or triglycerides in blood. Since some of the triglyceride-carrying particles in the blood are converted to other particles that are rich in cholesterol, the effect of fish oil is to lower both fat and cholesterol levels. This is certainly good news for the heart.

The omega-3 fatty acids may reduce the risk of heart disease in yet another way. They make blood platelets less likely to stick together, and therefore reduce the chance that blood clots will form in the arteries and cause blockage.

Not all fish contain equal amounts of the beneficial omega-3 fatty acids. Among the best sources are salmon, mackerel and herring. Smaller amounts of the fat are also found in most other fish as well as in lobster, crab and other crustaceans and mollusks.

Since the omega-3 fatty acids are found in fish oil, does this mean you should eat tuna packed in oil instead of water? Not necessarily. The oil in canned tuna is usu ally soybean oil and not fish oil. Unless you can afford the extra calories, you are probably better off sticking to the water-packed tuna.

How much fish should you eat? Experts are recommending 1-2 fish meals per week for most people. Although it will probably take more than that to produce large changes in blood cholesterol levels, fish have many other nutritional benefits. For example, canned salmon and sardines that are packaged with their bones are good sources of calcium.

Fish oil supplements are also available in health food stores and mail order catalogues. Although they have value for clinical experimental purposes, these supplements are not recommended for use by the general public until more research is done on their safety.

Because fish have been known to become contaminated with pesticides and industrial chemicals, some experts are warning not to go overboard in eating too much fish. Of course, this is not a problem if the fish come from unpolluted water.

When selecting whole fresh fish, look for reddish-pink gills and clear eyes. The fish should not have any unpleasant odors. The flesh should be firm and spring back when pressed. Frozen fish and fish fillets should not be discolored or dry around the edges.

Proper storage of fish is important since fish are subject to rapid spoilage. Keep fish in the coldest part of the refrigerator for no longer than 2 days. Frozen fish will maintain good quality for 3-6 months if wrapped airtight and placed in the freezer immediately after purchase. It is safest to thaw fish in the refrigerator in a covered pan.

For more information on fish and other seafood, contact the Extension Office at 334-1990.

Should Pre-emergence Herbicides Be Incorporated?

Pre-emergence herbicides are only effective when they are in the immediate area of the germinating plants. If there happens to be a dry period during the germinating period and the herbicide is still on top of the soil, the effectiveness of the herbicide is greatly reduced; therefore, incorporating the herbicide in the top 2 or 3" of soil is insurance that the herbicide is in the area of germinating plants.

Alfalfa Weevil

Last year the Alfalfa Weevil arrived in Garrett County around the first of May. Keep a close watch. If there is considerable damage, spray immediately with one of the following insecticides: Furadan, Lorsban, Supracide, Lannate L, Methorychlor with Malathion, Penncap-M, Imidan. Be sure to follow label directions carefully.

Garden Weeds?

Before you plow your vegetable garden you can eliminate a lot of the weeds such as quackgrass, chickweed, dock, etc. by applying the herbicide called Roundup. Roundup will kill all the weeds or plants that you spray it on. You can plow the day after you apply Roundup. Roundup must be on the leaf of the weed for 8 hours without rainfall. There is no residue carry over from Roundup.

Milk Production Up

The number of milk cows on Maryland farms during March was up two percent from a year ago but was unchanged from February. Milk per cow increased 25 pounds compared to March 1985. Total milk production for March was 150 million pounds, up five percent compared to last year.

January through March total milk production, at 428 million pounds, was up seven percent compared to 1985. Maryland farmers fed an average of 15.2 pounds of grain and other concentrates per head to their cattle on April 1, 1986, down eight percent compared to 1985. The average cost per cwt. of concentrates dropped 35 cents from last year to $8.10.

Across the United States, milk production during March totaled a record 12.7 billion pounds, up seven percent compared to March 1985. Accumulated milk production for the first quarter of 1986 totaled 36.2 billion pounds, also up seven percent from 1985.

Production per cow averaged 1,143 pounds during the month, 45 pounds above March 1985. The total number of milk cows in herds averaged 11.1 million head during March, three percent above last year, but slightly fewer than in February 1986.

Grain and other concentrates fed to milk cows on April 1, 1986, averaged 16.6 pounds per head, up two percent from a year ago. The value of grain and other concentrates fed on the first of April averaged $7.03 per cwt., 45 cents below April 1, 1985.

Farming In Maryland.....

Second Sign Up For C/R Program Begins May 5

Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson, Maryland State ASC Committee, has reported that a second sign-up period for the new USDA Conservation Reserve Program will be held from May 5 through May 16.

This will give landowners in Garrett County a second opportunity to sign up for the program at the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service Office in the courthouse.

Farmers will be offered the opportunity to bid for a Conservation Reserve Program contract for either the 1986 or the 1987 crop year. Bids may be offered for both years, providing different acreage is involved.

Producers cannot harvest any 1986 crop planted on land to be placed in the program. For contracts which are effective immediately, annual payments will be made beginning October 1, 1986. For contracts which become effective on October 1, 1986, or later, producers will be allowed to harvest their 1986 crop, and no annual payments will be made before October 1, 1987.

In reporting results of the first sign-up, ASCS said 272.4 acres of highly erodible cropland on eight farms in Maryland are scheduled for the Conservation Reserve Program. The acreage will be ineligible for farming for 10 years and must be planted to a permanent vegetative cover.

Preliminary figures from the first sign-up summary showed that Maryland farmers bid a total of 2,845 acres from 95 farms. The bids accepted averaged $43.30 per acre and totaled about $12,000.

Davis said farmers will receive annual rental payments for participating in the program, the amounts depending on the bids per acre and the number of acres under the 10 year contracts. Program participants also will receive conservation payments of up to 50 percent of eligible costs of establishing trees or grass on the acres placed in the Conservation Reserve Program.

"The rental payments will compensate farmers for retiring highly erodible cropland from crop production," said Davis, "and the conservation payments will partially reimburse farmers for the one-time costs of establishing required conservation practices on the highly erodible cropland."

He said the annual rental payments will be issued as soon as possible after October 1 of each calendar year. Conservation payments will be made as soon as possible after individual participants report the approved conservation practice is completed.

The Conservation Reserve Program was developed to remove highly erodible cropland from production, thereby reducing sedimentation in streams, enhancing wildlife habitat and helping to stabilize farm income as commodity production is reduced and prices increase.

The Conservation Reserve will provide owners of highly erodible crop land with cost share payments and technical assistance to plant grasses or trees on these lands and to maintain the plants for 10 years.

Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz says he is available to help landowners with tree planting plans and the location of seedlings to be planted on eligible land taken out of crop production.

Highly erodible land is defined as class six through eight or class two through five eroding at three times the rate at which soil forms. The land must have been used to produce a crop during two years between 1981 through 1985.

"Landowners opting to plant trees on this highly erodible land will realize many benefits," said Metz. "Not only will trees stabilize the soil, they will act to filter non-point source pollution and provide potential income to a farmer."

Customary forestry practices such as pruning, thinning or timber stand improvement is allowed if included in the conservation plan. However, wood products, including nut crops and Christmas trees, may not be sold or otherwise commercially used during the ten year contract period.

Metz says it is hoped that nearly 10 percent of the eligible land in Garrett County will be planted in trees.

"The Conservation Reserve could be the largest single tree planting program in history, exceeding reforestation accomplishments under the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Soil Bank," said Metz. With trees being generally less costly to establish and maintain than grasses, Project Forester Metz says he is hopeful that eligible Garrett countians will strongly consider planting trees under the Conservation Reserve Program.

Metz can be reached for more information about tree planting on land taken out of crop production by calling the Forest, Park and Wildlife Office at Mt. Nebo, 334-3296.

Stock Income Down

Gross income in Maryland, including cash receipts from the sale of cattle and calves and value of home consumption, totaled $70.7 million, during 1985, down two percent from 1984's $72.4 million. Marketings were up four percent, but cattle prices fell $4 from 1984 and calf prices fell $2.70.

Nationally, gross income from cattle and calves totaled $29.3 billion, down six percent from 1984.

Maryland's gross farm income from hogs and pigs during 1985 totaled $40.8 million, down two percent from the $41.5 million received in 1984. A decline in price of $3.60 per hundred pounds more than offset an increase in marketings.

Nationally, gross income to farmers for hogs and pigs fell to $9.1 billion, down seven percent from 1984's $9.8 billion.

Group Wants EPA To Test Pesticide

A scientific advisory group has advised the Environmental Protection Agency to permit a Missouri field test of a genetically engineered pesticide.

A subcommittee of the EPA's pesticide scientific advisory panel, however, said the agency should simultaneously require the applicant, Monsanto Company, to repeat certain preliminary tests that the agency had said were flawed and should also require certain restrictions, which were not spelled out, on the field test itself.

Activist Jeremy Rifkin, who frequently opposes genetic engineering experiments, said he was shocked at the recommendation and had asked the EPA to wait for the results of the repeated tests.

Monsanto wants to test a bacterium, Pseudomonas fluorescens, into which a gene from another well-known bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis, has been inserted by genetic engineering techniques. The bacteria would kill the root cutworm, a pest that afflicts corn. The tests would be carried out in a field near St. Charles, Mo.

SPRING DEVELOPMENTS provide livestock with a clean, dependable source of water. Approximately 17 spring developments per year have been approved and constructed in Garrett County over the last four years.

Farm Spring Developments Benefit Livestock And Control Pollution

Farm spring development can be extremely beneficial to both the farmer and his livestock, according to Soil Conservation Service officials. Spring developments provide livestock with a clean, dependable source of water; and by locating these spring developments strategically, SCS officials say that grazing can be controlled more efficiently, erosion can be prevented, and livestock can be kept from polluting streams. Preventing stream pollution is important, as that pollution eventually reaches larger bodies of water, such as the Chesapeake Bay.

Help is available to farmers from the SCS in the form of advice, planning, and cost share information. The local SCS office, in the Garrett County Courthouse (334-1900), can provide this help, plus more specific recommendations for the construction and maintenance of spring developments.

Spring developments normally consist of three parts. The collection system consists of a collector line and the spring box; a pipeline is used as the delivery system; and the watering facility is the final storage system for the development.

The life and usefulness of a spring development can be extended by performing annual maintenance. Officials explain that each part of the development will benefit from annual checks and repairs.

The collection system is important as it is the source of the water. The area around the spring box should be kept vegetated with a tough sod, like Kentucky 31 fescue, to prevent erosion. Fences should be installed around an above-ground spring box to keep livestock from breaking or contaminating it. The spring box should also have a tight cover to minimize cleaning. Finally, sediment or debris should be cleaned out annually.

The delivery system, the connection between the spring box and the pipeline or cutoff wall, must be watertight and sealed with concrete. Air locks can occur if the pipeline has sags. Air locks can be removed by pumping water through the line. If they continue to occur, the pipe should be relaid on a positive grade. Air vents in the spring box can be installed or high points in the line can be vented.

The ground around the storage system should slope away from the trough to keep surface runoff and overflow water from ponding around the base. A six-foot wide concrete or gravel apron may be used around the base of the trough. Not only will this control erosion, it will keep the ground from shifting and perhaps cracking the trough.

The water level device and overflow should be checked frequently and any obstructions removed. When algae occurs, the trough may be drained by removing the overflow pipe. The trough should then be brush-scrubbed and the overflow replaced.

All overhanging tree branches must be kept pruned, or a roof installed to keep leaves and twigs from plugging the overflow system.

SCS officials say that livestock stay healthier drinking water from spring developments and pasture use is also improved, just two additional benefits of farm spring development.

Broiler Production Hits Record High

Broiler growers in Maryland produced over 272 million meat-type chickens in 1985, slightly more than 1984 and a new record high. The average liveweight in 1984 and 1985 was 4.2 pounds.

The price per pound, liveweight, in 1985 was 33 cents per pound, a 10 percent decrease from the record high price of 36.5 cents in 1984. The lower price more than offset the higher production, which caused the value of production to drop nine percent to $378 million.

The value of broilers produced in the United States during 1985 was $5.68 billion, a decrease of six percent from the 1984 record high of $6.02 billion. Record high levels of both birds and weight were more than offset by a lower average price per pound.

The total number of broilers produced in 1985 was 4.48 billion, up five percent from 1984. A record high total of 18.9 billion pounds were produced compared with 17.9 billion pounds a year earlier. Prices in 1985 averaged 30.1 cents per pound on a liveweight equivalent basis, compared with 33.7 cents during 1984.

Medical Finding Could Boost Egg Consumption

John L. Crothers Jr., of the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, recently reported a new medical finding which could have positive implications for improving egg consumption, which in turn, would permit the expansion of egg production at cost-covering prices.

Eggs, along with red meats and dairy products, have been bearing the stigma of heart-damaging cholesterol, although those commodity groups maintained that heredity played a major role. Now, these claims have been documented by medical researchers who discovered an abnormal gene that predisposes some people to heart disease.

According to Crothers, about one-third of those people under 60 having severe coronary artery disease carry that gene while the gene is found in only about three percent of those having no signs of the disease.

"At one time," Crothers says, "the general concept of an ideal breakfast included one or two eggs." He reports however, that between 1952 and 1982, shell egg use declined by 36 percent. He attributes this decline to several factors such as smaller household size, relatively more urban households and changing lifestyles with the emphasis on convenience. But, he says, concern about health (cutting back on cholesterol) has accentuated these factors and taken a toll of its own.

He feels that eventually, a test for this heart disease gene will become available, pinpointing high risk individuals who should restrict their diets and allowing the majority of the population to consume reasonable amounts of cholesterol-containing foods. "If the health aspect can be put in its proper perspective," he says, "the egg industry should be able to increase consumption through consumer information."

Crothers explains that studies show eggs to be relatively price-inelastic—it takes a ten-percent increase in price to reduce per capita consumption by 1.4 percent. Therefore, promotions of the convenient "incredible edible egg" with all its dietary pluses could fall on more responsive consumer ears, especially when nutritional contributions per dollar are considered. Thus, quieting the cholesterol criticism, could pave the way for increased egg demand.

Frederick Co. Farmer Has Vulture Problem

A Frederick County farmer, Emerson Burrier, says he has lost 18 calves this spring to vultures that roost in trees near his farm.

Burrier, who raises beef cattle on a 160-acre farm near New Market, said the calf deaths began about two months ago, at the beginning of calving season.

"It was then that I began seeing the vultures picking out the eyes of calves that were still alive," Burrier said. "The calves were only two and three days old. It seems that once the calves get about four days old, then the vultures don't bother them."

Agriculture officials said it appears the birds can identify calves and cows that are weak.

Black vultures, which have wingspans of five feet and weigh up to 10 pounds, can be identified by a short square tail which protrudes slightly from the rear edge of the wings. Black vultures also have a whitish patch of feathers on the wing tips.

Vultures cannot be shot without permission because they are protected by the Federal Migratory Bird Treaty signed by the United States, Canada and Mexico. If Burrier can convince officals that the vultures are causing sufficient damage, he could receive permission to shoot and kill one vulture every seven to 10 days until damage stops.

In the meantime, Burrier said he plans to try to scare the birds off with firecrackers.

Maryland Real Estate Tax Rate Held At 21 Cents

For the sixth straight year, the Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor Harry Hughes, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and State Treasurer William S. James, voted to hold the State real estate tax rate at 21¢ per $100 of assessed value. The tax rate, for the year beginning July 1, 1986, was established at the Board meeting April 30, 1986.

In its report to the Board, the Commission on State Debt, which includes James and Goldstein, noted that the State of Maryland continues to get itself out of general obligation debt. The State is reducing its outstanding obligation debt by $121.2 million during Fiscal Year 1986.

The Commission report estimates Maryland general obligation debt will total $2,110,075,000 on June 30, 1986. Of that debt, the largest amount (40%) is public school construction bonds, issued by the state to provide funds for local public school facilities.

"The State real estate tax rate we are setting is expected to raise $116.1 million, during Fiscal Year 1987. All revenue raised by the State property tax is used to help pay the principal and interest costs on Maryland's general obligation bonds," Goldstein said. The Board of Public Works must establish a State real estate tax rate by May 1st each year.

In setting the rate, the Board of Public Works took into account $86 million in general funds appropriated to the annuity bond fund, and approximately $10 million in other receipts which will also be used for debt service during Fiscal Year 1987.

"The 21¢ rate is actually the rate needed to raise the remaining revenue required for principal and interest payments on state general obligation bonds," Goldstein said. "The rate could be held to 21¢ because the Board of Public Works and the General Assembly have cooperated in limiting bond authorizations and issues. By limiting general obligation bond sales in recent years, the state has been able to hold down the cost of borrowing, as much as possible.

"Maryland is a leader in its Capital Debt Management Program, which has helped the state retain its triple A general obligation bond rating—the best you can get. Maryland's triple A rating helped the state receive the lowest interest rate since 1980 on the $124,585,000 in general obligation bonds sold February 19, 1986. That 6.4985% interest rate is another factor in retaining the 21¢ real estate tax rate."

THE BALLOONS CAME BACK — Approximately 17 of the balloons which were launched on March 17 by students of Dennett Road Elementary School have been returned so far. Students have received responses from Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, Washington D.C., and Ocean City. A school scrapbook was made for each grade level containing all the responses. April 4 was designated as the cut-off date for the longest distance contest. Those winners, above left to right, are: Allison Swinson, second place, Bethel, Del.; Adam Breen, third place, Seaford, Del.; and Jennifer Savage, first place, Laurel, Del.

"COMMON BREAD," a musical group sponsored by the Lutheran Youth Encounter, will be performing at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, on Saturday, May 10, at 7:30 p.m. Team members include, left to right, Julie Haspel, Linwood, N.J.; Sandi Blackstad, Coon Rapids, Minn.; David Kisser, Southington, Conn.; and Melanie Teig, Dovray, Minn. The group is touring the continental United States "providing relational concert ministry events in local settings," according to a spokesman from Lutheran Youth Encounter. "Through concert and sing-along music, as well as personal word and witness, Common Bread provides a faith-encouraging program which finds its base in the Christian gospel." The concert is free and the public is invited to attend, according to Ray Ursin, pastor St. Mark's.

THE SINGING HILLIARDS, of Roanoke, Va., are currently leading revival services at the Crellin Assembly of God, according to Rev. Ray Beahm, pastor. This is the seventh time that the family has presented programs at the local church. Services will be held through this Sunday at 7 p.m. each evening and the Hilliards will also sing at the regular 10 a.m. worship service on Sunday. In the photo, left to right, are Rhonda, Jim, Carolyn, and Kevin Hilliard. Rev. Beahm invites the public to attend these services.

GCC Announces Establishment Of Aiken Scholarship

Garrett Community College has announced the establishment of the B.O. Aiken Memorial Scholarship for the 1986-87 school year.

The scholarship is funded by relatives and friends of the late Mr. Aiken, who was a former teacher and principal in both Garrett and Montgomery counties, as well as a former member of the House of Delegates from Garrett.

There will be two scholarship recipients for the fall semester. One will be chosen from each of the local high schools.

To be eligible for the scholarship, which will be in the amount of $200 to each recipient, a student must meet the following criteria: be a graduate of Northern Garrett or Southern Garrett High School; demonstrate financial need; maintain a B average at GCC; and be a full-time student.

Applications for this and other scholarships are available from the Financial Aid Office of G.C.C., phone 387-6666 ext. 111.

Application deadline for the B.O. Aiken Memorial Scholarship is May 30.

Youth For Christ Notes Beginning Of Fund Raiser

The Board of Directors of Mt. Top Youth for Christ announce the beginning of the organization's 14th annual spring fundraising effort, which will again take the form of a Telethon. The dates for the drive are May 6-15, during which time all participants, staff members, students, and other volunteers, will conduct a personal and telephone canvassing effort, attempting to obtain sponsoring pledges of financial support and be available to share information about the ministry of Youth for Christ.

All three Campus Life clubs from Southern, Northern, and Salisbury high schools will be participating. As an incentive and reward for student and staff participation, four categories of involvement are offered: a Prize Plan, a Group Plan, a College Scholarship Plan, and a Campus Life Activity Plan. More information on each of these is available from the YFC Office or from any Campus Life Staff persons or members.

Participants in the telethon will request a pledge of support. Checks should be made out to Mt. Top Youth for Christ, Inc. Telethon volunteers will collect their pledges or make arrangements for them to be mailed to the YFC Office, P.O. Box 286, Oakland.

Mt. Top Youth for Christ is a non-denominational youth ministry organization for high school students. The program includes Campus Life clubs, a Christian counseling service, and a full schedule of summer options for high school students, such as camps and other outings. The ministry operates under the authority of a local board of directors. The program is conducted by adult members of the professional and associate staff. The local chapter is chartered by the Youth for Christ USA organization based in Wheaton, Ill.

Mt. Top YFC receives no funding of any kind from government agencies or religious groups other than the local churches who support the program as part of their mission efforts. All funds are raised through contributions and various fund raising activities.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Grace D. VanSickle.
Who passed away May 3, 1979.
From the hospital bed to her Heavenly rest, God took her home to be his guest.
You suffered so much your pleasures few. You never deserved what you went through.
You stood the test and stood it well, just what you suffered, no one can tell.
So treasure the Lord in your garden of rest, for whom here on earth, she was one of the best.

Governor Hughes Signs Education, Child Abuse, Victims' Rights Bills

Governor Harry Hughes signed into law this week more than 170 bills passed by the 1986 General Assembly, including measures that will enhance educational and day care opportunities, strengthen child abuse laws and create a victims' bill of rights.

Joined by House Speaker Benjamin L. Cardin and Senate President Melvin A. Steinberg, the Governor signed his proposal to hike aid to public schools this year by an additional $14.7 million to begin implementation of the Civiletti 3-A program.

"These funds are on top of the more than $50 million increase in education aid for fiscal year 1987 mandated by my earlier aid to education package, the largest increase in State aid to public schools in Maryland's history," Hughes said.

During the Hughes Administration, State aid to public schools in Baltimore City and the 23 counties has increased by more than $760 million.

The Governor also signed legislation strengthening his administration's efforts to crack-down on abuse and exploitation of children. Among them were measures he supported to:

—require criminal background checks for persons who supervise children in child care facilities;

—impose licensing sanctions against professionals who fail to report suspected cases of child abuse or neglect; and

—remove the obscenity requirement for child pornography cases.

Other measures signed by Governor Hughes will help address the problems of teen pregnancy and youth suicides, make day care more accessible, and will establish a Governor's Council on Child Abuse and Neglect to monitor the implementation of programs.

"We must do all within our power to protect our children and to offer them the opportunities to grow, mature and become productive citizens," the Governor said.

In the area of criminal justice, the Governor signed legislation creating a crime victims and witnesses bill of rights. The product of a task force chaired by Lt. Governor J. Joseph Curran Jr., the measure establishes guidelines for appropriate agencies to provide services and assistance to victims of crime.

Other measures signed by Governor Hughes will:

—ensure that inmates sentenced to shorter terms serve time in local jails, while those sentenced to longer terms are sent to State prisons;

—increase State aid to public libraries by more than $1 million in fiscal year 1987; and —enhance State efforts to retain the Kelly-Springfield tire plant located in Cumberland.

Frame House In Finzel Leveled In Monday Blaze

A two-story frame house located along Sampson Rock Road near Finzel burned to the ground Monday morning, destroying everything inside the structure and causing an outbuilding and some ten acres of surrounding brush and woodland to burn also.

Firefighters from Eastern Garrett, Grantsville, Frostburg, and Shaft were called to the residence of Florence and David Williard, located two miles off Finzel Road, just after 11 a.m. However, upon their arrival the structure was totally involved in flame and, spurred by winds in excess of 30 miles per hour coupled with dry conditions, the blaze had already begun to spread.

According to James Martin, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, embers from the fire ignited an outbuilding which contained a vehicle, tires, tools, and an acetylene tank, which exploded as the shed burned down.

Martin said that Mrs. Williard, who had lived in the house for 16 years, was at home with a granddaughter at about the time the fire began. The electricity had gone off in the house and Mrs. Williard put various items in the car to leave. The two drove away in the car, but after traveling about 100 yards, looked back and saw the house in flames. By the time they returned to the house they were unable to enter it because of the intense heat.

Among the valuables lost in the fire were dishes that had belonged to Mrs. Williard's great-grandmother and a painting of the Last Supper. Martin estimated the loss to be $60,000. He said the Williards had insurance.

Martin stated that the cause of the fire appeared to be linked to electric wires in the area of an outside fuse box that had been rubbed bare. The siding on the house was insulbrick.

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management dispatched Eastern Garrett and Grantsville VFDs at 11:12 a.m., while Allegany County Civil Defense alerted Frostburg and Shaft firemen, plus Frostburg Area Ambulance. LaVale firefighters stood by at Frostburg, Midland stood by at Shaft, and Bittinger VFD stood by at Grantsville.

Also responding to the scene were DNR fire units, along with Mount Savage and Corriganville firemen to help stop the resulting woods and brush fire.

GOING FOR THE GOLD last Friday during the annual Garrett County Special Olympics were two determined youngsters in the 100-meter dash. The Special Olympics are sponsored by Proctor Kildow Post No. 71 of the American Legion. A total of 57 athletes competed from the Appalachian Crossroads Adult Program, Southern High School, Dennett Road Elementary School, Northern High School and Northern Middle School. There were seven track and field events. The winners, who will be listed in next week's edition, will compete in the Maryland State Competition to be held in Towson on June 13 and 14.

Spring Rabies Clinics Scheduled

A number of spring rabies clinics have been scheduled by the Garrett County Health Department. Health Department officials say that it is essential that all dogs and cats be vaccinated because of the rabies epidemic in Maryland.

Puppies and kittens under one year old should be vaccinated at three months of age and re-vaccinated after twelve months. Dogs and cats over one year old should be vaccinated every three years.

Only pets under the control of a responsible person may be brought to the clinic. According to officials, dogs should be on a leash and cats should be in a wire cage or box securely closed with air holes provided. No other animals will be vaccinated.

The clinics are scheduled for: Saturday, May 10, from noon to 2 p.m. at Southern Middle School in Oakland; Monday, May 12, from 5 to 6 p.m. at Accident School in Accident; Tuesday, May 13, from 5 to 6 p.m., at the fire hall in Bloomington; Wednesday, May 14, from 5 to 6 p.m., at Crellin School in Crellin; and Thursday, May 15, from 5 to 6 p.m., at the Grantsville School in Grantsville.

A MATH-A-THON for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital was held by students of Friendsville Elementary School. Approximately 72 students collected a total of $2,537.87. The program was voluntary and required assistance and help from the parents. Mrs. Joyce Miller's second grade class raised the most money, $706.82, and had the most participants, 16. Fifty students raised over $25, and six students raised over $100. The group raising over $100, pictured left to right, are: front row, Brian Jackson, grade one; Chrissy Umbel, grade two; Amy Fickie, grade one; second row, same order, Tawnya Friend, grade four; Josh Grove, grade two; and in the back, Dawn Umbel, grade five.

Free Women's Health Seminar Set For Saturday

"Wellness Together" coordinators report that the Women's Health Seminar will be held in three parts this Saturday, May 10, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Southern High School Cafetorium.

Several generations of women are invited to celebrate Mother's Day by coming together to ask questions and learn about the physical, nutritional, and emotional health risks of women. These change during a woman's life cycle, so these three categories of health risks will be presented accordingly. Physical health risks will be induced in the morning session, while nutritional and emotional health risks will be discussed in the afternoon.

Dr. Karl Schwalm, Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Chief of Staff, will inform seminar participants in the morning session about the health risks and schedule of examinations that women face during the life cycle. Dr. Roger Lewis, board-certified family practitioner, will follow with an update on breast health. Physical therapist, Ann Devine-King, will conclude discussion of physical health risks to women with her presentation on "Save Your Aching Back." Devine-King will inform seminar participants of the most beneficial exercises for women and demonstrate safe lifting maneuvers.

Ann Carroll wil begin the afternoon session by illustrating the changes in women's nutritional needs as they age and by indicating the preventive

Maryland Governor Harry Hughes Visits Garrett, Allegany Counties

Maryland Governor Harry Hughes is on a tour of Garrett and Allegany counties today, and was hosted at an 8 a.m. breakfast at the Will O' the Wisp by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce. The Governor arrived in Garrett County late last night after speaking to the Washington County Democratic Club in Hagerstown.

In his brief comments to the Chamber of Commerce, Gov. Hughes said that the state wants to help promote economic development in any way possible, and has made a supreme effort in all areas of Maryland, particularly Western Maryland. "It was a part of our campaign eight years ago to make economic development a priority, and we've lived up to that pledge," Gov. Hughes remarked.

The Governor said that to be successful, the state must work with local government to help it develop. "That partnership with local government is why we've been successful," he said. "Economic development is really four letters—JOBS."

He explained that although the unemployment rate has dropped across the state, there are still some areas with unemployment problems. "This happens to be one of those areas, and if there is anything we can do at the state level to help, let us know," the Governor told the Chamber of Commerce.

In speaking of the General Assembly Session just ended, Gov. Hughes said that it was the most productive session he remembers in 30 years. Using education as an example, he said that much had been accomplished at the state level, and that he is sure Garrett County will receive a big increase in funds for education in the coming year.

The Governor said he was glad to see such an emphasis placed on tourism in Garrett County, and mentioned that tourism has been "beefed up" at the state level, including funding, with the goal being to match the level of tourism in the state of Virginia. "I feel that match will be made by next fall," Gov. Hughes said.

"This area plays an important part in the overall tourism in Maryland. Its hills, mountains, and lakes make the area unique. It's a nice package available for tourists. And you have it available all four seasons. Not too many people are visiting Ocean City in January," the Governor exclaimed.

The Governor's schedule took him on a tour of Mettiki Mines at 9:30 a.m., followed by lunch. The afternoon will be spent touring Westvaco's Luke Paper Mill and the Kelly-Springfield Plant in Cumberland. He will finish the day by speaking at the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club in Cumberland at 6 p.m. this evening.

Arson Suspect Nabbed After Seven Years

A Florida man wanted for arson in Garrett County was apprehended at Polish Mountain yesterday by State Police.

A warrant had been issued for Danny Elton Morgan, 32, Tampa, seven years ago following a fire in an apartment building in Kitzmiller. The fire was extinguished before much structural damage had occurred.

Police said they were called to the parking lot of Shipway's 4K's Service Center at 6 a.m. after Morgan was involved in a multiple tractor-trailer accident.

According to police, Morgan had left his tractor trailer unattended, and it drifted into a tanker truck.

Trooper Ronald Yaniga, who investigated the mishap, said that before any computer information on Morgan's driver's license was received, Morgan ran into the woods nearby.

After the warrant charging Morgan with arson came up on the computer, police searched the wooded area for more than eight hours with the assistance of their helicopter and K-9 unit. Morgan was apprehended at approximately 2:30 p.m.

GCC Students Lend Support To Interim President

Garrett Community College students are showing their support for GCC Interim President Dr. David Puzzuoli in the form of a letter to GCC Board of Trustees Chairman Katharine Smith from the Student Government Association and also through a random survey taken of the students earlier this week.

The letter, written by SGA officers and representatives, called for the board of trustees to name Dr. Puzzuoli to the permanent presidency as soon as possible. The interim president has been highly criticized by some faculty members and state and local officials since he began his duties last fall

The letter stated, "The government leadership has met on several occasions to discuss the leadership that Dr. Puzzuoli has given in changing student apathy to student enthusiasm this school year. He has made personal contact with each of us throughout both semesters. He has guided and suggested. He has never mandated items which took away the government's vote established by our constitution."

It was then noted that many students outside the SGA told officers of how Dr. Puzzuoli helped individuals and groups at any time, day or night, including weekends.

The letter continued, "He has personally provided transportation and accompanied students to court, provided social (dinner) dining the first semester and he was there when our black students needed him, needy students needed him and emotional students needed him. He has attended athletic events with the teams; laughing with us when we laughed and crying with us when we cried. We could go on forever talking about the good things that he has done for the college and the students, but this letter would lose its impact."

"Please give Dr. Puzzuoli fair consideration. The students need him," the letter concluded.

Random Survey

In a random survey Monday of GCC students, it was learned that, for the most part, Dr. Puzzuoli was well-liked and well-respected by many of the students.

The only reservations revealed by the students concerning the interim president were questions regarding some personnel decisions and

GCC Interim President Evaluated By Faculty; Staff, Administration

Faculty Requests Evaluation

The results of an evaluation of Dr. David A. Puzzuoli, interim president at Garrett Community College, requested by a number of faculty members have been compiled revealing little confidence in Dr. Puzzuoli on one side of the spectrum to faith in the interim president on the other.

The idea of an evaluation came about last week when nearly half the faculty asked for "equal time in the local paper" following an interview series with Dr. Puzzuoli which ran in the March 27 and April 3 issues of The Republican.

When asked if they wanted the same type of interview setting, the eight members of the faculty who were able to meet with The Republican staff last week said they were afraid to be quoted because they felt their jobs would be "in jeopardy" if they spoke out against "management techniques." Although the format of the evaluation was disputed by several faculty members, it was ultimately decided to use an evaluation, geared to faculty members only, similar to the evaluation compiled last winter by a GCC committee comprised of Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs; John Culp, comptroller; Bob Crone, academic director; Mike Logsdon, academic director; Joan Sussman, instructor; and Carole Smith, director of the learning resources center.

Of the 20 fulltime faculty and division directors, 19 responded to the evaluation. Listed below are the results:

Job Description Criteria

Staff Demands Equal Time

Several members of the Garrett Community College support staff and administration cried "foul" last week when they heard the faculty was given the opportunity to evaluate Dr. Puzzuoli and that they had been "left out" again.

They proceeded to make copies of the evaluation which had been handed to faculty members and included staff, administrators and students where applicable and began conducting their own evaluation.

Upon speaking with The Republican staff Monday morning, it was revealed to those feeling "left out" that random interviews with staff and students had also been planned for the near future. Due to the excessive load of the reporter covering GCC, among 20 other beats, it was explained that controversial matters at the college in the past had been taking about 98% of that reporter's time and that an ongoing effort continues to hear and print all sides of the controversy within the limits of the law and the guidelines of The Republican.

The end result was an agreement to print the results of the staff and administration-completed evaluations. Although a few students completed evaluations, it was decided to use only their comments during a random survey of the students. That story appears elsewhere in today's edition.

Listed below are the results of the evaluation which show a more positive rating across the board than that given by the faculty. Thirty-two of the 48 members of the administration and support staff responded.

Legislative Change In Membership Tabled By Tri-County Council

At a recent meeting of the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland discussion of General Assembly House Bill-1571 resulted in all action on the bill being tabled by the council. The bill seeks official state recognition of the council in order to make it easier to receive state funds, but to do so, changes the membership number of the council.

TCC chairman and Allegany County Commissioner Arthur T. Bond said the council plans to meet with the state lawmakers from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties to discuss the measure.

Council member and Garrett County Commissioner Ernest Gregg said he would not support the change because it differs from an agreement hammered out by the council and lawmakers last December.

That agreement called for the addition of three lawmakers, two resident senators and one resident delegate. "That compromise would maintain total equality," Gregg said. However, the bill which cleared the General Assembly specified the area's two senators and seven delegates would be members of the council.

"I'm a little more than offended that certain people took it on themselves to change this against the wishes of the council. In the democratic process, the majority concern should have been adhered to and it certainly wasn't," Gregg said.

The legislation, which has not yet been signed into law by the governor, was sponsored by Del. Casper R. Taylor (D-Alleg.-Wash.). Gregg stated that under the legislation, Garrett County would come up short on membership because the county has only one delegate, thus dissolving the membership equality that now exists.

Bond said officials for the U.S. Appalachian Regional Commission and Economic Development Administration told TCC that it must comply with a regulation requiring 50 percent of its membership to be locally-elected officials and state lawmakers do not meet that definition.

He said the council could be forced to add members and an "overly cumbersome" body could result. He also expressed concern that each county's economic development director remain a voting member of the TCC, which has as its prime goal economic development.

District Two Senator Victor Cushwa said the new legislation is "unworkable" and noted that District One Sen. John N. Bambacus and he suggested an amendment to the bill but the suggestion was not implemented.

Unlike the Tri-County Council of Southern Maryland, TCC of Western Maryland does not receive money from the state. It depends on funds from member counties and EDA and ARC grants to fund programs.

Action on the bill has been tabled until November or December after the general election.

In other TCC business, the council endorsed its July 1 to June 30, 1987, work plan and announced that a loan officer was hired to supervise the council's revolving loan fund.

District Court Results Noted

Numerous cases were heard in Garrett County District Court proceedings over the past two weeks.

Florence L. Hines, 39, address unknown, was found to be guilty of two theft charges.

For each charge, she was fined $25 and sentenced to 12 months in the Garrett County Jail, with the sentences to run concurrently. The judge then suspended the sentences and placed Hines on 18 months supervised probation. A charge of forgery was not prosecuted by the court due to a plea agreement.

The charges were filed by Robert E. Friend after a November 15, 1985 incident at Ralph's Richfood.

Hines was represented by John R. Toston, public defender.

In another case, David F. Moon, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, was sentenced to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail for a charge of malicious destruction of the property of another. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing Moon on 12 months supervised probation.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered to Moon in an earlier trial after he was found to be guilty of the charge.

Moon was found to be not guilty of an assault charge.

The charges were filed by Dorothy E. Moon, Mtn. Lake Park, following a February 12 incident when a door and door frame were damaged.

Moon's attorney was Henry R. Adams.

The judge sentenced Robert R. Rhodes, 49, Deer Park, to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail after he found him to be guilty of disturbing the peace.

Rhodes was then placed on 24 months supervised probation.

The charge was filed by Deputy P.J. Pratt after a February 19 incident in Deer Park. According to court documents, Rhodes disturbed the neighborhood with loud noises and profane cursing.

Charges of malicious destruction of the property of another, conspiracy, and two counts of breaking and entering were not prosecuted by the court.

The charges were filed by Detective Donald W. Tucker after a November 24, 1985 incident at Shorty's Bar and Grill, Gortner. According to court documents, alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, and currency were stolen from the establishment.

The charge was filed by Officer Randy L. Sines, Oakland City Police Department, after a March 9 incident when a handgun was reportedly found in his vehicle.

WINNING QUILT SQUARE — The quilt square, pictured above, is the handiwork of Mrs. Mary Bowman, McHenry, which won her a $500 gift certificate from J.C. Penney's. Penney's sponsored five regional quilt patch contests and 16 squares were selected from each region. Mrs. Bowman was chosen from the Eastern/Pittsburgh region and entered the contest at the J.C. Penney store at the Country Club Mall in LaVale. Of the 320 squares entered into the Eastern/Pittsburgh regional contest, 16 were chosen to put together a quilt. Mrs. Bowman was the only winner from Maryland. The quilt was recently exhibited during the Museum of American Folk Arts Great American Quilt Festival held in New York City to honor the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty. An announcement of the winner of the five regional quilts is expected soon. The theme of the contest was "A Celebration of American Style," which is evidenced in the square above. Pictured below, is Mrs. Bowman receiving her gift certificate from William Staylor, manager of J.C. Penney. Mrs. Bowman says she has been quilting for nearly 20 years and has made a quilt for each of her three children and one for her mother. She is no stranger to winning quilt block contests. She was selected as one of 16 in the nation last year with her entry into a national contest with a circus theme quilt square. She says even if she hadn't won, she enjoys quilting and feels good about her hobby.

THE DAV IS COMING — The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) has been sending its vans, called field service units, to communities across the United States for the past 12 years. During that time, more than 430,000 veterans dependents and survivors have taken advantage of the free services offered by the highly trained DAV national service officers who staff these traveling offices. Answered by the national service officers are veterans' questions about a broad range of benefit programs, including disability compensation and pensions, VA educational programs, Social Security disability payments, military benefits, employment and training services for veterans, and more. The field service unit will be in Oakland at the corner of Liberty and Second Streets from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on May 19. The following day, May 20, the unit will be at the Country Club Mall in LaVale during the same hours.

State Police Report Local Area Mishaps

Maryland State Police at McHenry this week reported several motor vehicle mishaps which resulted in minor injuries.

A two-vehicle accident which injured two passengers occurred Saturday on the Hoyes-Sang Run Road.

Amber Close, nine, and Rebecca Fratz, 17, both of Accident, were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the accident.

According to police reports, Margaret A. Close, 38, Accident, was operating a 1984 Chevrolet Blazer which was stopped in a private driveway. Close apparently did not see a 1971 Ford pickup truck driven by Larry R. Glotfelty, 39, Friendsville, and pulled out directly in front of it.

Police said Glotfelty applied the brakes, but was unable to avoid striking Close's vehicle, which then spun around and hit an electric pole.

The mishap was investigated by Tpr. Jon B. Dudiak, who charged Close with failing to grant the right of way.

Charles A. Pursley, 13, Accident, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a mishap involving a three-wheeler on April 30.

According to police, Pursley was attempting to climb a steep embankment in a field. As the vehicle neared the top, the front wheel came off the ground and the vehicle flipped backwards, landing on the driver.

A passenger on the vehicle, William T. Resh, 12, Accident, was apparently not injured.

The mishap was investigated by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger.

Ronnie L. Workman II, 12, Friendsville, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a three-wheeler mishap which occurred Sunday in an open field.

According to police reports, Workman was traveling downhill when the vehicle struck a rock embedded in the ground. The vehicle then overturned, ejecting the driver.

Tpr. M. Hegedus investigated the mishap.

Amelia M. Vinciglierra, 22, Waldorf, was treated at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following a single-vehicle accident Friday on the Lower New Germany Road.

Police said Vinciglierra was southbound in a 1986 Nissan Sentra when it ran off the right side of the road and into a ditch. The car then came back onto the road and overturned twice.

Tpr. Hegedus investigated the mishap, charging Vinciglierra with failure to stay in a single lane.

Phillip C. Smith, 19, Rockville, a passenger in the vehicle, was apparently not seriously injured.

A single-vehicle accident occurred Saturday on the State Park Road.

According to police reports, Jodi L. Learnard, 16, Charleroi, Pa., was southbound in a 1978 Volvo when she lost control of the vehicle. The car went off the right side, came back on, crossed the road and went off the left side, striking an embankment.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the mishap.

David Wayne Frazee, 35, Pittsburgh, was arrested at 12:07 a.m., April 26, by Tpr. M. Hegedus on Route 219 South.

Ohio Balloon Found By McHenry Youth

Jimmie Wagner, son of James and Nina Wagner, McHenry, found a deflated balloon Sunday in his yard and discovered it was from Ohio.

Let's Be Fair . . .

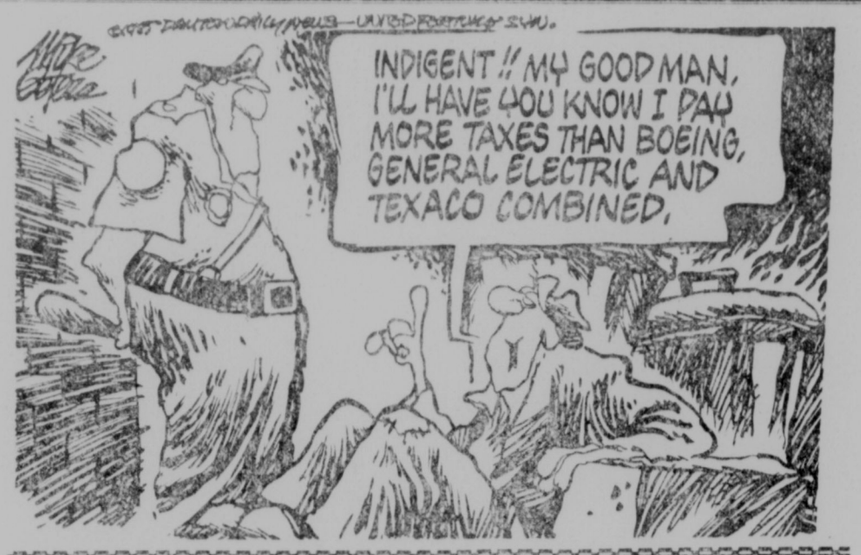
It appears that major income tax revision is in the works, after yesterday's 20-0 vote of approval by the Senate Finance Committee on Senator Bob Packwood's tax-overhaul plan. The plan includes dramatic and historic pieces of tax reform, most of which we strongly support.

It is outrageous to us that so many of the exceedingly wealthy individuals and a great number of major corporations, which report huge profits each year, are able to use the present system of tax shelters and loopholes to avoid paying any tax whatsoever. General Electric, for example, a corporation that has made billions of dollars over the past several decades, has not paid one cent of federal income tax for several years.

What puzzles us is why it has taken so long to begin steps toward wiping out this obvious unfairness in our tax laws. The answer is probably that those who will be adversely affected by such tax revision have had the lobbying power to kill similar efforts in the past. This time, though, it seems that the Packwood package, or at least the major parts of it, have a good chance of becoming law. The timing seems right, mostly because of the general upswing in nearly every area of our economy.

For too long the middle-income folks in this nation, who make up the largest group of the work force, have been paying the bulk of the government's tax tab. We do believe that certain tax advantages should remain for businesses and corporations, because it takes strong business to maintain a strong economy. Without some tax breaks, more businesses would undoubtedly fail and the prices of goods to the consumer would have to be raised. Failed businesses lead to an increase in unemployment and a general weakening of the economy.

We are a bit uncomfortable with the deletion of tax deferred payments to individual retirement annuities, because many of the middle class citizens depend rather heavily upon this deduction. There may be other items in the package that we would not support. But in general, forcing everyone to pay at least a minimum amount of tax, with the exception of the lower-income workers, and closing some of the huge loopholes pleases us immensely.



Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

A recent article in your paper has caused me extreme anxiety. Your reporter quoted me from a phone conversation during which her "goading" caused me to "fly off the handle".

I was quoted out of context and what she wrote was not what I meant. I apologize to all unemployed Garrett Countians who through no fault of their own are unable to find work.

Sincerely,
Betty Friend

Dear Mrs. Friend,

I overheard my reporter speaking with you and I detected no "goading" by her whatsoever. Nonetheless, we recognize the difficult position you and the other zoning appeals board members are in, and that all of us say certain things when under pressure that otherwise we probably would not mention.

Editor

To the Editor:

I could not resist writing with Frances Acton's classic letter last week (April 24) you should have her write a column. I am sure she'd increase your subscription enormously. She is accurate, comedic and a real pro who tells it like it is. Few people in Garrett County seem to have that considerable talent! Bravo!

I too, think as she, but no way could I express it so eloquently.

It's too bad more local folks who live the real life here 12 months a year do not ever seem to be where the really important meetings concerning Garrett County are being held. Many of us were there and we heard and we made presentations before the board and we weren't (afraid before the fact) to be presenting our arguments before the board in a public hearing and we believe we are less self-serving by so doing; more honest, more honorable, more concerned overall with and for the good of Garrett County than many who are wheeling and dealing behind the scenes in their present self-serving interests, political or otherwise!

The lake is near death. The very real potential is there! Then What?

"The lake water access" was all that was being brought before the board at that hearing. It was reiterated by the chairman over and over again; not the whole plan; anyone who cared enough and a lot of people did, were there and they knew the ramp, boat slips and boats were all the board hearing was about; not the entire project! But for the taxpayers who care, that in the proposal for the building, etc, complex taxpayers are to pick up the tabs for much of the public roads, sewerage, water, etc. was appalling to me! Had Mr. Smith not pointed that out from the Rachuba Map plans it would not have been made known at that meeting, I don't believe! Why? It could invoke hundreds of thousands of taxpayers dollars!

Where were all the elected officials the night of the hearing? When 200 plus people packed the hearing room to voice their disapproval of the plan? The only person there who spoke for the plan was the Rachuba Inc. representative!

Those running for office can go to the various ladies meeting, picnics, money raising functions, etc., but why aren't they at crucial meetings to hear first-hand what the people think and are willing to say in public, properly identified, not hiding behind doors or synonymous.

Think about it! Please.
This is my opinion.

Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To The Editor:

Friday night, May 2, I had the pleasure of hearing Southern's Spring Band Concert. It was a delightful performance, a result of obvious hard work and dedication of those involved, band members and instructors alike. While enjoying the performance of this year's field show music, I watched the emotion overtake several of the kids as they played every note of the field show for the last time. I was instantly transported back a few years to my high school band days at Southern, and it was from this recollection that I was moved to write this letter.

I listened, feeling very nostalgic, and I began to realize how significant my membership in high school band has been in the last five years. In the summer of 1981 for example, I had an unbelievable opportunity. Because Mr. Clever had seen it fit to place me as first-chair alto sax, I received the First Chair of America award, along with all other section leaders. I accepted the piece of paper with a handshake at the concert, and took my seat without much afterthought. But because I had been honored in this way, I became eligible to join a unique musical group. That summer, I flew to Europe with 100 other high school band members from all over the U.S. It was called the United States Collegiate Wind Band, made up of all these students. We performed in five countries, and saw sights that I never expected to see in my life. I made some very special friendships on that amazing trip, and I still keep in contact with several of them. I will never forget it.

When I entered college at WVU later that same year, I applied to join the band there (one of the top five college bands in the nation). Because of Southern's reputation, I didn't even have to audition, and was readily accepted. I marched for two terrific years, and in that time traveled extensively with the band. I don't know if I've ever felt such a thrilling rush as I did when we would run out on the field at WVU pre-game shows. Or when all 300 of us would stand and play a moving piece. It was so exciting!

But besides all the travel and the sights, I think what I truly have enjoyed is the simple act of performing music with a group of people. Mr. Clever taught me this, as he has taught so many others. I not only learned how to play the sax and to march, but to be disciplined in something real, something meaningful. I learned how to get along with all kinds of people, and how wonderful it is to play a part in an entire musical group. So when I watched that small group of highly-dedicated young musicians, I wanted to tell them how worthwhile their work has been, and how it will always be important, long after the last playing of the field show.

When I think of my adventure in Europe, or of the thrill of playing "Simple Gifts" on the Mountaineer Field, or even of the annual fun of the Oompah Band in Oakland, I also remember the days of Southern High Band–Mr. Clever, Bob Thomas, and of course my friends that I worked so hard with, laughed with until our sides ached, and cried with when the time came to say goodbye.

Being a band member has led me in paths I would have otherwise not taken. I am forever grateful for that.

Sincerely,
Mary Ruth Sincell

To The Editor:

I find some of the statements attributed to Senator Bambacus in the April 17 Republican to be very misleading. His misleading and condemning statements take up so much space that an important fact has been covered over, i.e. the Rachuba project to build individual residences and villas can proceed within the existing zoning laws. However the Senator's statements strongly imply that the decision of the Zoning Appeals Board kills the whole project. Not so, and the general public should clearly understand this.

The Senator further states that the 150 room hotel will provide 50 full-time positions with an average payroll of $650,000 to $750,000. This looks like a gross overstatement. Simple division shows these jobs would have to average $13,000 to $15,000 annually. These rates are grossly exaggerated and not in keeping with this type of business and the wage structure in Garrett County. The Senator is misleading us on this count, too.

In the next paragraph, he jumps from the $650/750,000 payroll to $1,875,000 payroll to come up with $7,500,000 which he calls "enhancement". Without some kind of further explanation, this too looks like a case of the numbers game to mislead us.

He points to the successful Seven Springs enterprise. We should remember that this has been done without a lake.

He goes on to say "...we cannot afford to allow Garrett County's major economic asset...tourism etc. to be stifled by the self-interest of a part-time minority." A large number of residences have been established under a set of legal zoning laws promulgated by full time residents of Garrett County. The result to date has been the establishment of a community that pays nearly half the County's tax income. Many more such substantial additions can be expected if these zoning laws are maintained. Garrett County should not punish or scare away its major source of income.

Rachuba wants to build the largest marina in Western Maryland on an area of the lake already overcrowded beyond a safe limit. Actual counts last summer showed boat traffic on weekends to average one boat every 25 seconds in the general area where they want to introduce another 300 boats. Think about it. Who is the self-interested minority? Rachuba or the residents?

The quickest way to destroy Garrett County's major source of income is to overcrowd the surface of Deep Creek Lake so that it is no longer safe and attractive.

Sincerely yours,
R.C. Blasingame

To The Editor:

The legal drinking age in the state of Maryland is 21. Enforcement of this law is vague. Minors under 21 in violation can get a $25 fine plus a civil citation with a possible court case and sentence determined by the judge. Violation by the adult contributor—and there has to be a supplier—is again a civil citation and court case with sentence determined by the judge.

When a minor is served an alcoholic drink, it is the same violation if he/she is at home eating a meal or at a party with friends.

You can bury your head in the sand and say "not my kid." Many parents would be surprised how many of their teenagers and friends are involved in alcohol or drugs. Your teenagers and their friends know it's true and are not surprised at all by what goes on at parties.

When 13, 15 and 18-year-olds have beer, wine coolers or other alcoholic beverages available to them, an adult is involved. We are outraged by the fact that some adults are supplying liquor to these teens and will give fair warning that we intend to investigate this matter.

Parents and teens who are interested in discussing this and helping put our teenagers on the right track, please feel free to contact us.

The Garrett County Teen Center has three hard and fast rules: No Drugs, No Alcohol and No readmittance once you leave. It is provided for teenagers 13 to 19 plus (up to 21) who want to have fun without illegal involvement of liquor or drugs. If and when drugs or alcohol appear over the threshold, there will be no Teen Center in Garrett County.

Garrett County has some really great teenagers. We owe them and need to help them become the very best they can be, while realizing they don't need alcohol or drugs to be that very special person God made.

To The Editor:

This letter is really two expressions of gratitude, one to First United National Bank and Trust, its Board of Directors, and its Marketing Department for bringing the Saslavs to Garrett County, and the other to you and The Republican staff for the excellent coverage you gave to this program and the two public concerts sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council.

Under the sponsorship of the bank and the Garrett County council of PTA's, Ann and Isedor Saslav demonstrated to fifth and sixth grade students all over the county how the violin and piano are played, gave a sampling of the compositions of great composers through the years, and helped the students compose music in various musical styles. They even used inexperienced student volunteers to play both the piano and the violin.

Having been present at both their public concert and their school performances, I can attest to the fact that the Saslavs are not only brilliant performers, but also brilliant educators, a much rarer skill. I hope, for the sake of all citizens of the county, that First United National Bank will bring the Saslavs back in future years, and that more people will be able to hear their public performance.

The front page coverage of this concert as well as the Jason West organ concert helped to ensure enthusiastic audiences for both. The editorial entitled, "That's Entertainment" brought many opportunities to the attention of the public.

Thank you. I hope that we can explore this subject further and work together for the cultural enrichment of all our residents and visitors.

measures that can be taken for osteoporosis, the "brittle bone disease" that affects mostly women.

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Dean of Academic Affairs at Garrett Community College, will introduce discussion of the emotional life cycle of women with her talk that will include the importance of development of self-esteem. Seminar participants will then choose a topic for small group discussion, each of which will be facilitated by a psychologist. Faculty Comments

As part of the evaluation, faculty members were invited to make comments about their concerns, pro and con, concerning the interim president. Listed below are a sampling of those comments. Many preferred to remain anonymous.

—"Ironically, this evaluation is the same one he unprofessionally and unethically read parts of aloud in front of the entire faculty. His interview revealed a need for remedial English, a strong anti-intellectual bias and the inability to respond directly to the question asked . .. appears to listen, but does not hear; appears to answer but does not communicate." - Name withheld

—"Dr. Puzzuoli's performance has been erratic. He has made some very poor personnel hiring decisions. Those decisions have tended to negate some positive moves. His relationships and public representations to other government bodies have been nothing less than disastrous." - Dr. D. Zinn, D.V.M.

—"While I personally feel Dr. Puzzuoli might have provided the impetus to move the college forward through innovative approaches to the educational process and delivery system, he lost his ability to lead by making it clear that you could either 'get on board or shut up and keep your hands in your pockets.' We witnessed several occasions at which faculty members were publicly (vs. privately) raked over the coals for dissenting opinions or events which took place prior to his arrival. These actions, along with many others, have created an environment of suspicion, condemnation and fear among the faculty and staff." - Name withheld

Note: One faculty member, who was apparently unaware that the evaluation was neither requested by nor comprised by the staff of The Republican (except for minor changes), made the following comments:

—"I think the questions asked concerning traits and characteristics were too loaded depending on one's perspective on life. How I would perceive those traits depends on my experiences, strengths and hopes. Also, in evaluating, we know through research that rating scales' validity and reliability are subject to personal biases. Therefore, I question the reason for subjecting ourselves to such a technique or strategy of evaluation. Maybe we should be reflecting on what has changed at GCC since Dr. Puzzuoli's arrival. It is time for all of us to get on with the process of educating those who want to learn. If the community is so concerned with GCC, why haven't they shown up at any of the board of trustees' meetings? They are open to the public. Let the president tend to the business of running the college instead of the political games the community plays." - Name withheld

—"It's amazing to me how one man, one president, can alienate so many people in such a short time. It's not just a few members of the faculty." - Name withheld

—"An artist in residence, Donald Cook, was to show his paintings at the GCC gallery. He had given freely of his time to help write the grant we needed for this program. At the last minute, Dr. Puzzuoli decided not to have Cook, but to put in Barbara Fahey's paintings. She is the sister of Sandra Bellanca, a faculty member hired at a salary rate higher than my academic director's salary." - Name withheld

—"He has set up dozens of committees to get faculty input. After putting in many hours on these committees, much of our input is ignored. He goes ahead with what he has already planned." Name withheld

—"I had the occasion to speak with Dr. Puzzuoli many times during the first semester. I felt that he extracted all the information from me that he needed, then had no further need for me." - Name withheld

—"My most serious reservation about Dr. Puzzuoli as president of GCC is the negative relationship that has developed between him and the agencies and organizations with which we must have a positive relationship, including the commissioners, the State Board for Community Colleges, our legislators and the League of Women Voters. I believe these bodies have our best interests at heart. We must respect their concerns and attempt to work out effective relationships with them." - Name withheld

—"Overall, I feel that Dr. Puzzuoli has performed all administrative duties with the college and the community at heart . . . however, in his exuberance to achieve, has strained or even severed normal working relations with numerous faculty members." - Name withheld —". . . two specific and crucial points demand to be addressed. First, the notion that faculty should work for free, i.e. 'voluntary intersession teaching' in light of the extraordinary salary awards made to new personnel is incomprehensible to the extreme. Despite claims or appearances otherwise, a strong undercurrent of pressure exists to change minds.

"Secondly, this concept that the faculty has 10-month contracts and therefore should work '10 months' is bizarre to the point of lunacy . . . let's put the matter into perspective. For one, I've traveled widely in higher education circles and there is nowhere that the faculty stay on board after graduation. The whole rationale of the 10-month contract is for the convenience of the administration to spread payment of salary until the end of the fiscal year." - Name withheld

—"When he came here last September, Dr. Puzzuoli had the opportunity to help us forget the troubled past and to build positively for the future. For some reason, he has apparently chosen another course of action. I have never seen a situation where so many persons have been intimidated and are afraid to speak for fear of losing their jobs.

"Those of us who have been here 13-14 years remember with pride how the 'impossible dream' to have a college in Garrett County became a reality. We think back happily to those good years when people were treated with respect and Garrett Community College was a good place to work. Now that dream has become a nightmare.

"After the turmoil of last year, everyone hoped that the new interim administration would provide the positive kind of leadership we needed. It soon became apparent that this was not going to happen. In the past two years, we have seen many good people leave here, and many lives have been disrupted. A great deal of damage has been done within the college and in the community. I hope it is not too late to repair that damage and to give GCC a new beginning so that it can again be the kind of institution this community deserves." - Joan B. Crawford

by Pam Ashby and Company

Kids tell it like it is and mine are no exception. They have all written tributes (sort of) and I'd like to share them with all the moms out there who know exactly the feelings I experience when I read what my kids have to say about me.

Working Mom
by Jamie, 14

No time to say "hello" - All the time on the go.
But when you are here
There is great cheer.
She's our working mom.
And when you're home
It's like Vietnam.
But I want you to know we love you!

Dear Mom,

I love you. Mother's Day is coming up and that's why I did the glitter picture for you. I sure hoped you like it.

I know you love me, but I don't like you - I LOVE you! Ha! Ha!

Mom. you're a good cook, but I know you don't have much time to clean. That's okay because when you do clean you really clean.

Sometimes I wish you didn't have to work so much but I know you have to even if your job makes you cry sometimes. Sometimes it makes you laugh, too.

I hope you have a nice Mother's Day.

Love,
Annie,

Daughter Kate, aged 4, had the following comments to make and dictated them to her big sister.

"Mom, I love you and I like you even if you forgot to pick me up from Kinderdance last week. You were busy at your job and my teacher says an hour goes by pretty fast.

"I'm sorry me and Annie wear so many clothes every day and make too much laundry and we forget to put them in the hamper. We won't do that on Mother's Day so you can rest and watch old movies on T.V.

"I'm going to be in the gymnastics show and you can come and watch me and be proud of me."

Happy Mother's Day to all the misty-eyed moms reading this column.

Alexander Files Candidacy For Commissioner

Russell B. Alexander, Mayor of Mtn. Lake Park, has announced his candidacy for the officer of county commissioner. He is presently serving his fifth consecutive term as mayor. Prior to that, he served as a councilman for two years.

The candidate is a veteran and served in the U.S. Army. He is a member of the American Legion Post #71 in Oakland.

Alexander is serving his third term as chairman of the Garrett County Mayors' Association and is a past secretary/treasurer of the Allegany-Garrett Chapter of the Maryland Municipal League and currently serves as vice president of that organization. He is also a member of the Garrett County Parks and Recreation Committee.

The county commissioner hopeful commented, "Garrett County's most precious resource is the youth of our area; we must work diligently to provide employment opportunities to retain them. One of my primary objectives in running for this office is to develop an effective program of job creation and retention."

He continued, "With the massive layoffs in the coal industry and other business reductions, Garrett County's number one priority should be job development. New industries will not come into Garrett County unless we provide and maintain a viable business environment."

Alexander further stated that the needs of the elderly should receive greater consideration. "These citizens have contributed to the well-being of this county and county government should take a more active role in meeting the particular needs of the elderly."

Ellicott City Resident Seeks Byron's Post

With stops in each of the Sixth District's seven counties, Dr. John Vandenberge, resident of Ellicott City and past president of the Howard County Republican Party, was in Garrett County on Tuesday to announce that he is a candidate for Congress from Maryland's Sixth Congressional District. He made the announcement on the Courthouse Plaza in Oakland.

Vowing to be an activist Congressman, Vandenberge said that he would "attack the unemployment problems in Western Maryland with negotiations to keep our struggling businesses alive", as he called for "a return to real representation" in the Sixth District.

Vandenberge pointed out "while the current economic boom passes the Sixth District by, the current representative (Beverly Byron) has inexplicably missed nearly 300 votes." He went on to say that, "once elected, I will be a full-time representative of the people", a representative that will "care enough to show up and cast votes when the Sixth District and its people will be affected by the outcome".

In his closing remarks, Vandenberge stated that his "campaign and victory in November will not simply be a victory for John Vandenberge.

"This campaign," he said, "is being waged for and by the good citizens of Maryland's Sixth District. For too long we have been ignored, taken advantage of, and left blowing in the wind when our needs are greatest. The time for positive change is now. The time for real representation is now. Now it's our turn."

Vandenberge and his wife, Linda, live in Ellicott city with their four sons, John, Reese, Alan, and Martin.

GCC To Host High Schools For Career Day

Garrett Community College, McHenry Campus, will again be the host site of the Garrett County Career Day to be held May 14 from 10:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

The main purpose of the day is to assist juniors and seniors from Northern and Southern high schools in becoming more familiar with post secondary opportunities.

The planning committee for this annual event consists of representatives from Northern and Southern high schools, the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College.

Due to renovations at Northern, their students attend classes in the early and late afternoon hours. The committee has therefore agreed upon the above date and time to allow students from both schools an opportunity to participate.

This year there will be over 50 career fields represented including careers in law, medicine, theatrics, merchandising, construction and more.

In addition, approximately 50 post high school institutions such as the FBI Academy, Pittsburgh Institute of Aeronautics, University of Maryland-Eastern and College Park Campuses, and six branches of the U.S. Military will be attending.

There will be a special session in the afternoon for students of both schools. Senator John Bambacus will open the session. Following the opening, Helmuth Heise, a local businessman and potential employer will speak on the employment possibilities in our local resort area. Delegate George Edwards will conclude this session.

Founder Of Coal Festival Relative Of Local Resident

The seventh annual Three Rivers Coal Festival, founded by the daughter-in-law of a local resident, began yesterday in Fairmont, W.Va., and will run through Sunday with a moonlight dinner cruise on the Gateway Clipper, a music festival at Picketts Fort and much more.

The festival founder is Jane C. Hayhurst. Hayhurst and her husband, James, are the daughter-in-law and son of Mrs. Jean M. Hayhurst of Mtn. Lake Park and the late James W. Hayhurst Sr.

The idea for the Three Rivers Coal Festival came from "having been in the mining business for years," Hayhurst said. "My husband and I have traveled to mining shows throughout the United States. While visiting the shows, I got to actually see how the mining machinery worked and understood a little better what took place in the mining of coal."

The founder went on to say that she thought it would be great for school children or anyone who lives in a state where the prime industry is mining, to see just how coal is mined. "We do not have the pride that we should have for our coal people and the industry. I feel this is from a lack of knowledge—not apathy. A festival such as ours opens a lot of eyes," she said.

Hayhurst points out that along with the educational value, the festival is also packed with a variety of fun events for the entire family, including an arts and crafts fair, magical act, spectator contests, paid musical entertainment, an on-going carnival, gymnastics demonstration, square dancing and Gateway Clipper cruises.

Palatine Park in downtown Fairmont will serve as the site for the five-day festival.

A native of Morgantown, W.Va., Hayhurst and her husband have two daughters. She is involved with various community organizations and activities and was the recipient of the Jaycee Distinguished Citizen Award in 1980.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Cornelius Ray Friend who passed away May 10, 1965, and John Lewis Friend who passed away May 9, 1982.

For each sunset there's a sunrise!
In a land we cannot see
There's a place of love and endless dawn that's called Eternity!
In this land there are no shadows, and no deepening shades of night
And no candles ever needed, for God provides the light!
No pain or sorrow enters there, no teardrop ever falls,
And there's no such thing as parting, within its golden halls.
Cares and worries are forgotten, in this land where trials cease.
And the heart knows only gladness, and the bliss of perfect peace!
And in time there'll be reunion, sweeter far than words can say,
For those who've gone on and await us, in this land of endless day!
Your death has left us saddened, now we must carry on alone.
Until that day the Lord will call us, and we are welcomed home.

Kelly Green Wins Maryland JUCO Tennis Title

Kelly Green, a resident of Shady Acres and a 1984 graduate of Southern High School, captured the 1986 Maryland JUCO Conference and NJCAA Region XX women's singles tennis championship on Sunday at Catonsville Community College.

Miss Green, who is a sophomore at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, and seeded number one in the annual state tournament, defeated Donna Micap of Charles CC, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals of the tournament.

Kelly is the daughter of Ed and Mary Ann Green and is only the second woman in the history of ACC to win the title, the first being Carol Klosterman some eight years ago. Green made it to the JUCO semi-finals last season as a freshman. Her victory makes her eligible for national competition, which will be held in Texas next weekend.

According to a spokesman for the ACC women's team, one thing that makes Kelly's win unusually impressive is that she had no experience as a high school player and did not have access to indoor courts for training and competition during the winter months in Garrett County, where the outdoor tennis season is limited to about four months.

Green is coached at ACC by Darrell Blank.

ACC finished in third place overall in the three-day tournament with a total of nine points. Charles CC was the champion with 17 points, followed by Harford CC with 13 points.

Huskies Fall To Mt. Savage

The Northern Huskies dropped to 4-9 on the season yesterday afternoon in falling to powerful Mt. Savage, 13-6, at Northern.

The Indians came into the contest as the top rated Class C team in the area, sporting a 12-1-1 record, and riddled the Husky defense with 19 hits on the afternoon.

Mike Harden recorded a pair of home runs and a single to give him three RBIs, while Jim Cook added a homer and two singles. Scott Williams finished with a triple and two singles, Gary Tipton rapped a double and two singles, and Scott Miller contributed a single and a double.

Coach John Helmick's Huskies recorded eight hits on the day, including a two-run homer by Rod Lipscomb and a double and single by Junior Savage. Sean Jones and Greg Lytle each finished with two singles.

It was the eighth straight win for the Tribe.

Scott Miller, who got some relief assistance from Jeff Shimko in the seventh, earned the win on the mound over Northern starter Kyle Zehr.

The Huskies will return to action on Monday at home against Beall.

Southern Rams "On Fire" Says Coach Bosley After Seven Wins

"On fire" is how Southern High baseball coach Jim Bosley described his team this week after the Rams won seven straight games since last Thursday afternoon, upping their record to 13-4. Bosley's team, despite having only two starters back from last season, has won 12 of its last 13 contests and is in a strong position to go into the playoffs as the number one ranked and host team.

However, Bosley is cautious about looking ahead that far because three games remain on the regular season slate, all of them tough opponents. The Rams will host Allegany on Tuesday afternoon, the only team that Southern has never defeated under Coach Bosley and the only team with which they have a losing record over the past seven years. The Rams then must face Bruce, a team that defeated them at the beginning of the season, and then travel to Northern to face the Huskies who nearly defeated them last week.

Incredible hitting and strong pitching performances highlighted the winning streak this past week, as the Rams nipped Northern last Thursday afternoon in Oakland, 6-5, in an extra-inning contest; crushed Valley on Friday evening, 13-2, in Lonaconing; swept a pair of games from Tucker County on Saturday, 6-2 and 8-0; shocked a powerful Keyser team in Oakland on Tuesday, 10-0; and then coasted over Rockwood yesterday afternoon in both ends of a doubleheader, 11-1 and 10-0, also in Oakland.

It took a two-out single in the bottom of the eighth inning by Bruce Bosley to nip the Huskies last Thursday afternoon.

Each team picked up a run in the first inning, the Rams added three runs in the third and another in the fourth before the Huskies came back in the top of the sixth on the strength of Aaron Zumpano's three-run homer to tie the score at 5-5 and send the contest into extra innings.

After the Huskies failed to score in the top of the eighth, Southern's Chad King opened the bottom of that frame with a walk after being struck by a pitch. King moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Scott Lohr to set the stage for Bosley's winning single.

In the Rams' three-run third inning, Jon Reneslacis led off with a single, Bruce Bosley followed with a triple, and Tim Chapman smacked a two-run homer.

J.R. Bosley recorded three of the Rams' 12 hits, Chapman added an RBI single, and Donnie Horner singled twice. Greg Lytle added a single for the Huskies.

Phil Spaulding took the win on the mound, while Rod Lipscomb, who relieved Wayne Tabor in the seventh, had to absorb the defeat.

It was windy and cold in Lonaconing on Friday evening under the lights, but the Rams were undaunted in their efforts with the big bat, rapping a total of 13 hits, while Jon Reneslacis allowed the Black Knights only three hits.

Pacing Southern's hitting were Bruce Bosley, who recorded four RBIs on a home run and a triple, Max Hill, who finished with a double and two singles, and J.R. Bosley, who sent home two runs on a pair of singles.

Cutter, Hawkins, and Clark were the only Valley players who were able to hit singles off of Reneslacis. It was the sixth loss of the season for the Knights, against five wins.

The Rams also gained strong pitching efforts on Saturday in both contests against Tucker County. Scott Lohr went the distance in the opener, giving up only four hits while aiding his own cause with three singles and an RBI. J.R. Bosley tossed a five-hit shutout in the second game and also led the Rams' hitting with a single and a double.

Horner added a triple and single in the first game, while Reneslacis smacked two singles and J.R. Bosley contributed a two-run triple. Kenton Bozic had two of Tucker County's four hits, both of them singles.

After being pounded by the Golden Tornado of Keyser earlier in the season, the Rams could do no wrong against them this time, especially Reneslacis, who picked up his sixth win on the mound without a loss, scattering even hits, fanning six batters, and yielding only three walks.

The Keyser team came into the season as the team to beat in the area and came into the game against the Rams with a 16-7 record.

On the offensive side, Reneslacis added a two-run double.

Southern opened the scoring in the third inning as Jeff Sweitzer led off with a double, which was followed by two walks, an error, and two passed balls.

Bruce Bosley added a two-run triple, Horner recorded two RBIs on a pair of hits, and Sweitzer and Max Hill each finished with two hits.

Collecting two hits each for Keyser were Mike Smith and Stanslawczyk.

It was not a perfect day for Ram fans, as the Keyser jayvee team similarly gained revenge over the Southern jayvees by mashing them, 15-2. It was the first loss of the season for the junior Rams, who had rolled over Keyser earlier in the season.

Lakers Earn Playoff Bid With Outstanding Regular Season Finish

Two weeks ago Garrett Community College baseball coach Lawrence Nesselrodt told his players that if they had any hopes of reaching the eight-team Region XX playoffs, they had to win at least 11 of their last 14 games.

By last Thursday evening, the Lakers had lost three of those games, meaning they had to win all six of their remaining contests for a shot at the playoffs.

That is precisely what the Lakers did and they received notice of their well-deserved reward yesterday in a telephone call, stating that they were awarded one of only two at-large bids in the tournament. They are seeded seventh in the double-elimination event and will take on second ranked CC of Baltimore at 11 a.m. this Friday. All games will be played at Frederick CC.

Should the Lakers win they will face the winner of the Beaver-Catonsville game on Saturday at 11:30 a.m. If they lose the opener, they will take on the loser of the Beaver-Catonsville contest at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Allegany Community College is the number one seed in the tourney, followed by Baltimore, Beaver, Cecil, Hagerstown Junior College, Catonsville, Garrett, and Allegheny-Pittsburgh.

After dropping a doubleheader to ACC last week, the Lakers played another flat contest on Thursday against CCAC Allegheny and were soundly defeated, 15-5.

"We just didn't have any momentum at all," stated Nesselrodt, "plus Lynny Shook and Jim Keller both got hurt in the game and had to be benched. Allegheny is a super team, though."

The only real highlights of the game for the Lakers were a solo homer by Brad Basinger and a three-singles, two-RBI effort by Kent Freeman.

The Garrett bats really came live after that final loss of the season, however, as the Lakers swept doubleheaders from CCAC South on Saturday in McHenry, 14-7 and 9-5; from Dundalk on Sunday, 5-2 and 12-7, also in McHenry; and over CCAC South again on Tuesday, 5-4 and 8-2.

In the first game on Saturday, a two-run homer by Kent Freeman in the fourth inning broke a 6-6 tie and put the Lakers on top for good. It was Freeman's 13th home run of the year.

Brad Basinger put the game away for Garrett in the sixth with a grad slam homer. Basinger also had a single in the contest, while Dave McLaughlin, Rick McPeek, and Lynny Shook each had a pair of hits.

Brian Gray, who relieved Brian Wagner in the first inning, pitched all seven innings for his third win of the season against one loss.

The Lakers were also trailing in the second game, 5-3, heading into the bottom of the sixth inning, however a two-run single by McLaughlin in that frame knotted the score at 5-5. Phil Carr then followed with an RBI single for the go-ahead run, Carr and Benny Shreve scored on a mishandling of Freeman's fly to right, and Bruce Erminio plated Freeman with a single to round out the scoring.

Denzil Evans, who came in with one out in the sixth to retire six batters, earned his first win in relief against no losses.

Against Dundalk, Vaughn Yenich went the distance in the opener to record his seventh win against three defeats, as he scattered seven hits, recorded seven strike outs, and yielded only one walk.

The Lakers were down 2-0 until the bottom of the fourth when Kent Freeman smacked a two-run homer to tie the score, his 14th round tripper of the season.

Rich Harasti won the contest for Garrett in the sixth with a three-run homer. Freeman and Carr each finished with two hits in the game.

In the nightcap the Lakers trailed 1-0 until Carr's two-run double in the second inning.

The Lakers were on top 5-4 until the bottom of the fourth when they exploded for seven runs. Shook led off the inning with a solo homer, followed by a two-run shot by Shreve, his seventh homer of the season. Freeman and Keller followed with back-to-back doubles and Brian Wagner concluded with an RBI single.

The Lakers stole six bases, which Nesselrodt stated was a major key to the win.

Stacy Viands, who was relieved by a now-healthy Chris Huyett in the fifth, earned his third win in five starts.

Against CCAC-South on Tuesday, the Lakers barely held off a seventh inning rally to preserve their win in the opener.

It took a rather spectacular, but unusual, double play by Garrett to conclude the first game. With one out, McPeek flipped a hit ball to the shortstop Shreve for an out at second. Shreve fired the ball to first in hopes of completing the double play, but the ball was wide and first baseman Carr had to take his foot off the bag to make the catch. The runner was safe at first, but Carr fired the ball to the catcher Brian Wagner, who tagged a runner out at home, whose score would have tied the game.

Basinger earned the win and Evans was credited with his fifth save.

After being down 2-0, Shreve led off the Laker fourth with a triple, his sixth of the season which is a school record. Freeman sent him home on a single to tie the GCC RBI record of 53. Wagner followed with a sacrifice fly to plate Freeman and tie the score at 2-2.

A single by Shook in the fifth following Keller's lead-off double and bases-loaded walks to Harasti and McLaughlin gave the Lakers a 5-2 lead.

Keller finished with two doubles and Shook and Harasti each hit two singles.

Jeff Varitek drove in the Lakers' first three runs with an RBI single in the second inning and a two-run double in the third to give GCC a 3-1 lead.

The Lakers picked up single runs in the next three innings, as McPeek hit an RBI double and a single, Keller had two singles and one RBI, and Shreve added two hits.

Freeman broke the Garrett RBI record in the top of the seventh when he drove home runners with a triple, his third hit of the game.

The Lakers won 15 of their last 20 games to finish at 25-14.

"Our guys really deserve this opportunity in the playoffs," Nesselrodt said. "They have just played great baseball the past week and I was so pleased to get that phone call yesterday."

He noted that last season, after the best start in GCC history, the Lakers dropped nine of their last ten games. "I like it a lot better this way," he said.

Vaughn Yenich will attempt to tie the pitching record at Garrett as he will start against Baltimore tomorrow and attempt to register his eighth win of the season.

"Vaughn's had a full week's rest and should have a strong game for us," Nesselrodt concluded.

"I have never seen a Southern team play any better than we are right now," stated Coach Bosley. "We are really on fire and frankly, I'm not sure I understand why or how. We have only two starters back from last season and I really never dreamed we would play this well in so many consecutive games. I believe it says a lot for our jayvee program."

The Southern jayvees recorded an 8-0 record last season.

A win over Allegany next Tuesday afternoon would be a record-setter in several ways. It would be the 14th win of the regular season, a plateau that no Southern team has ever reached, it would be the first win over Allegany since Bosley has been at the helm, and it would be Bosley's 80th career win as coach (against 44 defeats).

"I hate to say too much about how well we are playing right now, or to say that we are a great team," Bosley said, "because we could go right out and lose our next three games. But I do think we are peaking at just the right time in our season. I just hope we can keep on hitting and pitching the way we have been."

whether or not he was listening to the faculty as much as he was listening to the students.

One student stated, "I've heard people say or have read in some of the papers that Dr. Puzzuoli's hiring and firing practices were questionable. I'm not an expert, so I don't know about that. I do think, no, I wish Dr. Puzzuoli would try to get along better with the state people and the Garrett County Commissioners. That's probably my biggest complaint, if you can call it that. At least he cares deeply about the students and I understand it hasn't always been that way here at Garrett."

Spencer Schlosnagle, Mayor of Friendsville and student at GCC, commented, "I think Dr. Puzzuoli is doing a very good job trying to bring out in the open what's going on here. Since he came, there are more classes offered at times to fit more students' schedules. I know he cares about what he's doing here. He, Dr. Nancy Priselac and Manning Smith are doing a tremendous job with the SGA and recruitment efforts at the college."

Sue Sisler, student and incoming SGA president, indicated that she wasn't quite sure of the exact problems at the college, but said she felt Dr. Puzzuoli was "doing a great job."

She continued, "I've worked very closely with Dr. Puzzuoli this year and I can see that more things are being done than ever before. With all you read in the papers, though, it's evident that something has to be done soon. I love it here and I hope I can help in some way to solve some of the problems. Maybe everyone should try a bit harder to work things out. I know Dr. Puzzuoli is very concerned and very supportive. I don't know of any students who don't like him.

"Whatever the problem is with the faculty I hope they realize they can easily be replaced if they are so unhappy here. If they are sincere about their jobs, they should work it out."

Another student stated, "In my opinion, the faculty members are acting more like children than the students. If they don't like it here, let them go. I can't tell them that, though, because it could get me in trouble with some of my instructors."

Ms. Sisler, along with the other students polled, did say that they felt the faculty had been successful in keeping their problems out of the classrooms and felt they were doing an excellent job of instructing despite their problems with the administraion.

"We're not even sure who's telling the truth to the newspapers," said a student. "All we know is that we like Dr. Puzzuoli and we like our instructors. They all seem to care about the students. Isn't

Staff, Administration Comments

—"Dr. Puzzuoli has given a positive representation of the college to all constituencies who will take the time to talk with him and find out the true facts. It is those politicians and reporters who don't want to know the truth and who listen to those eight faculty/administrators who keep stirring things up with anything they can. The best thing that could happen to GCC is that those eight people do walk out! They profess to care about the college or to be loyal and dedicated to GCC. I say actions speak louder than words and they have shown their true colors.

"All their actions are hurting the college tremendously and I feel it's time for the rest of the employees and the citizens of the county to say, 'Enough!' Don't keep encouraging them. They got rid of the last two administrations with these tactics and are attempting to do it again with the help of the polititians and the press. The politicians and press have set a precedent here . . . we resent the fact that eight people continue to be allowed to speak for us.

"If the politicians would like to show GCC employees that they truly care about GCC, they can do it in a way which really counts - by working to increase funding for GCC so that it can grow and they work cooperatively to continue to let it grow. They must stop using GCC for a political platform. Politics do not belong in an educational institution.

"Dr. Puzzuoli has given his all for GCC. He does not deserve the kind of treatment he has been receiving from certain factions. He inherited a myriad of problems that have had to be corrected and keep getting thrown out to the public. No one deserves the kind of treatment he has been receiving." - Susan Stem

—"Dr. Puzzuoli has been too involved in defending GCC and himself to do a great deal of planning. He could and would if left alone by the media, politicians and state boards.

"I'm afraid his effectiveness has been side-tracked and that makes me angry. I have supported him and will continue to support him. He loves GCC and wants to see GCC become the best, but the fight continues, and I am afraid he will be the loser - an innocent loser because he cares so much.

"He does not seem to be able to build bridges with the media, political persons, state boards or officials who question his actions or thoughts. He does have community education needs at the top of the list. I rate him excellent in this." - Name withheld

—"The situation at Garrett is unique. It has been going on for many years and Dr. Puzzuoli isn't responsible for it. A few faculty members are responsible for it and it's probably these same few who have threatened a walkout. If they would do us the favor of walking out, 99% of GCC's problems would be solved." - N withheld

—"Perhaps too often we're taught to respect people who have what we may not. Sometimes this is wealth, but more often it is wisdom due to years of experience or educational background. Prestigious titling also commands respect regardless of whether it is accompanied by wisdom.

"Dr. Puzzuoli has experience and education, however, neither these nor prestigious titling has earned him my respect. His words and deeds are solely for the survival of this institution and its employees who believe in its survival.

"No one is ever liked by all, nor will they always be right, not should they try to be a caterer of whims. We've gone through so much. The time this man has been with us is not adequate for a fair 'evaluation' as this is called. He's been available, communicated, expressed concern and I can't name one, not one faculty member or anyone else who was present on this campus more so." - Darlene Tressler

—"There is fear. If you say the wrong thing or disagree with Dr. Puzzuoli, it may not go over so well. He talks about the KGB and spies. He hires people he knows will support him. In return, these people pressure others to support Dr. Puzzuoli. It sounds kind of fishy to me." - Name withhe'd

-"Dr. Puzzuoli is always around when you need him. He's willing to talk to you and let you know where he stands on issues. I respect this.

"He's making the faculty work for a change. 40-48 hours a week they work (or so they claim in The Republican of May 1)! Usually after graduation you're lucky to find any faculty on campus, or during the fall break, or between the end of the fall semester until a week before the start of spring semester - good luck. I feel this has been unfair - work under and get paid for 10 months and only have to work nine months.

"Let me also make note that the week of April 28 - May 2 was the last week of classes before finals. If these so-called faculty members were so interested in their students, why have they been 'holed up' for hours on end meeting with the media and among themselves? How many hours that week were dedicated to the students (which by the way is why we are here anyway)? It appears to me not many at all.

"If the faculty threatens to walk out if Dr. Puzzuoli is hired, then let them as far as I'm concerned. There are more of us than of them (faculty), someone should start paying attention to us." - Linda Browning

—"You could cut the top off this place and it would still run. The turmoil is always upstairs. We need a leader who can bring this place together again in a diplomatic way." N withheld

—"I have been employed at GCC for only two months. I don't feel that this is a long enough time period to fully understand the situation at GCC, therefore, I could not fill in the evaluation sheet properly. However, I will give my personal opinion of Dr. Puzzuoli. I feel he does not deserve all the unfair criticism he has been getting in the press. I feel he should have the opportunity to perform his job without all the pressure and hassles that he has been getting.

"He treats the students as well as the employees with nothing but kindness and consideration and he cares about people's feelings which is more than I can say for some other people. I certainly hope he gets appointed as president of GCC. I feel he will only help the college." - Shirley Lawson

—"Dr. Puzzuoli's insistence on punishing some for the past is destroying the future. All of his wonderful ideas are overshadowed by his bitterness and vengeance." - Name withheld

—"Directors are, for the most part, not consulted concerning changes, nor are they allowed to encumber funds that have been allocated to their areas." - Name withheld

—"I'm dismayed. As much information is put out on questionable issues, I don't see how the employees can complain. They don't like the result so they strike out at the man, not the issue. They scream about communications. How can they dispute the vast research based on his decisions? Just because you don't like what he's saying doesn't mean he's not communicating." - Name withheld

—"I would have to say that Dr. Puzzuoli has used poor judgment from time to time, but I truly feel that it is because of his drive to make GCC a better college. He could use some refinement in dealing with elected and appointed state and local officials, but then again there are times those same officials could use some refinement.

"Dr. Puzzuoli is also guilty of yelling at people when he deems it necessary - just like employers yell at their employees and parents yell at their children. Sometimes it's for their own good and hopefully everyone can grow from it. God knows we don't get a new set of parents every time things don't go our way.

"Dr. Puzzuoli has been wrong at times, but so has everyone else. What kind of example are we providing for the students? If we could all just admit we have been wrong in the past and get on with college life, everyone could benefit." - Name withheld that what's important? I'm personally tired of people cutting down Dr. Puzzuoli when they don't even know him - not the way we do. Maybe he wouldn't seem so crabby to other people if they would quit bugging him and let him do his job. It's a shame intelligent people have to act this way."

Kim Martin, current president of the SGA, stated, "All the students love him. He's like a father to us. He's there for us. He lets you know his opinion, but he doesn't criticize. He gives us ideas, but he lets us make the decisions. He's fantastic."

She continued, "I think he's getting the blame for things that happened in the past. The truth of the matter is he's got more enthusiasm than anyone else around. Although I feel some of the faculty members are incompetent, I must say they are not letting their problems enter the classroom."

Ms. Martin concluded, "People have trouble accepting Dr. Puzzuoli because they can't walk over him. I feel that some of the recent changes he's made were for the best interest of the school, even if those changes happen to inconvenience a few faculty members. All I can say is that Dr. Puzzuoli does look out for all the students. We love him."

Elizabeth A. Castle

"Betsy"

Kingwood

Circuit Clerk

Republican

I am Elizabeth Anne Castle, however I am known as "Betsy." I am a Republican candidate for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Preston County. I am running for the office of Circuit Clerk because I have the experience and qualifications to hold this position.

My parents are Elmer and Violet Strahin Nuce of Pleasantdale. I have three older brothers, John, Mike and Dan. I have been married to Bruce Castle for eleven years. We are the parents of two daughters, Christy, age eight, and Carrie, age three. Our family lives in Pleasantdale and we attend the Pleasantdale United Methodist Church, where I am presently serving as secretary.

After graduating from Kingwood High School in 1974, I attended Potomac State College. Later, I transferred to Fairmont State College, where I received an Associate of Science Degree in 1976. I took college courses that included business law, accounting, office management, records management, and office procedures, all of which are involved with the Circuit Clerk's office. Although I carried a full schedule and worked part-time in college offices, I was on the Dean's list at Potomac State and graduated with honors from Fairmont State.

My work experience includes working one and one half years at the State Police Office in Kingwood. There I became familar with the police officer's duties regarding the Circuit Court. I also worked part-time at WFSP Radio Station for a few months.

My most important qualification for this position is that I work in the Circuit Clerk's office, and I am the only candidate who has this experience. I began working in the Circuit Clerk's office in March, 1979. I have now completed seven years in the office, the past five years I have served as Chief Deputy. The Circuit Clerk's office is involved with a wide variety of important jobs and by working with Richard Smith, our present clerk, who is retiring after thirty years of dedicated service, I have learned to perform the duties both in the office and in the courtroom. I know the importance of seeing that the work is done properly and on time and of keeping up with the changes in the law regarding the Circuit Clerk's office. I have worked with the public on a daily basis in the Circuit Clerk's office for the past seven years and I know how to meet their needs. I have the educational background for the position, but I believe that there is no substitute for on the job experience.

If elected to the position of Circuit Clerk, I will continue to maintain the office and keep the records with the same care and integrity that Mr. Smith has done. I will keep the best interests of the Circuit Court, the county, and the public in mind by working with the citizens of Preston County in a professional and personal manner.

When you go to the polls to vote on May 13, vote for the candidate with experience in the Circuit Clerk's office. Place your mark by the name of Elizabeth A. "Betsy" Castle. In return for your vote and support, I will continue to manage the Circuit Clerk's office efficiently and with the expertise that it requires.

GNB Bankshares Stockholders Meet

The stockholders of GNB Bankshares, Inc., held their annual meeting at their office in Oakland on Thursday, April 24. GNB Bankshares is a one-bank holding company with Garrett National Bank as the only subsidiary. Approximately 73% of the shares outstanding were represented at the meeting, by proxy or in person.

Re-elected as directors to serve for the ensuing year were: Milford E. Beckman, Wendell R. Beitzel, R. Donald Cussins, Richard S. Devlin, James H. Feaster, Jr., M.D., Carl R. Fike, Thomas J. Johnson, Thomas D. Jones, Thomas D. Kight, Max A. Messenger, Arthur Naylor, and W. Dwight Stover.

A review of the results and activities of 1985 was presented by Chairman James H. Feaster, Jr., M.D., and officer David W. Cathell. It was noted in the review that the banking subsidiary, Garrett National Bank, experienced a strong year in growth and profitability. The Bank's assets grew by $9.3 million or almost 10 percent. Dividends paid to stockholders increased to $419,929, or an increase of five percent over 1984. Included in the highlights of 1985 was the opening of a new branch office facility at Deep Creek Lake and entry in the CashStream automatic teller network.

A reorganizational meeting was held immediately following the stockholders' meeting, and the directors elected James H. Feaster, Jr., M.D., chairman of the Board; Milford E. Beckman, president; George W. Evans, vice president; Janey L. Hanline, secretary; and David W. Cathell, treasurer of the holding company. Also at this meeting, the Board of Directors of GNB Bankshares, Inc., named the same 12 directors to serve the banking subsidiary, Garrett National Bank.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

Rotary Notes

The program for the April 24 meeting of the Terra Alta Rotary Club was provided by Clyde Snyder. His guest speaker was Mark Malone, from the United States Conservation Service.

Malone's topic was the effort that the conservation service is involved in cleaning up the damage caused by the November 1985 flood in West Virginia. His presentation included a series of graphic slides of the damaged areas, including Rowlesburg, Albright, Parsons, Moorefield and Petersburg.

Rev. Bruce Reed, president, announced that the Academic Awards Night for students of East Preston High School will be held on May 15. Tim Peters is a member of the students' selection committee for the awards.

The local Rotary Club is sponsoring a Little League Team this summer.

Senior Citizens Night, in conjunction with the Terra Alta Civic Club, is scheduled for the second week of May. It will also be Rotary Ladies Night.

WMS Meets

The WMS of the Whitedale Corp. Brethren Church had a covered dish luncheon May 2 in the social room of the church in honor of Mother's Day. A meeting followed with Lucille DeBerry as leader. Her topic was "The Promise of Heaven." Those taking part in the program were Lucy Kelly, Karen Nine, Lucille Wright and June Waybright. Presiding over business was conducted by Edna Hull, president.

Squad Meets

The Terra Alta Community Ambulance Squad met on April 28 at the ambulance building. Those attending were Buck Short, Jon Rondeau, Rowena Mersing, Virginia Smith, Donna Carney, Danny Kelly, Junior Kelly, Ruth Teets, Twila Lee, Mary Ann Feather, Gary Fike, Willard Harsh, Delores Pomeroy, Ellen Mayne, Clint Mayne and Mike Feather.

Jon Rondeau called the meeting to order.

The membership committee, consisting of Buck Short, Mary Ann Feather, Danny Fultz and Walker Smith and Virginia Smith, met on April 24 to prepare a proposal for allowing hours of volunteered service to compensate for membership dues. It was proposed that an active member who has completed one year and maintained 400 hours service per year will not be required to pay membership dues for him or herself or their immediate family.

Each member will be responsible for the keeping of his/her time and turning them in at least once a month to the office to be recorded or the hours will not be credited to their membership.

Buck Short reported that the fund raising committee did not meet. He had made arrangements for a Pepsi sale from May 23-June 6.

There was discussion of a calendar fund-raising, which was referred to the fund raising committee.

Buck Short reported that Linda Teets had resigned because of illness as vice president. A committee consisting of Junior Kelly, Donna Carney, Mary Ann Feather, and Buck Short was appointed to fill this vacancy.

Jon Rondeau suggested that a letter of appreciation and flowers be sent to Ms. Teets for her service to the squad.

It was noted that by June 1, 1986, all ambulance drivers will be required to have a chauffeur's license.

Jon Rondeau, who is moving to Connecticut, resigned his position as a member of the board and chairman of the board. Buck Short expressed appreciation to him for the "excellent service" he has given to the squad as a board member, chairman of the board, medical supply officer, paramedic, EMT, and advisor.

The matter of appointing a board member to replace Rondeau was referred to the nominating committee.

B.E.A.R. Month At Broadford Is "Beary" Successful

During the month of April, Broad Ford Elementary School has been celebrating B.E.A.R. Month, "Be Enthusiastic About Reading."

Children have been participating in activities to encourage reading and to make it fun. Some of the activities have included a poster contest, creative writing, bear reports, bear puppets, creating a bear food recipe, and guessing the number of gummy bears in a jar.

During the week of April 14, 185 parents and grandparents joined the children for lunch and some of the parents shared a book with their child's class. Teachers made their classrooms more "bearable" by using the bear theme in their learning centers.

Classrooms were judged and the rooms found to be the most bearable were awarded a bear party. A special highlight of the month took place on April 24, when several people from the community found time to visit and read a book to the children. Among those who visited were: Commissioner John Braskey, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of schools; Jim Shaffer of WMSG Radio; and Wayne Johnson, former principal at Broad Ford.

The students were also shown a slide program about black bears in the area by Al Bourgeois from the Department of Natural Resources.

The month was rounded out by an assembly held Friday, April 25, when prizes were awarded to students. Any student who had given five or more book reports received a number. Numbers were drawn from a box, and those holding the numbers drawn received a stuffed bear, which was donated by the Broad Ford PTA.

Students logged a total of 517 book reports for the month. As April is National Library Month, teachers at Broad Ford feel that the students certainly made use of the library and formed some good reading habits.

A JUMP ROPE-A-THON was recently held at Garrett Community College, sponsored by the GCC Physical Education majors in conjunction with the American Heart Association, Cumberland Chapter. Students, faculty and staff participated in a two-hour jump rope session, collecting $822 from sponsors. Participants jumped in teams of six. The GCC Bookstore team, headed by Margi Perfetti, bookstore manager, won first place for raising the most money. Members of the team were: Kim Buckel, Lois Wilson, Jeff Eggleston, Michael Blackwell, and Suzan Wolfe. Professor Ann Wellham, who coordinated the event, said, "I initially agreed to coordinate the event because I felt that our Physical Education majors could use the experience in fund raising. I also felt it was important for them to realize that heart disease is the number one killer in the U.S. The idea of using a jump rope session to raise money for heart disease research combines fitness with a worthy cause." Pictured above, left, is Carol Smith, Director of the Learning Resource Center, and Wellham, holding a book donated to the GCC Library by the American Heart Association. Pictured above, right, is Rick McPeek, a GCC student who participated in the Jump Rope-A-Thon.

State Forest Roads Closed To Assist Wildlife

Following the scheduled spring turkey season, visitors to Savage River and Potomac-Garrett State Forests may find many of the roads and trails are temporarily closed to motor vehicles. These roads and trails will either be closed by gates at their entrance and/or by posted signs stating that no motorized vehicles are allowed, according to a release from the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

The purpose of these road closings is to provide minimal disturbance to wildlife population during spring and summer nesting and birthing periods, the release said. Some wildlife species, such as, wild turkey have been known to abandon their nests or young when repeatedly disturbed from the nest side. Young fawns flushed from their birthing site are exposed to extra hazards such as vehicle kills, fence entanglement and predation by domestic dogs at a time in their life when they can least defend themselves.

The DNR said it is hoped that closing many of the roads on state forest will benefit all wildlife population during a critical life-stage, thus maintaining or increasing the valuable wildlife resources on state forest land.

Not all state forest roads will be closed during this period. Many major all weather roads, all designated 4-wheeled and 2-wheeled ORV trails, and roads to recent timber sales will remain open. This will be done to allow such recognized uses as sightseeing, firewood gleaning and ORV use to continue. Hiking and primitive camping will be permitted even on roads closed to vehicular traffic.

Any use of closed roads and trails by unauthorized personnel is a violation of state forest regulations and could result in a citation. Also, it is illegal for any person to cause or permit a vehicle to obstruct traffic by parking or stopping at gated roadways, road entrances, or on the state forest roadway itself, whether open or closed, in a manner that prohibits their use by authorized or emergency vehicles. It is hoped that many, if not all, of the roads closed during this period will re-open just prior to the fall hunting season, weather and road conditions permitting.

LIBRARY BOOKS PRESENTED — For the past two years, Brownie Troop No. 5523 has received a book from the Q.S.P. program for all the brownies working in the program. In turn, the girls donated the books to the Broad Ford Elementary School Library as a way of saying "thanks" for the use of the school to hold meetings. Pictured above, left to right, are Tom Fowler, school principal; Brownies Salena White, Jennifer Shillingburg, and Maryann Wolfe; and Judy Upole, school librarian. Not present when the photo was taken were Becky Ford, now attending Red House School; Donna White, leader; and Linda Wolfe, assistant leader.

State Employment Trends Projected

There will be 2.45 million jobs in Maryland in 2005, according to the Department of State Planning (DSP). "Maryland gained 155,400 jobs in the first half of the 1980's. The number of jobs will increase by approximately 415,000 in the next 15 years," said DSP Secretary Constance Lieder.

Information about jobs and workers is the subject of a new report in the projection series covering employment and labor trends during the period from 1967-2005. Statistics on the number of persons employed in major industries or groups of related industries are also available.

Employment projections indicate that Maryland is in step with national trends, according to OPD Director Michel Lettre. In fact, the state's shift away from manufacturing toward a service economy is even more pronounced than the national trend.

The manufacturing sector accounted for 16.8 percent of all jobs in 1970, 9.9 percent in 1985 and a projected 9.1 percent in 2005. Even with this decline in sector share, the number of manufacturing jobs is expected to increase over the depressed level of the 1980's. By 2005, manufacturing jobs will number 232,000, well below the 1980 level of 241,000 but above the 1983 level of 201,000.

Mature industries such as primary metals, steel, motor vehicles and shipbuilding which were high technology activities a decade or more ago are either declining or stagnant. Present high technology industries such as electronics, machinery, and instruments are continuing to expand as are printing and publishing which are less oriented to national markets.

Declining job market shares in manufacturing have been offset by an increase in jobs associated with trade activities as well as jobs in the finance, insurance and real estate industries. But service industries have accounted for the most dramatic increase in job market share from 18.3 percent in 1970 to 26.4 percent in 1985 and a projected 28.1 percent in 2005. This segment has absorbed most of the growth in the female labor force since 1970.

Total government employment peaked in 1980 when 507,000 persons were employed by federal, state and local governments. In 1985, that number had declined to 467,000 or 21.9 percent of all jobs. DSP projects that 521,000 jobs will fit into this category in 2005 representing 20.5 percent of the state's jobs. In the nest 15 years, nearly 41,000 additional state and local government jobs will be created.

One of the most significant developments uncovered while preparing the report is the shift in regional shares of employment. Employment opportunities in the Suburban Washington, D.C. area expanded the region's share of jobs from 22.1 percent in 1967 to 31 percent in 1985. DSP projects this trend will continue and that 33.7 percent (856,600) of the state's jobs will be located in the area by 2005.

Baltimore's share of jobs has declined from 60.5 percent in 1967 to 53.7 percent in 1985. DSP expects 51.2 (1,303,250) percent of the state's jobs to be in the Baltimore area in 2005.

Copies of the report priced at $15 are available. Persons may send check or money order to Employment Projections Series, #86-3, DSP, 301 West Preston Street, Room 1101, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201.

Lung Association Releases Directory

The American Lung Association of Maryland (ALAM) has released the "Pediatric Lung Disease Resource Directory," a publication designed to help families with children who suffer from lung disease.

The unique Directory contains a complete listing of organizations that provide services for children with lung diseases or disorders. The listings include addresses, phone numbers, contact people, and brief descriptions of the services provided. The Directory also includes: a glossary of conditions that define specific lung diseases; general descriptions and addresses of local departments of social services, helath departments, and medical societies; and a general description of Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs). An appendix in the back of the Directory lists each organization and indicates services provided in six separate categories.

Printing of the 24-page publication was made possible through contributions from Travenol and National Medical Homecare. A limited number of copies are available free-of-charge by phoning ALAM at (301) 494-1100 or 1-800-492-752"

Small Business Group Presents Recommendations

Governor Harry Hughes received a report this week from the Maryland Delegation to The White House Conference on Small Business listing 45 recommendations that could make it easier for small businesses to grow and expand.

The report from the Maryland Delegation will be passed to the national delegation to The White House Conference on Small Business at its August 17-21 convention in Washington, D.C.

"The vast majority of the 88,000 businesses in Maryland are small businesses, and approximately 80 percent of all new jobs created in the state are the result of existing businesses expanding," Hughes told the delegation.

"Maryland offers small businesses a very good climate for growth, and we must continue to nurture that pro-business climate," he added.

The recommendations involve areas which directly affect the growth of small businesses, such as finance, taxes, payroll costs, regulations, training and education, international trade, and procurement. The report also suggests ways to increase innovative technologies among small businesses, retaining and expanding the U.S. Small Business Administration, and national economic policies to assist small business.

The report was compiled from comments and suggestions of small business executives who attended conferences in Baltimore, Hagerstown, Easton, Largo, and Catonsville.

The 31-member Maryland Delegation is co-chaired by Hope Eastman of Morgan Associates and Bennie Thayer of Landover.

For copies of the recommendations, persons may contact Len Elenowitz at (301) 269-3514.

Wildflower Walks Slated In Parks

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service has announced that Wildflower Walks will be held Saturday, May 17, at Herrington Manor State Park, and Sunday, May 18, at Swallow Falls State Park, each beginning at 2 p.m.

Herrington Manor's walk will leave the parking lot at the dam and Swallow Falls walk will depart from the main parking lot. The one-hour walk will be led by Hugh Trimble.

One wildflower which may be seen is the pink lady's slipper orchid, formerly the most common of the larger flowered, wild orchid. According to a Park Service spokesman, its beauty has been its undoing and it is now found only in infrequented moist woodland areas.

Other flowers expected to be seen are the trillium, jack-in-the-pulpit, and magical may-apples, which lay claim to witchery.

The walk at Swallow Falls will proceed through virgin hemlock and pine forest and travel through canyon areas. Hikers will encounter steep climbs which may be strenuous in places. The Herrington Manor walk will be less strenuous, covering wooded areas.

Persons are encouraged to wear appropriate walking shoes and to bring rain gear. All plants and flowers are protected by regulation and are not to be picked or removed from public lands.

Backpacking And Canoeing Trips Slated For 1986

Tuckahoe State Park, Queen Anne, May 24, June 14, June 28 and October 25, 15 miles of flat water.

Pocomoke River State Park, Snow Hill, September 20 and September 27, 10.5 miles.

The overnight backpacking trips are scheduled as follows:

Savage River State Forest, Big Savage Hiking Trail, Grantsville, June 7, 8 and 9, 10:00 a.m. with an orientation at New Germany State Park; fee $40.00 includes all food and transportation to and from the trailhead; 17 miles along the ridge of Big Savage Mountain.

South Mountain State Park, Jefferson, July 19 and 20; Total hiking distance for both days, 12 miles.

Participants on the backpacking trips must bring their own packs, tents, sleeping bags and personal items.

Information sheets and reservation forms are available from the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401, telephone (301) 269-3771. Reservations are on a first-come, first-served basis. Trips will be held, rain or shine.

50 ELECTRIC UTILITIES: WHO'S HOT AND WHO'S NOT.
Declining oil prices and decreasing long-term interest rates have added new luster to utility shares. Especially for investors seeking current income with the potential for capital appreciation.
But how do utilities compare with each other in terms of earnings quality? What are their rankings for dividend growth and yield?
You'll find the answers in Butcher & Singer's recently compiled "Electric Utility Roundup" report. It provides investors with information on 50 utilities located locally and in other parts of the country. And it cites our specific "buy" recommendations.

Something To Think About
R. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR
AFRAID TO SAY WRONG THING
Many quite close and caring friends avoid a family which has suffered a loss, or keep silent about their feelings, for fear "of saying the wrong thing." To begin with, this is not an unusual reaction. Often it is because individuals have not come to terms with their own sentiments about death. Because they are unsure of their feelings, they are afraid their words will come out all mixed up.
Try not to worry. There is no one "right" attitude toward death and grief. Besides, many people are as confused and ambivalent about it as you may be. In fact, it would not be amiss to share your concerns. It might even open the door for family members to express their own doubts and feelings.
The important thing is to be with them, and to show that you care. It is very rare that an honest display of humanity will be resented and misunderstood. Absence or silence, on the other hand, might be.

VA Home Loan Rate Drops Again

For the sixth time in ten months, the Veterans Administration will lower its maximum home loan interest rate. Effective May 3, VA-guaranteed fixed rate mortgages will drop one percentage point to 9½ percent—the lowest since April 22, 1979.

The decrease continues a pattern that began in late 1981 when VA rates peaked at an all-time high of 17½ percent. It is the first one percentage point decrease since August 24, 1982, when it dropped from 15 percent to 14 percent. In recent months, the decline has accelerated with the last drop occurring in mid-December.

Acting VA Administrator Everett Alvarez Jr. said the market is clearly reacting to Federal deficit reduction initiatives. "There is a great deal of optimism about our economy and Administration efforts to reduce the Federal budget deficit," he said.

Alvarez said the lower rate benefits both new veteran-buyers and many veterans who already have VA home loans with interest rates as high as 17½ percent. Those veterans may be able to refinance their loans at the new lower rate.

The VA will also decrease by one percentage point the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages (GPMs) to 9¼ percent and home improvement loans to 11 percent. In addition, the rates for manufactured home loans will be decreased. The new maximum rates are 12 percent for unit-only loans and 11½ percent for loans to purchase either a unit with the lot or for a loan to purchase a lot upon which a unit already owned by the veteran is to be placed.

The rate change does not affect existing loans, whose interest rate remains the same for the life of the agreement. VA home loans may be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair, or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

Witherspoon leaves soap fans spooning

By Kimberly Redmond

I've been a fan of Dane Witherspoon for a long time. He makes me whirl! What can you tell me about him? — K.M., Edmonton, Canada.

Dane Witherspoon

Witherspoon made his daytime television debut as Joe Perkins, a character he created on "Santa Barbara." The actor was written off that soap after less than a year. Several months passed before he reappeared on the small screen in his current role of Tyler McCandless on "Capitol."

Can you tell me whatever happened to Ann Flood, the actress who portrayed Nancy Karr on "The Edge of Night?" — L.T., Athens, Ala.

The actress hasn't resurfaced on any daytime dramas since "Edge" was cancelled. She recently guest starred on an episode of the hit NBC series "The Cosby Show."

I've been watching reruns of "Dynasty," and I saw Wayne Northrup in several episodes. I'd like to know if he portrayed Blake's chauffeur, Michael, before or after he appeared as Roman Brady on "Days of Our Lives." — A.B., Jamestown, N.Y.

Northrup appeared on "Dynasty" during the nighttime soap's first season (1981). He joined the NBC soap about a year after his "Dynasty" role ended. The actor is currently looking for work in feature films, and he still refuses to return to "Days," even though he's been asked to reprise his role several times.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Please settle a bet. I say that Hugh Beaumont is related to "Growing Pains" star Alan Thicke. My father insists I'm nuts. Do I get carted away? — L.G., New City, N.Y.

Alan Thicke

Sorry, L.G., the thespians are not related. Beaumont starred as Ward Cleaver on "Leave It to Beaver" from 1957-1963. He died in 1982.

What TV shows were set in San Francisco? — B.D., San Jose, CA.

One of the earliest San Francisco-based series was "The Lineup," which ran on CBS from 1954-60. The police drama, which was later syndicated under the title "San Francisco Beat," starred Warner Anderson and Tom Tully. "San Francisco International Airport," which aired on NBC in 1970-71, starred Lloyd Bridges and Clu Gulager. One of the most famous San Francisco-based series was "The Streets of San Francisco," the ABC police series that ran from 1972-1977. The series starred Karl Malden and Michael Douglas, who left the show in 1976. One of the most recent series based in the California city was "Partners in Crime," the ill-fated 1984 detective drama that aired on NBC. That flop starred Lynda Carter and Loni Anderson.

Karl Malden

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Carroll O'Connor stars as a prosecuting attorney who fights to imprison a man accused of multiple rapes — a man who's later proved innocent — in "Convicted," a real-life story airing Monday, May 12 on ABC.

NBC brass offer actor his own valentine

By Gillian George

The next time you watch Scott Valentine sail through one of his nifty comic scenes on "Family Ties," check out his physical condition.

Scott Valentine

He seems to be a typically fit, health-blessed American teen, right? Wrong. The 27-year-old actor has been walking without crutches or a cane for the past two years.

In 1980, the day after he signed a contract for his first daytime soap role, Valentine nearly lost his life because of a drunk driver. The actor was riding his bicycle on New York's Eighth Avenue when he was rammed from behind, flipped into the air, had his pelvis run over and was dragged for almost two blocks.

If a courageous pedestrian hadn't leaped onto the truck's running board and forced the driver to stop, Valentine would probably never have survived. Even so, he sustained five major fractures and 32 minor fractures of the pelvis, a shattered left hip and a mangled left leg.

The actor was hospitalized for 61 days and spent the next three years undergoing numerous operations and thousands of hours of physical therapy. Several doctors told him he'd never walk again, especially after later complications left one hip completely useless and necessitated insertion of an artificial hip made of steel and ceramic.

"But my father taught me never to quit," Valentine says softly. "I just made up my mind that all the experts were wrong."

His perseverance paid off last July when he landed what was to be a one-episode role as Nick Moore, an artist who wins Mallory Keaton's (Justine Bateman) heart.

The NBC brass are so impressed with Valentine's potential that they've already taped a pilot for a new fall series with him in the lead.

"It will probably be called 'A Family Business,' 'Taking It Home' or 'Bringing It Home,'" the actor explains, "and I'll play an Italian guy named Nick Morelli who runs a small custom toy factory in Detroit with his grandfather, who's being played by Herschel Bernardi.

"The new Nick will be a lot like the old Nick," says Valentine, "but he's going to be at least twice as smart because he winds up running the family business. Best of all," he adds, "it's a nice feeling knowing that somebody has enough faith in me to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars preparing the pilot."

Duffy's 'Dallas' return makes him seem lost

By Ian Harmer

HOLLYWOOD — Patrick Duffy's return to "Dallas" — just in time for this week's season-ending cliffhanger — is hardly an earth-shaking event. But it may well earn a niche in TV history as an occasion when an actor went a little too far in playing a role.

Patrick Duffy

When they are in costume and make-up, we expect actors to set their own personalities aside and pretend to be someone else, entertaining us with a carefully woven web of white lies which is not fiction.

Last month, Duffy was on the road publicizing "Strong Medicine," the syndicated miniseries which marked his first major TV role since he walked away from "Dallas" at the end of last season. It was inevitable that journalists would ask him if he regretted turning his back on the million dollars-plus he pulled in each year as a regular in a hit series, and if there was any possibility that he would change his mind about leaving. After all, he was a comparative unknown before the Ewing saga made him rich and famous. No, said Duffy, he had no regrets because, amazingly, he'd made more money on his own than even "Dallas" could afford to pay him; and no, he would not even consider returning to the show. How could he, when Bobby Ewing had been pushing up the Southfork daisies for almost a year?

The cameras and microphones were there to record the reality of a living, breathing human being, not the fantasies of a fictional character, and there wasn't a script in sight.

But Patrick Duffy, it seemed, was still acting. When I talked to him, Duffy had already secretly agreed to return to "Dallas" and step back into Larry Hagman's shadow. But he nonetheless volunteered the assurance that "Dallas" was behind him forever, and repeated his claim that he was a wealthier and a happier man since laying the junior Ewing brother to rest.

No lives have been lost, no careers ruined as the result of Duffy's ultimate flip-flop. At press time, Duffy's new "Dallas" character has not been revealed. But one question will remain: How far should an actor go to perpetuate the paranoia of primetime soap producers, who guard their plots as if national secrecy was at stake? Since he was still issuing denials long after his new "Dallas" deal had been squared away, Duffy evidently feels no holes are barred.

Life is a cabaret for NBC and Liza fans

By Wayne Miller

The guest list reads like a Who's Who in Hollywood. Everyone from A (Debbie Allen) to Z (Stephanie Zimbalist). In fact, NBC should be proud as a peacock for bringing together the more than 100 stars who will be participating in the network's 60th anniversary celebration, airing Monday, May 12.

Liza Minnelli

The special, produced by master showman Alexander H. Cohen ("Night of 100 Stars I and II," "The Annual Tony Awards"), will feature the old and new, the familiar and the fresh. There will be music and memories, laughs and lively dance numbers. The show promises to be the television event of the season — even George Burns' next birthday bash couldn't offer the excitement of this three-hour extravaganza. Just think, close-ups of parading peacocks and an homage to game shows!

For all of the self-serving shenanigans, there will be a few interesting moments. Viewers can glimpse the first episode of "The Tonight Show" (Steve Allen lent the tape from his library) and witness a star-in-the-making as a 17-year-old Liza Minnelli — her broken leg in a cast — warbles on "The Jack Paar Show."

Speaking of Liza Minnelli, fans of the Tony-Emmy-Oscar-winning entertainer are in for a treat when she stars in "Liza in London," a one-woman song-and-dance show premiering Saturday, May 17 on HBO. Liza turned 40 in March, but age isn't slowing this gamine down. For 90 minutes, the performer sings ("Some People"), struts ("I'm So Excited") and sizzles ("I Love a Piano"). Liza also tantalizes her audience with several trademark tunes, including "Cabaret" and "New York, New York."

"Liza in London" was taped last March 19-20 at London's famed London Palladium, the same theatre in which Minnelli performed — nearly 25 years ago — with her mother Judy Garland. Back then Liza Minnelli was known as Judy's daughter. It's nice to see how some things have changed.

Don't miss "Liza in London." She will keep you smilin', tappin' and hummin' — even when the special has ended.

James Burrows taxis into a new series

By Frank Lovece

Director-producer James Burrows took a "Taxi" to "Cheers." But that's all over. Really. "All Is Forgiven."

James Burrows

Burrows — the middle member of the Charles-Burrows-Charles team that produces "Cheers" and the new NBC series "All Is Forgiven" — is probably the most respected, and certainly the most successful, director now working in television comedy. He's (almost) embarrassed when reminded of this. "Who said that, Jay Sandrich?" he ripostes, referring to his mentor, one of the greats of TV comedy directing.

The fact seems to genuinely astonish the quick-witted, good-natured Burrows. As the son of Pulitzer Prize-winning author Abe Burrows ("Guys and Dolls"), he claims he didn't want a show-biz career. "I didn't want to be 'Abe Burrows' son' all my life," he recalls. "It was something I thought I had a foothold in, though, it was no different than taking over my father's tailor shop. Two of the key things you need in show business are perseverance and drive, and those are two things I don't have. And I'm not kidding. I'm in this because it's a family business and," the 45-year-old director adds with a smile, "I know how to make a good suit."

Going along with Burrows' modest assessment, the boss's son did indeed start at the bottom. As the "assistant to the assistant stage manager" of one of his father's Broadway shows, the young Yale Drama School graduate became friends with Mary Tyler Moore and her then-husband, Grand Tinker. After Burrows became a stage director, Tinker brought him to Los Angeles and helped nurture him through "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Rhoda" and other MTM productions.

"It's my job," he says, "to train the cast to function on its own, to make the actors director-proof. By the same token, with every actor you work with, you learn things. And you put these things in little nooks and crannies in your head; you retain them, and they come up when you need them."

Burrows says all this in between chomps of a working lunch; this is not a man spoiled by success. And despite his modesty, deep down he knows he's good. "One of the reasons Grant (Tinker) brought me out here was because of my stage background," he explains, "which is why I'm always looking for people who come out of theater. I think they make terrific directors."

Milton Berle, the comic genius better known as Mr. Television, dons a wacky disguise as he takes part in "NBC's 60th Anniversary Celebration," a three-hour extravaganza airing Monday, May 12. More than 100 stars associated with the network will be on hand for the party.

SUNDAY

Kiefer Sutherland (Donald's son) stars as a victim of elective mutism and Marsha Mason plays his psychologist in "Trapped in Silence," a made-for-TV movie airing Sunday, May 11 on CBS.

Call Her Blessed

Oliver Wendell Holmes possessed amazing skills, but none greater than his insight into the minds of mothers:

Youth fades; love droops,
the leaves of friendship fall:
A mother's secret hope outlives them all.

Blessed is the child whose "mother's secret hope" is embodied in "sighs too deep for words," constantly hoping with unspoken encouragement.

A "mother's secret hope" finds expression in soft eyes that reflect love and in firm eyes that discipline, urging adherence to rightness without ever speaking a word.

She is a person who sees no inconsistency in being herself and at the same time sharing herself with her child, calling forth the best in both.

She recognizes that her child is a first-time visitor to this planet, and everything is new. Mother becomes tour director, touching the early dogwoods of the forest, blessing her child by introducing everything that grows.

And "mother's secret hope" outlives all failures because she never sees her child's successes in terms of what he or she does, but what he or she is. And when failures happen, it is failure in DOING not BEING.

Whether you are 5 or 50, she never stops being mother. At 5 you are unaware of her secret hope; at 50 she no longer has a secret. You see it in her wrinkled face, roadmapped by your own pilgrimage up several "Fools Hills" and other related mountains.

A "mother's secret hope outlives . . . all," because "Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praises her." (Proverbs 31:28)

WHAT MAKES A FRESH DRUG?

There are many factors that can effect the freshness of potency of drugs. To name just a few there are temperature, light, moisture, type of container and of course, the ability of the drug itself to remain in a potent state. Because of this last mentioned condition some drugs are labled with a date beyond which they should not be used.

The very first thing your pharmacist will check for is an expiration date on the container. Sometimes, a drug will start losing its potency after it is mixed with something else or is out of its original container. This information is then put on your prescription container.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE LANGUAGE THE SPIRIT SPEAKS

May 11, 1986

Background Scripture: Acts 1:4-8; 2:1-21; 13:1-12
Devotional Reading: John 16:12-15.

Many Christians don't know what to do with Pentecost. It is an experience they have never had. Furthermore, they're not even sure they would want it if it were offered to them. Essentially, as presented in Acts 2, Pentecost is an ecstatic experience and ecstasy, particularly spiritual ecstasy, is a rather rare commodity in standard brand Christianity where there is a kind of common, unspoken understanding that, if you feel some ecstasy coming on, take a deep breath and hold it in until it passes. Fearing the consequences of religious emotional excess, we have pretty well eliminated the emotional dimension of religion in many churches.

INSPIRED CONTROL

As a result, many Christians are bored by a religious lifestyle that so tightly reigns in all emotion that it is always "safe" and correspondingly impotent to lift us out or above ourselves. At the same time, we both covet the apparent power of the spiritually less inhibited and remain eternally vigilant lest anything, including the Spirit of God, causes us to lose control of our normal detached demeanor.

Is there no middle ground between these two apparent extremes? I believe Pentecost indicates that there is. That which makes Acts 2 a Pentecostal experience is not that the disciples of Jesus were "out of control" with religious ecstasy, but that they were under the precise inspiration of the Holy Spirit. The experience was not one of chaos, but of an inspired order. This was not a case of each worshipper "doing his own thing," but of doing God's "thing" under the direction of his Spirit.

Furthermore, many people have a picture in their minds of Pentecostal Christians speaking ecstatically in unintelligible sounds or tongues. But, if you read carefully Acts 2 you will find that the tongues in which these people were found speaking were not unintelligible tongues but bona fide languages that could be and were understood by many people in the vicinity. No less than three times the writer of Acts tells us "each one heard them speaking in his own language" (2:6,8, 11) and goes on to list the different languages that were recognized.

INSPIRED POWER

The essence of the Pentecostal experience, therefore, was not ecstasy for its own sake nor exhibitionism, but power to witness to the saving grace of God. The "tongues" were intended, not to point to those who uttered them or to say, "Look what we can do!" but to point to God and say "Look what He has done and is doing!" The Spirit had the worshippers speak in intelligible tongues so that others could be edified, not mystified.

In other words, Pentecost gave the disciples the power to speak of God in Christ to people in words they could understand.

GOBA Holds Luncheon Meeting

The Greater Oakland Business Association met April 8 at P.C.'s Restaurant with 17 members in attendance.

Topics of discussion were the Moonlight Madness Sale, the upcoming Memorial Week Sale and the need to generate traffic in the Oakland area. Ray Zeender suggested a street carnival. Dan Daniels and Dwayne Boyce will check on possible carnival companies.

A brief discussion on ways to attract prospective members to GOBA resulted in the following suggestions: prepare new list of prospective members who could be contacted; current members inviting prospective members to meetings; and outlining the benefits of belonging to the associations, i.e. advertising at the lowest rate in any association-sponsored promotion in The Republican, The Value Guide and WXIE/WMSG, in addition to being part of a larger promotion event.

The next meeting will be held at Cornish Manor on Tuesday, May 13, at 1 p.m. Anyone in the business community is welcome to attend, according to Jan Naylor, secretary.

Governor Hughes Proclaims Suicide Awareness Week

Governor Harry Hughes has proclaimed May 4-10 as Suicide Awareness Week in an effort to stem the increasing numbers of suicides by young people.

In issuing his proclamation in conjunction with the American Association of Suicidology, the Governor stated, "We can all learn what we can do to prevent a suicide from occurring and how to be a helping friend."

Suicides occur in all types of families, among people of all income levels and among the old and the young, the Governor noted.

For young people, the rate of suicide has almost tripled in the past 20 years. In 1982, more than 5,000 deaths by youths were documented nationally as suicides and 500,000 or more attempted suicides. In the Baltimore area alone, from 1970 to 1982, the rate increased 410 percent for males aged 10-19.

Among recent actions taken by Governor Hughes to counter youth suicides have been:

—signing HJR 47, which establishes a gubernatorial task force on youth suicide, and HB 1221, which provides for pilot prevention programs through schools and the community.

—provision of $60,000 in the State's budget for pilot prevention programs.

—designation of staff as a member of the Maryland Chapter of the National Committee on Youth Suicide Prevention.

—publication and distribution of a comprehensive newsletter on youth suicide through the Governor's Office for Children and Youth.

For information about suicide and suicide prevention, persons may contact Jay Mossman, chairman, Maryland Chapter of the National Committee of Youth Suicide Prevention, 2331 Old Court Road, Baltimore, MD 21208. For copies of their recent newsletter, persons should contact the Governor's Office for Children and Youth at (301) 225-1290.

Professional or emergency help can be obtained by contacting a local mental health department, a mental health professional, or a hotline/crisis intervention line.

"If you suspect that someone you know is at risk, don't wait," said Governor Hughes. "Be a caring, non-judgmental friend and help them get professional help—right away. In many cases, suicide can be prevented."

Fire Suppression Training Held At Herrington

The Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service recently held its annual fire suppression training at Herrington Manor State Park. Employees of Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Parks and Potomac-Garrett State Forest attended the four-hour program conducted by Guy Carola, Deputy State Fire Marshal; Dan Lasher, Fire Protection Products; Mark Durst, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department; and Dale Fike, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

Carola discussed the importance of fire prevention programs and equipment at work sites. He noted that carelessness and poor housekeeping in shop areas can lead to accidents and fires. He pointed out that fires on recreation areas can and do adversely affect local economies. With more strict budgets, the likelihood of rapid rebuilding of destroyed park facilities and replacement of damaged equipment is reduced, he said.

Lasher described the various types of fires and the proper type of fire extinguishers for each fire. After the discussion, all employees practiced the correct use of fire extinguishers on live oil, grease and wood fires.

Durst, a lieutenant for the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, displayed one of his department's light duty response trucks. He fielded a variety of questions about the fire department, the equipment they use, as well as questions about chemical fires and spills.

Wildfires and their containment were discussed by Dale Fike, who has had many years of woodland fire suppression experience in Garrett County. He led a "volunteer" crew into a nearby wooded area and cleared a fire line. The program concluded with a short report.

Dennis Shaffer and Foster Lewis are safety representatives who attended the Farm Accident Rescue program held at Oakland on April 19. Information received at that program has direct implication with work conducted routinely in area forest and parks.

The cooperation of the various agencies and speakers are "valued highly" by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, according to a Park Service spokesman.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Health Systems Board Convenes, Hears Stanton

The Governing Board of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland met at the Grantsville Holiday Inn on May 1. Dr. T. Gregory Hutton, president, presided.

James R. Stanton, executive director of the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission and formerly executive director of the Western Maryland Health Systems Agency, spoke on the Hospital Capacity Plan, current activities of the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission, and recent Maryland legislation concerning the health care system.

Lou VanHollen, director of Archway Station, Inc., addressed the Governing Board and asked for the Agency's endorsement of Archway's proposed project. Archway Station is Allegany County's community rehabilitation program for the mentally ill. One of Archways principal jobs is providing rehabilitative residential services. As part of that service, Archway plans to purchase and renovate three homes located in the City of Cumberland to provide housing for 12 chronically mental ill adults.

Archway is providing staff-supported housing to 41 people living in its residential program. All home and apartments are currently rented, amounting to over $30,000 a year in rental payments. Archway has targeted the replacement of these rental properties with the purchase of properties as a long-term goal. Archway feels this would be a more appropriate use of state funds. As part of the initial application, the state of Maryland requires a letter supporting the proposed project from the Local Health Planning Agency. The Governing Board voted unanimously to endorse this project.

The Governing Board heard reports from the Agency's Management, Plan Development, Review, Evaluation and Implementation Committees and Governing Body. Board approval was given to the actions of the Governing Body for the months of February, March, and April, 1986.

The Hospice of Washington County has been denied approval for its request for a home health Certificate of Need. However, in light of the unique services delivered by a hospice and the concern that such an organization is prevented from participating in third-party payments, the HSAWM recommends the following actions:

—The HSAWM encourages the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission to recognize the differences between home health and hospice, specifically regarding the home health methodology In addition, CON's should be contingent on hospices' serving exclusively terminally ill patients.

—The HSAWM encourages the Office of Licensure and Certification to develop specific howpice standards for consortia and home health based models. Furthermore, any development of these standards should include close collaboration with the Hospice Network of Maryland.

—The HSAWM encourages the appropriate state professional organizations such as the Hospice Network of Maryland and the Maryland Association of Home Health Agencies to formally recognize the differences between hospice and home health.

—Finally, the HSAWM encourages the MHRPC to recognize the current limitations of the regulatory system in relation to the consortia Hospice of Washington County and to respond positively to their need for participating in third-party and other reimbursement systems by initiating changes in CON and Licensure as cited above.

The next meeting of the Governing Board will be held on August 7 at 10:30 p.m. in Allegany County.

NOTICE
We've changed our name . . . our yard post signs and our colors . . . but we still give that same friendly service you've been accustomed to for years from HAYWOOD AGENCY, INC. You see . . . we have come to realize that it is better to be "PERSONALIZED" . . . and not "FRANCHISED". This is what we have discovered after working with so many Property Owners in our marketing area. Our yard signs are no longer yellow and brown on a yellow post. Today they feature the symbolic colors of RED, WHITE & BLUE SIGNS on a WHITE YARD POST. So please, look for our new signs all over Garrett County . . . and don't be surprised to see so many of the same signs all over Allegany and Mineral Counties as well. (We have over 200 properties for sale with yard post signs on them). Even though we still maintain "National" connections, we have come to prefer more "Localized" connections with 3 Real Estate offices in Deep Creek Lake, Keyser, and Short Gap, W.Va. We've been here in Garrett County for 20 years and our Agents know the territory. They're experienced, seasoned Professionals who don't like to brag . . . rather we are PROUD TO SAY, "WE KNOW GARRETT COUNTY!!"
THANK YOU,
Herman J. Haywood

OSTEOPOROSIS AWARENESS WEEK — The Garrett County Commissioners have proclaimed May 11 to 17 as Osteoporosis Awareness Week and urge all citizens to learn the facts about osteoporosis, a brittle bone disease which affects 15 to 20 million Americans, most of them women. Thirty two percent of women and 17 percent of men who live to the age of 90 will likely suffer a hip fracture due primarily to osteoporosis, and more than 50,000 older women and many older men die each year in the United States as a result of hip fracture complications. The best treatment for osteoporosis is prevention through education and adequate nutrition, including calcium-rich foods, and weight-bearing exercise as the foundation of a program of prevention. Seated above, left to right, are Commissioners Ernest J. Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey. Standing, same order, are Mikal Moomau, Wellness Together Coordinator at Garrett Memorial Hospital, and Jane G. Williams, Garrett County Extension Agent, Home Economics. Moomau invites women of all ages to learn more about osteoporosis at the Women's Health Seminar beginning at 9 a.m. this Saturday, May 10, at the Southern High School Cafeteria.

THE "MINGLE" BUYING TREND

"Mingling" or collaborative home buying has become a national trend. The U.S. Census Bureau reports that more than 3 million people have purchased first or subsequent homes with relatives, friends and even co-workers. The most common reason is economic.

A collaborative home purchase can be more cost effective than renting an apartment on an individual basis. Two or more owners can expect to save money on food, maintenance and utility expenses. Also, a group of four people earning $25,000 each would have a combined earning power of one earning $100,000 which makes mortgage qualification easier.

In addition, the higher level of income for two or more prospective owners makes the down payment more affordable. Simple arithmetic demonstrates this. The standard down-payment on an average $100,000 home is 20%, or $20,000. For four owners, or two couples, the cost is $5,000 each. If you want to be a homeowner but can't overcome the down-payment hurdle, think about "mingle buying."

Hamill Earns Top Award For ROTC At VMI

A 1976 graduate of West Nottingham Academy, Colora, Va., has gone on to earn one of the nation's most prestigious awards for ROTC excellence during a recent ceremony conducted by the U.S. Army's top officials held at the Virginia Military Institute.

Goeffrey S. Hamill, son of Stuart F. Hamill Jr., and Marjorie R. Hamill, both of Oakland, received the 1986 George C. Marshall Award as one of over 300 college seniors from across the country recognized for their excellence in military science and leadership skills.

Hamill, representing New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, says, "I am extremely proud to be a Marshall Award winner. I consider the award as a vote of confidence from my ROTC cadre and the Army."

The Marshall Awards have been honoring the nation's top ROTC cadets since 1977. They were named in honor of General George C. Marshall who served as the Army's chief of staff during World War II and later went on to serve as Secretaries of State and Defense during the Truman administration.

During their four-day conference, the students attended a wide range of lectures and seminars dealing with topics such as national security, leadership skills and the future of the military officer corps.

While attending New Mexico State, Hamill received the Distinguished Military Student Award for 1985 and 1986.

He plans to enter the Army as a commissioned officer upon graduation.

Electric Bill Extension Noted

Potomac Edison's residential customers in Maryland who qualify for certain types of government assistance may now receive a 10-day extension in which to pay their electric bills, according to a PE spokesman.

Under the residential bill extender program, customers who receive monthly Social Security benefits, supplemental security income, disability payments, or other financial aid when such benefits or payments are the main source of household income, now have 30 days instead of 20 days to pay their bills. Before the bill extender plan can take effect for the eligible customers, they must apply to Potomac Edison so that they may be identified and their billing put on an extended cycle.

The residential bill extender plan was required by and has been approved by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

Potomac Edison serves all or portions of seven counties in Maryland, including Garrett, Washington, Allegany, Frederick, Carroll, Howard, and Montgomery.

CRP Explained By Schlossnagle

Farmers who retire their highly erodible land under the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) may be better off financially than if they continued to crop it, according to Jim Schlossnagle, U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The second sign up for the program, which pays farmers for planting grass or trees on cropland with erosion three times or greater than the tolerable rate, is May 5-16. During this sign up period, farmers have the option of not harvesting their current crop and collecting their payment beginning in October 1986, or harvesting this year's crop and collecting their payment beginning in October 1987.

During the first sign up in March, some farmers based their bids on what they felt they could get if they continued to grow crops on the land they were entering into the program. The fallacy with that, Schlossnagle explained, is that they were using average farm yields. Actually, yields on highly erodible land average 25 to 45 percent lower than on land where erosion is within tolerable limits.

Some farmers failed to realize that they could subdivide a field, retiring only the most erodible land down to an area of three acres. "In many cases, the good land is carrying the highly erodible land," he added.

"Highly erodible land takes much more management including more fertilizers and more costly erosion control measures to produce the same yields as less erodible land," Schlossnagle said. "Landowners may be better off to retire that marginal land."

Farmers considering signing up should look at current yields on that land, the rental payment they could get under the program, and the cost of maintenance over the 10-year contract period, says Schlossnagle.

For example, with an average corn yield of 100 bushels per acre, an average production cost of $120-$175 per acre, and an average corn price of $2 per bushel, a farmer would net anywhere from $25 to $80 per acre. However, if yields on highly erodible land are 25-45 percent less, then the farmer is grossing $90 to $150 on those acres, which doesn't even meet production costs.

During the last sign up, bids accepted under the CRP in Maryland averaged about $43 per acre and went as high as $65. "If you can make almost as much by not planting as planting, why bother planting," Schlossnagle asks.

Taking highly erodible land out of production will reduce the amount of sediment reaching the Chesapeake Bay and make more land available for wildlife habitat, Schlossnagle said. "When the economic gain is little to none and the potential environmental benefits are great, it makes sense to retire that marginal land."

Farming In Maryland.....

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Computer Program Designed To Improve Net Farm Income

Maryland farmers can now access a sophisticated market and information system right on their home or farm computer. Farm Bureau ACRES is produced and marketed by the Maryland Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Farm Bureau's goal is to improve net farm income," said Maryland Farm Bureau President Robert Wilson. "A computerized information system like ACRES is just one of the tools farmers will need to stay afloat in the coming years," he said.

Commodity futures from eight major commodity exchanges are updated every 10 minutes, and the service carries more than 800 daily and weekly USDA market reports. A full-time Washington, D.C. correspondent keeps subscribers abreast of legislative and regulatory developments. Farm Bureau market analysts provide daily and weekly reports on market action.

"The name of the game in agriculture today is marketing, and ACRES will give our members the information they need to sell their crops and livestock at the right time, for the best price," Wilson said.

For information about Farm Bureau ACRES, contact the Maryland Farm Bureau (301) 922-3426.

Crop Reports In For First Quarter

The National Agricultural Statistics Service has announced that corn stored in all positions on April 1 is estimated at 5.95 billion bushels, 50 percent more than the April 1, 1985 total of 3.97 billion bushels.

Of the total corn stocks on hand April 1, 67 percent, or 3.98 billion bushels was stored on farms. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during January-March totaled 1.95 billion bushels (49.4 million metric tons), up two percent from the comparable quarter a year ago.

All wheat stored in all positions on April 1 is estimated at 2.12 billion bushels, 27 percent more than the 1.67 billion bushels on hand April 1, 1985. Wheat stored on farms amounted to 799 million bushels, up 12 percent from April 1 a year ago. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during January-March is 402 million bushels, down 15 percent from the 474 million bushel disappearance during the same period in 1985.

Soybeans stored in all positions on April 1 totaled 1.18 billion bushels, up 31 percent from the 896 million bushels in storage on April 1, 1985.

Farm stocks, at 599 million bushels were up 23 percent from the April 1, 1985 total of 487 million bushels. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during January-March totaled 589 million bushels, 12 percent above the same period in 1985. Indicated disappearance for the marketing year, at 1.24 billion bushels is nine percent above the previous year's (to date) disappearance of 1.14 billion bushels.

Grain Stocks Estimating Program Changes

Adjustments in the Grain Stocks Estimating Program were necessary because of reduced funding in fiscal year 1986. Quarterly on-farm and off-farm stock estimates for barley and oats are discontinued. However, the agency will publish end-of-marketing-year stocks for barley and oats in the June "Grain Stocks" report; on-farm stock estimates of grains and soybeans for Maryland will not be published separately but will be included in the U.S. total.

The grain stocks survey scheduled for October 1 will be changed to September 1. The stocks survey scheduled for January 1 will be changed to December 1. This rescheduling is being done to reduce costs and be in line with the new official marketing year of September 1 through August 30.

THE MARYLAND STATE FLAG was officially presented to the Oakland FFA Chapter this week by Delegate George C. Edwards. Each year, Del. Edwards, who is an honorary chapter member, supports the State FFA Annapolis Citizenship Conference and encourages FFA members to visit his office there. Edwards presented the flag, with the colors and arms of the Calvert and Crossland families, the family name of the Lords Baltimore who founded Maryland, to accompany the United States Flag which was presented to the chapter last summer by Mt. Top Chapter 29, Disabled American Veterans. Pictured above accepting the flag from Del. Edwards, left, are chapter officers, left to right: Marsha Custer, secretary; Charles DeBerry, treasurer; Patricia Hamilton, president; Donnie DeWitt, sentinel; Chuck Fitzwater, vice president; Amy Bernard, reporter; and Advisor Steve Kisner.

Avian Flu Still Threatens State's Poultry Producers

University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service personnel warns poultry producers that last winter's avian influenza epidemic may not be totally wiped out.

Recent reports from Pennsylvania, as well as New York City, Ohio and Connecticut, indicate that the potentially deadly avian influenza virus is still in circulation and represents threats to all poultry producers in the Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic states.

The 1986 outbreak is complicated by the fact that live poultry markets in the New Jersey-New York City area have served as reservoirs of infection. In this connection, contaminated shipping crates, trucks and other handling equipment used by dealers continue to be possible vectors for spreading the malady to farm flocks throughout a wide geographical area.

That's the word from Edward T. Mallinson, extension poultry veterinarian at the University of Maryland. Dr. Mallinson is an associate professor at the College Park campus of the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine.

Mallinson emphasizes that specialty producers supplying live poultry markets or auctions should insist that dealers coming to their farms use clean, disinfected crates, coops, trucks, catching hooks, crowding devices, forklifts and other handling equipment. This is doubly important if the entire flock is not to be completely depopulated in one swoop.

When some chickens are to be left on the farm, producers also have a right to expect that catching crews wear freshly laundered coveralls and sneakers or cleaned and disinfected boots, Dr. Mallinson declared.

Unfortunately, Mallinson observed, some people seem to have trouble understanding that it doesn't necessarily require a sick bird brought into a flock from an outside source to bring avian influenza and several other infectious diseases onto someone's poultry premises. These maladies also are easily spread by particles of contaminated dust, debris and manure.

Although they are invisible, infectious disease organisms can be present on these small particles in enormous numbers, he pointed out.

Dr. Mallinson admits that producers may have to pay extra for insisting on sanitary hauling practices by dealers. But the benefits derived can well be peace of mind, healthier and more productive birds, and the feeling of being a good farming citizen.

He notes that avian influenza does not present a hazard to human health. But it can cause high death losses among various types of poultry with severe financial loss to owners and keepers.

Weed Report

Alfalfa: The first cutting will be coming off soon. Paraquat or Sinbar are labeled for between cutting applications. The material must be applied within five days after the cutting.

Corn: Annual grasses are up. If no-tilling, Princep won't help. Switch to Bladex. Also common lambsquarter got started. Best to add some 2-4D to your no-till mix. Remember, Roundup will not kill seeds or late germinating weeds.

Northern Corn Rootworm

For a lot of farmers, corn rootworms are their most serious soil insect problem. This is especially the case in continuous corn. Beetles lay their eggs in early fall around the base of the corn plants in soil cracks. Larvae hatch as the soil warms up in the spring. Larvae feeds only on the root system, which they tunnel into and prune as they feed. After about three weeks, the larvae transform into a resting stage called the pupa. Adults emerge from their earthen cells and leave the soil surface in late July to feed on silks, tassels and leaves. Egg laying in the fall, starts the cycle over again. Rotating the corn field to grass is the best method of control. Satisfactory control can be obtained by using one of the following insecticides at planting time: Furadan, Lorsban, Diazinon, Mocap, Dyfonate, Thimet, Counter. Be sure to follow directions on the label carefully.

Waterfowl May Cause Problems For Chickens

This is the time of year when wild waterfowl get the nesting urge. And many of them, particularly Mallard ducks, are not timid about where they place their nests. They'll crawl under chicken houses and other outbuildings, often a surprising distance from water, to hide their caches of hatching eggs.

No one knows exactly why "Mother Nature" arranged for ducks, other web-footed birds, and various seabirds to be one of nature's main carriers of avian influenza viruses. But, at least, we do know they are. They may not exhibit symptoms of the infection; but their infected droppings can carry high numbers of influenza viruses, which can under optimal conditions wreak havoc on chickens, turkeys and game birds.

So producers should keep two major points in mind, says Edward T. Mallinson, extension poultry veterinarian at the University of Maryland in College Park.

1. Discourage wild waterfowl from nesting under or near poultry houses.

2. Keep all web-footed birds away from chickens, turkeys and game birds; even domestic waterfowl can be carriers of avian influenza.

Dr. Mallinson theorizes that seabirds and waterfowl (web-footed birds) have reached a state of accommodation or compromise with avian influenza viruses over many generations. For reasons not fully known, perhaps different basic habitats or genetics, other kinds of birds, such as chickens, turkeys and game burds (quail, guinea fowl, pheasants) have not reached the same level or type of accommodation.

Medical history has shown many times that when a disease common to one population jumps to a population where it has not been common, the new group can suffer heavy death losses. A good example in human medical history was heavy death losses among American Indians when they contracted certain diseases carried by early white settlers in the United States. A somewhat similar situation appears to exist between web-footed and other kinds of birds.

As a preventive measure against avian influenza, national and international veterinary specialists alike are admonishing farmers these days to practice segregation in their poultry activities.

Keep web-footed birds away from those that aren't web-footed. Even better, make a choice of one type or the other.

Farmers will probably be better off to specialize in one kind of fowl in order to develop a quality product, officials say. The alternative is dealing with a menagerie and its inherent risks of hidden and obvious health problems.

Gift-Boxed Mugs

A REAL "HANDS ON EXPERIENCE" was given to the group of 15 4-H contestants, one of whom will win the yearling Quarter Horse colt, Dexters Story. These pictures were taken at a recent workshop held at the home of Fred and Cissy VanSickle in McHenry. The group learned the names and uses of various grooming tools, and were then given the opportunity to practice what they had learned on VanSickles' horses. The session also included a lesson on leading and an important lesson on safety around horses.

Food Security Act Prohibits Sod, Swamp Busting

Sod busting and swamp busting will result in the loss of all farm program benefits for producers who signed up for 1986 farm programs, said Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson of the Maryland State ASC Committee.

Sod busting is the production of an agricultural commodity on highly erodible land that is not now in production. Swamp busting is the production of an agricultural commodity on wetlands converted for agricultural production after December 23, 1985.

"Any producer who, after December 23, 1985, brought into production a field which is predominantly highly erodible land, or who converts wetland to production of any agricultural commodity, will be ineligible on his or her entire farm or farms for any farm program benefit or payment," Davis said.

Highly erodible land, and hydric soils that contribute to wetland will be identified in the county ASCS office.

Davis said highly erodible land is defined as land in capability classes four, six, seven and eight, or land that if used to produce an agricultural commodity, would have an excessive rate of erosion in relation to the soil loss tolerance level.

Wetland is land that generally contains hydric soils and hydrophytic vegetation, and is inundated or saturated by surface or ground water. Converted wetland is wetland that since December 23, 1985, has been drained, dredged, filled, leveled, or otherwise manipulated for the purpose of making the land suitable for producing an agricultural commodity.

According to Davis, there are some exemptions to the sodbuster and swamp-buster provisions. Wetlands exempted from the regulations are those used for the production of a crop on (1) wetlands converted or under conversion before December 23, 1985; (2) wetlands artificially created to provide water for livestock, fish production, rice production, irrigation, or flood control; (3) a wet area created by a water delivery or irrigation system; and (4) a wetland on which production of an agricultural commodity is possible because of a natural condition such as drought.

The ASCS official said until January 1, 1990, no producer shall become ineligible for program benefits for producing a crop on highly erodible land that was cultivated under a farm program for production adjustment. "The producer may be exempt if he or she requests and obtains an approved conservation plan, and the land is farmed according to the approved plan."

Other exemptions include highly erodible land planted in a crop (1) before December 23, 1985; (2) during any crop year beginning before this date; or, (3) in reliance on a determination by the Soil Conservation Service that such land was not highly erodible.

Further explanation of the sod-buster, swamp-buster provisions of the Farm Act may be obtained from the local ASCS office at 334-1901.

Today, U.S. farms are fewer and larger, but the total number of crop acres being farmed is the same as in 1910.

Ag Council Honors Karen Hamilton

Karen Hamilton, a student at the University of Maryland and the daughter of W. Brooks Hamilton and Juanita Hudgens both of Oakland, received the Outstanding New Member Award from the Ag Council on May 1.

This award is given to the student who shows outstanding leadership, citizenship and academic achievement within the university during their first year on Ag Council. Hamilton is active in various clubs, such as: InAg Club president, Ag Council, Collegiate FFA, Ag Council Procurement chairperson, Agricultural Student Life Committee, Alpha Gamma Rho-mates, and Young Farmers.

She has accumulated 35 credits for the first year with a grade point average of 3.125. She is currently working at the Agronomy Research Center in Beltsville.

One of her recent activities was participation, along with two other University of Maryland students, in the Soil Surveying competition at the Mid-Atlantic Landscape Field Day at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa. The team, as a representative of the University of Maryland, placed second in the competition. When the final results were posted, the University of Maryland placed third overall.

"I wish everyone had as many opportunities to make themselves heard for the voice of agriculture," said Hamilton. "For the voice of agriculture is strong and will continue."

SERIOUS CONTESTANTS — These 15 4-H members are very serious about winning "Dexters Story," a registered Quarter Horse colt donated to the county 4-H program by Diamond D Quarter Horse Farm. During the month of April all 15 have faithfully attended workshops and classes to learn the horse care basics they will need to know if they are the lucky winner. To finish the contest, each of the contestants will write an essay, which will be reviewed by an out-of-the county judge, and be interviewed before a selection committee, also from out of the county. The final decision will be made by the middle of this month, and one of these 15 4-H'ers will be the proud owner of a great 4-H project. The contestants, from left to right, are: front row, Tim Williamson, Kimberly Miller, Heidi Hauser, and Jackie Campbell. In the back row, same order, are: Julie Tichnell, Randy Tichnell, Jeremy Gorden, Cristy Martin, Tammy Martin, Joyce Noel, Tammy Holler, Julia Martin, and Bobbi Jo Harvey. Not present for the picture were Timothy and Rebecca DeWitt.

Md. Farm Bureau Officials Begin New Positions

Two Maryland Farm Bureau officials, both well known in Garrett County, have recently received promotions. J. Hanson (Jay) Hoffman Jr. has been promoted to administrator of the Maryland Farm Bureau, and Henry S. Holloway, former MFB president, has been elected to the board of Nationwide Insurance Companies.

Maryland Farm Bureau President Robert Wilson announced Hoffman's appointment to the state's largest farm organization at an April 1 meeting of the board of directors.

Hoffman began work for MFB in 1973 as a field representative on the Eastern Shore. He was promoted to field services director in 1979 and has been responsible for liaison with county groups, commodity promotions, and the annual convention.

The new administrator holds a bachelor's degree in dairy science from the University of Maryland. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, and was a 4-H All Star.

As administrator, Hoffman will be responsible for MFB's total operation and staff. He will also serve as secretary-treasurer to the board of directors, and a member of the executive committee.

Hoffman, his wife Peggy, and their son live in Westminster.

Holloway, of Darlington, succeeds G. Willard Oakley, who retired after serving 13 years on the Nationwide Insurance board.

The Nationwide companies include Nationwide Mutual, the fourth largest auto insurer in the country; Nationwide Mutual Fire, the sixth leading writer of homeowners insurance; and Nationwide Life, ranked number 23 in assets amount 1,900 U.S. insurers.

Holloway also is on the boards of Nationwide Property and Casualty and Nationwide General, both auto insurers; and Nationwide Variable Life Insurance Company.

In the early 1970's, Holloway served as Harford County Farm Bureau president. Since then, he has held several positions within the Maryland Farm Bureau, culminating in a two-and-one-half-year term as president from 1983-1985.

He served on the advisory board to the vice president for agricultural affairs and the dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Maryland.

Halloway also has served as a 4-H leader and as a district supervisor of soil conservation. He is a member of the Maryland Agriculture Commission and the Deer Creek Friends Meeting.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

IN MEMORY

Of my mother, Mrs. Martha Spiker, who passed away May 5, 1977.

Dear Mother, it is Mother's Day again, and we all miss you so very much. However, we believed that Jesus died and rose again. Even so, they which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him. For this we say unto you by the Word of the Lord.

That which we are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

So, thy dearest Mother, this is our hope and joy.

Respectfully,
Bliss Spiker

YOU'RE WELL-EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs...the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, 1) check to see if a pilot light is out, or a burner control valve is not turned completely off; 2) open doors and windows; 3) don't use matches, electric switches or appliances. If the odor is strong, leave the house, call the gas company from nearby and stay there until a representative arrives.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- a blowing or hissing sound
- dirt being blown into the air
- water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river
- brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
- fire coming from the ground or burning above it

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) shut down any motorized equipment or other sources of ignition in use; 2) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 3) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.

Test Your Farm Financial Health

A quiz designed and distributed to Maryland farmers through the Cooperative Extension Service helps pinpoint the strengths and weaknesses in a farmer's management skills and financial condition. The quiz consists of eleven questions that focus on a balance sheet, an income statement, a cash flow analysis, and enterprise records. A farmer is evaluated on the actual financial condition as well as his or her familiarity with the operation of the farm.

Dale Johnson and Dick Levins, of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, remind farmers that their business skills are put to the test every day. They make decisions and weather the outcomes. This quiz can help farmers know how to fine-tune their management during these tough economic times by answering such questions as: Where can you cut costs or change emphasis to improve your profit picture? Are you going to be able to get that operating loan that will get you through until fall? Is your farm going to return enough to meet your business as well as personal obligations? Do you know how your farm measures up financially?

To test your farm financial health choose a response to the questions which follow and enter that number in the blank.

1. My total debt is___of my total assets.
   (1) less than 40%
   (2) about 40 - 70%
   (3) more than 70%
   (4) don't know
2. My current assets are___my current liabilities.
   (1) more than
   (2) about equal to
   (3) less than
   (4) don't know
3. For the past two years, my annual net farm income has been___.
   (1) positive both years
   (2) positive one year and negative one year
   (3) negative both years
   (4) don't know
4. Interest expenses are___25% of my total farm receipts.
   (1) less than
   (2) about equal to
   (3) more than
   (4) don't know
5. I've prepared___cash flow projection for my farming operation.
   (1) a detailed
   (2) a quick or rough
   (3) no
6. I keep___enterprise records for my farming operation.
   (1) complete
   (2) partial
   (3) no
7. In three of the past five years, my crop yields have been___normal for my farm.
   (1) above
   (2) about equal to
   (3) less than
   (4) don't know
8. My bills are___.

9. My level of operating credit has___the size of my operation in the past three years.
   (1) decreased in relation to
   (2) kept up with
   (3) increased more rapidly than
   (4) don't know
10. Within the last year, my lender has rejected___my loan request. (If your operation does not depend on borrowed funds, score 1.)
   (1) no portion of
   (2) part of
   (3) all of
11. I have___
   (1) analyzed my financial condition and my farm appears to be stable for the future.
   (2) analyzed my financial condition as being poor and I am considering leaving farming within the next three years.
   (3) not analyzed my financial condition but I am determined to continue farming even if it results in eventual bankruptcy.

Total the numbers in the blanks and match the total score with the following guidelines.

11-12 points: Your financial situation is probably well under control.

13-15 points: Your responses indicate several areas to concentrate on and improve.

16-22 points: Prioritize the areas you'll work on, then tackle one or more immediately.

23-33 points: You've indicated many areas to improve. Help from a lender or financial adviser could speed your improvement timetable.

34-40 points: Check the number of times you've given a "don't know" response. Become familiar with these areas of your farming operation, then work on improvement with the help of a financial adviser.

Johnson and Levins say that if your score shows problems, you're certainly not alone. Results of Maryland farmers returning the quiz anonymously, show that the "farm crisis" is no stranger to Maryland. Farmers are encouraged to pay close attention to their financial health and develop a good working relationship with their lenders. Johnson and Levins recommend seminars and workshops on farm management provided by the Cooperative Extension Service as a good source of information for brushing up on management skills.

PHOSPHATE WITHDRAWAL PART I

Have you noticed any of the following problems with your laundry in recent months?

*White fabrics seem to be gray or yellow and brightly colored fabrics appear to be dull.

*Pills are evident on the surface of the clothing's fabrics.

*Collars, cuffs, pockets and hem edges are showing wear, as well as some color loss.

*Fabrics wrinkle more easily than previously.

*Zippers and grippers operate less easily.

*Elastic parts seem to be deteriorating.

*Your washing machine seems to require more frequent repairs.

If you have answered yes to any one or more of the proceeding statements, it is evident that you are suffering from phosphate withdrawal. Beginning on December 1, 1985, all phosphate builders in laundry detergents were banned in Maryland for a period of three years in an effort to decrease phosphorus levels in the Chesapeake Bay. You are especially affected by this legislation if you use a powdered detergent such as Tide, Fab, Cheer or Fresh Start. The phosphate builder in these detergents has been replaced with a carbonate builder which has been proven to be less effective and which can cause serious problems if you have heavily soiled laundry or moderate to hard water.

There are a variety of solutions which will be of help to you in dealing with this problem. I will offer some solutions to you this week with more to follow next week. The practices offered will help you keep clothes and household textiles looking new as long as possible and minimize clothing replacement and equipment repair costs.

SORTING

*Sort light and white items from bright and dark ones.

*Separate lint-producing items such as cotton towels, underwear and flannels from lint-attracting synthetic fabrics.

*Separate heavily soiled from lightly soiled items, greasy from dirty.

*Items with body soil, such as socks, underwear, sheets, towels, athletic wear and heavily soiled fabrics need to be washed in hot water. Separate them from fabrics with a permanent press finish and from bright colors that may need warm water.

*Wash the garments and household textiles that need to be bleached in a load together. Check care labels for warnings to avoid bleach.

*To minimize unnecessary abrasion and stress, sort heavier items such as jeans, from lighter ones such as polyester slacks. The color may be similar, but their behavior in the washing machine and dryer is different.

PRETREATING

*Check garments and household textiles for soiled areas and spots. Pretreat specific areas by wetting the area with concentrated liquid laundry detergent or a pretreating spray or liquid before washing.

*Treat soiled textiles as soon as possible. Soils and stains are more difficult to remove the longer they are on the fabric.

*Soak especially dirty or pesticide-contaminated clothes in hot water and detergent in a container or in a washing machine before laundering them.

*If clothes are heavily contaminated, the machine should be washed out with hot water and detergent before family laundry is put in the tub.

GOP Chairman Jabs Democratic "Loyalty Oath"

Maryland Republican Party Chairman Allan C. Levey blasted the Maryland Democratic Party this week for "following in lockstep with the liberal national Democrat Party policies" with a loyalty oath to the Democratic National Committee.

"Recently I read that Maryland's Democratic Party Chairman has signed a loyalty oath to the national Democratic Party in Washington," Levey said. "The loyalty oath that was signed, according to nationally syndicated columnist David Broder, by Maryland's Democratic State Chairman, commits the state party to toe the national Democratic Party line.

"As a matter of fact," continued Levey, "I even saw an article by the Associated Press national wire service that questions why the national Democrat Party feels it must impose a loyalty oath upon its state and local organizations.

"If it's true the Maryland Democrats have signed a loyalty oath," Levey said, "it seems to me it is the Democrats in Maryland who have the problem of being out of step. Last time I checked, Paul Kirk, the Democratic National Chairman and the man who required the Maryland commitment, was a Ted Kennedy supporter from Massachusetts. The Maryland Democratic leadership comes out looking a bit hypocritical.

"Having lived in Maryland all of my adult life, I'm certain the interests of Maryland rarely are the same as the interests of Massachusetts, or of the national Democratic Party for that matter.

"This is the same national Democratic Party that offered us Walter Mondale and higher taxes in 1984," continued Levey. "The voters of Maryland rejected the Democratic platform then and I believe they will continue to do so," Levey said.

THANK YOU

The family of Mrs. Lizzie Sisler would like to take this time to thank our friends and families who donated food, flowers and sent cards during our time of bereavement. A special thank you to Pastor and Mrs. Howard Pentz and the Newman Funeral Home, for their comforting words.

Sincerely,

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mothers, Pauline Paugh and Homa Sweitzer, sister Helen Michaels and aunt Lucille Stewart on Mother's Day 1986.

"Beautiful memories woven in gold, this is the picture we tenderly hold.
Deep in our heart your memory is kept, to love and cherish and never forget.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell, of the loss of the ones we loved so well.
And while they sleep a peaceful sleep, their memory we shall always keep."

Harvey & Clara Sweitzer

IN MEMORIAM

Fourteen long years have come and gone. Since death's dark angel came to our home and carried away our dear daughter Robin Marie Wakefield. We love and miss her so. There's a vacant place in our home. Yes she was so young and happy and her laughter we can still hear. She was never famous or listed in Who's Who. But she did have important work to do in her short life and that was to do little things to brighten up the lives surrounding her.

We know she is safe in God's care in "The Land Where She will Never Grow Old."

NOTICE

Of availability of Hill-Burton uncompensated services.

Under its Hill-Burton obligation, Garrett County Memorial Hospital provides a reasonable amount of uncompensated services to persons eligible under applicable Community Services Administration guidelines. Hill-Burton uncompensated services are limited to Category A patients as defined in the regulations. Patient eligibility for Hill-Burton is determined by measuring family income against the income Poverty Guidelines established by the Community Service Administration.

The plan for allocation of service is as follows:

Services furnished to patients are restricted to the usual and customary services routinely provided by the hospital. All services furnished must be ordered by a member of the hospital's medical staff. It is the patient's responsibility to engage a physician on the staff to provide medical care. Services will be furnished to Category A patients without charge after applying all third party coverage. Applicants for such services must furnish complete information and verification as required to determine their eligibility.

Services will be furnished to eligible patients on a "first-come, first-serve" basis as they receive medical service at the hospital. The hospital reviews the ability to pay of every patient. Information indicating a potential for Category A patients will be specifically reviewed for Hill-Burton uncompensated services eligibility. The hospital will also investigate potential eligibility on request. Fiscal year 1987 available funds will be $150,000 on a first-come, first-serve basis. When all funds for the year are exhausted, there will not be any Hill-Burton Charity Care Funds available until the following fiscal year.

There are some new guideline changes for eligibility. For further information on eligibility, please contact your Hill-Burton Representative located in the Credit/Collection Office at the hospital. Phone 334-2155.

Women's Refuge Training Program Slated At GCC

Women's Refuge, Inc. Director Carolyn Grahame has announced arrangements for a training program for persons interested in serving as volunteers for the agency, which serves persons in crisis in Allegany and Garrett counties.

The sessions have been planned as a course through the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College and will be held June 7, 14, and 21 on the GCC McHenry campus. The sessions will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each Saturday.

Agency staff is offering the course in hopes of increasing the number of volunteers working in the Garrett County outreach program. Volunteers assist in various services offered by the agency, including its 24-hour hotline designed to provide crisis counseling to victims of domestic violence, rape, and sexual assault.

The course is designed to increase the awareness and understanding of domestic violence, rape, and sexual assault, enable participants to relate to victims in a helpful and caring way, discuss what medical and legal options are available for victims of abuse, and discuss community resources which may be helpful to the victim.

Instructors of the course will be Ms. Grahame, Linda Spassil, coordinator for Women's Refuge; Nancy Folmsbee and Beverly Sincell, counselors in the Oakland outreach office.

For more information and/or to register, individuals may call the GCC Continuing Education Division at 334-8266 or the Women's Refuge Oakland office at 334-9701.

NEW PRESS INSTALLED — Sincell Publishing Company Inc., Oakland, which publishes The Republican, recently purchased a six-unit Harris offset newspaper printing press to replace its Goss tubular press, used by the company since 1965. The building had to be expanded to house the new machine, which stretches some 55 feet, compared to the 30 feet occupied by the former press. Installation is nearly complete and the new unit is expected to be in operation in time to publish next week's issue of The Republican. Today's issue was printed in Keyser, W.Va., by Mineral Daily News Tribune. The Harris offset is capable of printing 24 pages per press run compared to 16 by the former press, plus the quality of the printing, especially of photographs, promises to be greatly improved according to a company spokesman. In the photo above are Bruce Reed, left, and Tarrie Prokesch, of Miracle Industries, Inc., who are installing the press.

Grantsville Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 109 Pints

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross announced that 109 units of blood were donated by the Grantsville community at the Red Cross bloodmobile held May 9.

According to Lela Bender, chairman for Northern Garrett County, 118 individuals presented themselves. Of this number, nine were deferred for various reasons. Of the 109 who donated, eight were first-time donors. The goal for the visit was 140 units.

Gallon donors were Guy Stanton Jr., Donald Livengood, Ella Tice and Debbie Hetrick. Melvin Beitzel was a three-gallon donor. All full-time employees of Radio Station WAIJ came in to donate blood.

"We're grateful to everyone that donated blood. Even though we didn't meet our goal, our donors and volunteers should be commended for their efforts. We hope all those who came in will return the next time and bring a friend or family member along," Mrs. Bender commented.

Volunteer nurses who helped were Audrey Kinsinger, Lois Hepler, Mildred Yoder, Rhoda Maust, Chris Maust, Bonnie Spicher, Freda Maust, Alice Orendorf and Katherine Miller.

Other volunteers were Lois Bender, Ercell Jenkins, Glenda Yoder, Lois Durst, Alma Camp, Claudine Opel, Mary Louise Bender, Susan Riggs, Ruth Horning, Cleda Baker, Lula Brown, Bertha Gerhart and Carol Swartzwelder.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad provided emergency coverage. Local firemen served as custodians. Milk and orange juice were donated by Potomac Farms Dairy and Buckel's Market.

The Grantsville community will sponsor its next bloodmobile in September.

GCC Trustees, County And State Officials Discuss College Matters

A meeting was held last Thursday at Garrett Community College to discuss the ongoing communication problems at the college. Attending the meeting, hosted by the GCC Board of Trustees, were the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, Senator John N. Bambacus, Delegate George Edwards, Dr. David A. Puzzuoli, interim president at GCC; and Wayne Hamilton, newly appointed Board of Trustees member.

Although it was hoped by some that Governor Harry Hughes would attend the meeting, it was not on his agenda during his tour of the county last Thursday.

At a press conference Tuesday, Commissioner John G. Braskey, commissioner representative to the college, stated, "I'm glad we all got to sit down and get to the meat of some of the problems brought to our attention by the public sector, especially concerning personnel questions."

Braskey continued, "The discussion was open and frank. We didn't mince words. The trustees do realize they have problems. They informed us they are working on them and hope to have them solved in the near future."

The commissioner concluded, "We're willing to work with them to do whatever is necessary to solve the problems and hopefully the trustees feel the same way. If they don't, they should resign their positions on the board. We want to stress that we are not using the college situation for political gain. We really care about the future of that institution and want to keep it as a first-rate community college."

Commissioner Elwood Groves II then commented, "The Board of Trustees does realize they have a set of personnel problems. On the other hand, I feel they are

Walk For Breath In Grantsville Realizes $1,500

Through the generosity of northern Garrett County residents and the determination of 41 participants, a winning tally of about $1500 was raised to help children who suffer cystic fibrosis in the Cystic Fibrosis "Walk for Breath", held April 26.

"We couldn't have done it without the support of the wonderful sponsors and the participants who gave so much to help the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in its battle against the genetic disease, cystic fibrosis", stated Marian Borch, chairman of the event.

Several area businesses, including Buckel's Market, Grantsville Mart, Keysers Ridge Truck Stop, and Yoder's Meat Packers, provided food and drink for the participants when they returned from their ten-kilometer walk along New Germany Road.

Prizes for those raising the most money have been provided by local businesses. They include a gift certificate from Hill Top Inn for a free fish din-

Black Bear Slide Presentation To Be Held May 17

Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager of Garrett County, will give a slide presentation on the black bear on May 17 at 8:30 p.m. at Swallow Falls State Park in the outdoor amphitheatre.

If inclement weather occurs, the presentation will be held at Herrington Manor State Park at the main office. Bourgeois said visitors as well as county residents are encouraged to attend.

Bourgeois will discuss bear habitat, biology and history of the black bear in Garrett County and what secrets the bear holds for future American space travelers.

According to the wildlife manager, black bears were once plentiful throughout the mountains of western Maryland. However, relentless hunting and trapping, along with clearing the forest land during the 19th century pushed the bears from this area. "Now bears are returning to these mountains as this region's woodlands once more provide these animals with the habitat needed to survive," said Bourgeois.

Those desiring additional information may call Roz Rodeheaver, park naturalist, at 334-9180.

Yoder School To Close Doors By End Of 1989-90 School Year

Yoder School, near Grantsville, will be closed at the end of the 1989-90 school year as a result of a decision made by the Garrett County Board of Education last Thursday.

A recommendation to close the school in the next three or four years had been made earlier by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, mainly because the school had no defined attendance areas.

The vote was three to one to close the school, with members Anna Mary Fratz, Beverly S. Murphy, and William M. Goldsborough voting to close it. Only vice-chairman Dr. Leo W. O'Neill voted against closing the school.

Fratz commented that although she values the history of Garrett County, she is a board member, and must adhere to the board's goals: "to provide an equal educational opportunity for all children."

Goldsborough mentioned that he thought the decision was unfortunate, but felt that the board had "come to the inevitable."

O'Neill mentioned that he feels Yoder School doesn't achieve things better, but achieves them differently, and the school should be rewarded for having a different program. He said, "If it is working so well, why terminate it?"

Many parents attended the meeting to inquire about the implications of the decision of the Allegany County Board of Education to close Bruce High School, and concerns were expressed that it may result in the closing of Bloomington School.

The board voted to participate in the Christa McAuliffe Scholarship Fund to assist students in teacher education.

A report was made on the pre-kindergarten education program. Dr. Charleen Evans-Thomas mentioned that the program has been very successful, and the county is one of the few places in the state with an all-day program.

It was reported that the Northern High School renovation project was 55 percent complete on April 15, and the school would be transferring to the new power system this week.

County Thefts Investigated By State Police

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment are continuing to investigate several thefts which occurred in the area recently.

According to police reports, a breaking and entering theft occurred sometime May 3 or 4 at several vacation cottages located on the Peat Bog Road, near Bittinger.

According to police reports, someone removed a black-and-white television set, radio, and several knives in a wooden holder. Doors and locks were also damaged during the breaking and entering.

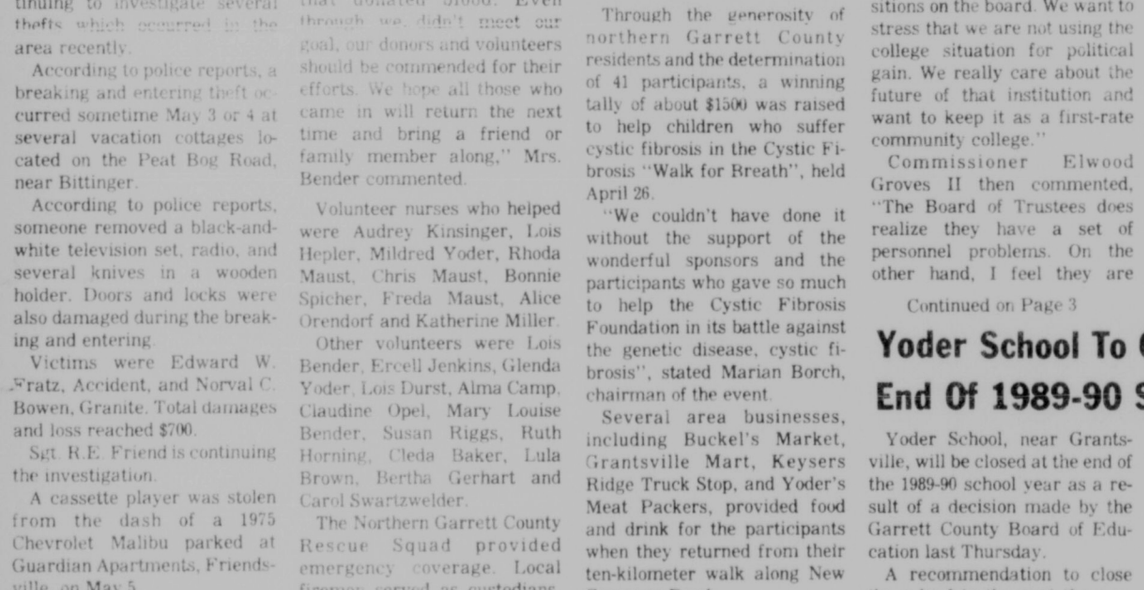
Victims were Edward W. Fratz, Accident, and Norval C. Bowen, Granite. Total damages and loss reached $700.

Sgt. R.E. Friend is continuing the investigation.

A cassette player was stolen from the dash of a 1975 Chevrolet Malibu parked at Guardian Apartments, Friendsville, on May 5.

According to police, the vehicle belonged to Henry D. Parker, Canton, Ohio. The cassette player was worth $199.95.

Sgt. Friend is investigating.



TREATED AND RELEASED yesterday morning was the driver of this tractor trailer, which overturned on a sharp curve on U.S. Route 50 about two miles east of Gormania. According to one report, the driver, whose identity was unknown at presstime, jumped from the cab of the vehicle. He was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being transported there by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Also called to the scene was the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department and the West Virginia State Police.

Jennings Randolph Speaker For GCC Commencement

Former United States Senator Jennings Randolph, a lifelong visitor to Garrett County, who represented West Virginia on Capitol Hill for 40 years will be the speaker at the 14th annual commencement of Garrett Community College this Saturday, May 17, at 10:30 a.m. in the College gymnasium.

Senator Randolph, who completed a distinguished career in Congress in January 1985, first visited Garrett County as a three-month-old baby. He has visited the county every year since.

"It's a genuine joy to be coming to Garrett County," the Senator said. "It is always a privilege to be in an area I know so well. I love and know the people there. I hope I'll have time to enjoy some buckwheat cakes while I'm there. I'm happy to come, and it'll be a happy reunion."

Until the closing of the Mountain Lake Park Hotel, Senator Randolph was a guest there every summer, and he recalls fond memories of setting pins in the bowling alley there, and rowing his canoe, "Pal," on Mountain Lake. The courtship of his wife, the former Mary Catherine Babb, was partly conducted at Mountain Lake Park.

He can recall hearing his namesake, William Jennings Bryan, speak in the amphitheater at Mountain Lake Park, and was, himself, a speaker at the final program at the amphitheater before its demolition. He also recalls hearing John Phillip Sousa's band perform there in the days of "Chautauqua."

Senator Randolph competed in the first Mountain Lake Park Tennis Tournament, and has competed often since. He is a regular visitor to the tournament each year.

The Senator has had a varied and distinguished career in the field of education, including service as a college professor and university dean. He is a trustee emeritus for Salem College in West Virginia, which was founded by his grandfather. He has been a trustee for 50 years and maintains a proud and active role in its operation.

He served on various education committees during all of his 40 years on the Hill. He is particularly proud of authoring the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guaranteed 18, 19, and 20-year-olds the right to vote. He was the Chairman of the Council for the Advancement of Citizenship, which has as its goal the establishment of

Notice to Readers

Today's issue of The Republican was printed by the Mineral Daily News Tribune in Keyser, W.Va., because of the installation of a new printing press occurring this week at the Sincell Publishing Company, Inc., building in Oakland. The pages of The Republican today are considerably narrower and therefore the type size had to be reduced in order for the folks at Keyser to accommodate us. Because of this 15 percent reduction, the type is somewhat difficult to read. We ask our readers' indulgence, however, and promise that next week we will not only return to our usual size, but will provide the sharpest quality of printing ever achieved (yes, especially the photographs!) in The Republican.

County Planning Commission Meets To Review Rachuba PRD Project

The Garrett County Planning Commission met yesterday in a regular work session and reviewed the Planned Residential Development (PRD) plan submitted by Rachuba Enterprises to be called "The Village of Wisp." They also consulted the Modular Construction Corporation for a PRD pre-application and reviewed a strip mine application for Buffalo Coal Company.

Also on Tuesday's agenda were the reviews and recommendations of two Zoning Appeals applications, VR-141, Paul Zanecki, rear yard variance; and SE-149 James Lohr, mobile home replacement. The commission also worked on a dimensional standards table.

In reviewing the Rachuba/Wisp plan, the Planning Commission studied an economic impact report, a water status report and the covenants, conditions and restrictions for the PRD.

The purpose of the economic impact report, prepared by Rachuba, was to determine the economic impact in the Deep Creek Lake area. The developer's plans call for the construction of 350 townhouses and a 150-room hotel with a 200-seat conference room. There will also be 40 homesites reserved for sale to individuals. The total area for development contains 390 acres.

The focus of the report was in the following areas:

1) Population—The profile of the population of the 390 dwellings is anticipated to be 975 residents, both transient and permanent. The total population phased in over a six-year period would add 162 people each year. The U.S. Census Bureau projects a growth rate of 360 persons per year for Garrett County.

2) Employment—The civilian labor force for Garrett County is composed of about 12,000 workers. The unemployment rate for 1984 was extremely high and represented 12.9% of the available workers. Sixteen percent of the labor force is employed by federal, state and local government. The other 84% by the private sector. The largest segment of those in private employment, almost 40%, are engaged in service-type jobs. Based on a survey of manufacturing firms within a 30-mile radius of Oakland, hourly rates ranged from $3.35/hour for unskilled laborers to $13/hour for skilled electricians. The average weekly wage for all types of employment was $245.

The planned development of 70 unts per year will produce 330,000 man hours of construction labor. This translates into 160 construction-related jobs and $2,145,000 in total wages.

The 150-room hotel will produce permanent employment for administrative, clerical, service and mechanic-type employees. Staffing will require 550 full time positions with an average annual payroll of $650,000 to $750,000.

With an estimated labor potential of 5,200 workers and an unemployment rate of 12.9%, Garrett County presents an excellent labor source.

Using a multiplier of 4 to the total payroll of $2,800,000 produces an economic enhancement of more than $11,000,000 to the area.

3) Revenues—The assessment ratio for new real property is 43.5% and would realize a total market value, in the tax base for Garrett County and Maryland, of $54,500,000.

The tax rate over $100 of assessed valuation is $2.52 for Garrett County and $.21 for the state. Revenues received from real estate taxes alone would amount to $597,429/year for Garrett County and $49,785/year for the state.

Based on a total payroll for new jobs created of $2,800,000/year and an average per capita income for this group of $13,300, the taxable income would amount to $1,350,000. The state tax is 3% on the first $5,000 and 5% thereafter. The county tax is 50% of the state tax.

The total income taxes for the state would be $616,200 and Garrett County would realize $308,100. Sales taxes would amount to $200,000 on room sales and food and beverage sales.

4) Education—The planned development of 390 dwellings will produce a total population of 975 people. It is anticipated that 75% of the permanent households will be in the 45-64

Autumn Glory Festival Meeting Set For May 21

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council Board of Directors has scheduled an informational meeting at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 21, at the Oakland Country Club to present the restructuring of the Autumn Glory Festival to those organizations that sponsor activities or otherwise participate in the festival.

According to Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Promotion Council, each participating organization is requested to be represented at the meeting by one spokesperson "so that all those involved in making the festival a great success may be apprised of the proposed restructuring of the festival."

JENNINGS RANDOLPH, former United States Senator, who represented West Virginia for 40 years, will be the speaker at the 14th annual commencement at Garrett Community College this Saturday, May 17, at 10:30 a.m. in the College gymnasium. Senator Randolph has been a life-long visitor to Garrett County and has competed in the Western Maryland Tennis Tournaments many times. While serving on Capitol Hill, he authored the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guaranteed 18, 19 and 20-year-olds the right to vote. He also authored the Solid Waste Disposal Act.

Micro-Integration And IE Systems Announce Merger

Micro-Integration Inc., Friendsville, and IE Systems, Inc., both privately held, have jointly formed Micro-Integration Corp. Their new corporate entity will catapult Micro-Integration Corp. into the upper half of The Soft-letter 100 in software sales and make them the largest PC communications software development company on the list, according to a spokesman for the corporation.

Micro-Integration is one of the industry's original personal computer communications software companies, having produced its first PC to mainframe product in 1978.

At a joint press conference, John Parsons, president of the new corporation, said MI and IE have worked closely for over five years, jointly developing successful communications products, marketing each other's products, and sharing customers for a product line that is licensed to more than 50 original equipment manufactuers including IBM, Memorex, Tandy, Xerox and Northern Telecom.

"A complete merger of our two firms' talents gives us the best collection of experienced PC communications hardware and software engineers in the world, outside of IBM. It will ensure coordination of our research, development and marketing directions and help us cement and expand our market share in the growing PC to mainframe arena," Parsons said.

Assembled staff members were introduced to the parties involved in the merger negotiations and planned capital formation activities including representatives from Motivational Marketing, the BGS&G Companies financial services network, financial and management consultants Joseph Walker and Sons, and the Baltimore law firm of Weinberg and Green.

Max Eveleth, former president of New Hampshire based IE Systems and vice president of the new corporation, noted that the firm has the largest OEM customer base of any PC communications company, yet is virtually unknown to end users.

"We serve the biggest OEMs in America. We serve worldwide markets through OEMs and distributors in the UK, Europe and Australia. Companies like Philips in Holland, Computer Logics in Canada, Vector International in Belgium and Northern Telecom in the UK carry our products . . . but nobody's ever heard of us. That will change," he promised.

Prior to their merger, both companies placed heavy emphasis on research and development. Through their OEMs they have gained wide industry acceptance of their PC to mainframe, PC to mini, and PC to PC connection products. The BSC 3270 Emulator marketed by IMB, for instance, was licensed from MI and IE in 1982. More recently, the company's 5250 twinax product has achieved 30% market share through licenses with several OEMs. Company officials stressed that R & D and customer support will remain the foundation of their corporate strategy.

Micro-Integration Corp. will continue to conduct business activities from Friendsville and Newmarket, N.H. Company officials noted that customers can continue to use their current sales and support contacts at both the Maryland and New Hampshire locations.

Numerous Cases Heard In Local District Court

Numerous cases were heard in Garrett County District Court last Tuesday.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Donna Holtschneider Shafer, 39, Friendsville, after she was found to be guilty of perjury.

The charge was filed by William F. Ferry, Oakland, following an October 9, 1985, incident in Oakland.

The judge ordered probation before judgment for Howard W. Hanawalt II, 32, Sterling, Va., and Dale S. Vance, 23, Herndon, Va., for a charge of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Both men were fined $50 and placed on six months unsupervised probation, with the condition that they have no further infractions of the law.

The charges were filed by David W. Baker, park ranger, following a February 2 incident at Big Run State Park, Grantsville.

According to court documents, both men were sitting in a car which contained suspected marijuana.

The judge found Harley Stemple, Oakland, to be not guilty of charges of fourth degree sex offense and battery.

The charges were filed by Donna L. Schramm, Oakland.

Placed on the stet docket were charges of assault, battery, possession of a deadly weapon with intent to injure, and disorderly intoxication against Harvey P. Guthrie, 44, Lonaconing.

The charges were filed by Terri J. Guthrie, also of Lonaconing, after a March 22 incident there.

Guthrie was represented by John R. Toston, public defender.

Sincell To Speak For Memorial Day Observance

Donald W. Sincell, editor of The Republican Newspaper, will be the guest speaker for Oakland's annual Memorial Day observance, slated for Friday, May 30. The events will include a parade through downtown Oakland, followed by memorial services at the Oakland Cemetery conducted by members of various local veterans organizations.

Sincell, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park, has been editor of The Republican since 1977. He is a 1970 graduate of Southern High School and a 1974 magna cum laude graduate of West Virginia University, having earned a bachelor of arts degree in psychology.

In community activities, Sincell is the president of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department; member of the National Ski Patrol and former Wisp Ski Patrol leader; member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors and currently serving as secretary of the Executive Board; member and Past Master of Oakland Lodge No. 192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons; president of the Friends of Mountain Lake Park; and member of the Garrett Choral Society. He has also served as a member of the Garrett County Commission on Physical Fitness, holds certification as an emergency medical technician, and was an active member of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad for 13 years.

He is an active member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, where he has served as vice president of the church council, and is currently a Sunday School teacher, choir member, lector, and Communion assistant. He has served as a lay preacher in three area Lutheran churches.

His personal interests include numerous sports activities, especially running and skiing, and he enjoys music and dramatic arts. He resides in Mtn. Lake Park with his wife, Suzanne, and their four children.

The annual Memorial Day parade will form in the town parking lot on Liberty Street at 10 a.m. and will begin at 10:20, traveling west on Liberty Street to Wilson Street, north on Wilson to Center, east on Center to Second, south on Second to Alder, east on Alder to Third, south on Third to Oak, and east on Oak to Fifth Street to the Oakland Cemetery. A program will be held in front of the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Expected to be among the participants in the parade are the World War I veterans, Knights of Pythias, American Legion, Vietnam Veterans of America, Disabled American Veterans, local Boy and Girl Scout troops, the Southern Garrett Band, and units from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The color guard for the parade and at the cemetery will be composed of members of VFW Post 10077 and Chapter 245, Vietnam Veterans of America. Cars for any World War I veterans will be provided.

Members of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, are asked to be at the post home on Memorial Drive by 9:30 a.m.

Tom Bittinger will serve as parade marshal and members of the American Legion, DAV, and K of P will conduct the ceremony at the cemetery, which will begin at approximately 10:45. Music will be provided by the Southern Garrett Band. DeCorsey Bolden will serve as master of ceremonies and Rev. John A. Grant will provide the invocation and benediction.

Members of Post No. 71 will provide a gun salute, followed by the playing of taps by members of the Southern Band at the conclusion of the program.

The Memorial Day observance was organized by a committee made up of members of various local veterans organizations.

BRENDA'S ANNUAL REVIEW — Approximately 150 local youngsters will take the stage at Southern High School this weekend to present the annual Dance/Gymnastic Review of Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland. Local Thefts Investigated By State Police

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment this week are investigating two thefts which occurred in the area.

According to police, 25 gallons of unleaded gasoline and 70 wooden posts were stolen from the State Highway Administration at Keyser Ridge between April 16 and April 21. Total loss reached $656.50.

Tpr. M. Hegedus is investigating the theft.

Robert E. Bittinger, Grantsville, reported that rain gear and fishing equipment were removed from his garage between November, 1985, and April 23. Total loss was valued at $624.80.

Hegedus is conducting an investigation.

Open House Set At Herrington Manor State Park

An Open House will be held at Herrington Manor State Park this Saturday, May 17, between noon and 3 p.m., according to a Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife spokesperson. The event is being hosted by the local Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park Advisory Board. Facilities open for public inspection include the park office, beachhouse/concession, vacation cabins, archery range and boat ramp.

Visitors may sign in at the park office building which was constructed by Wilburn Construction of Accident. The building shell was furnished by the Oakland Office of Mountaineer Log & Siding Company. Within easy walking distance is located the park's vacation cabins. One of the larger size cabins will be available for inspection. Over half of the parks' 20 cabins have been renovated for winter use, and two are handicap accessible. The most recent renovations were completed by E&S Constractor of Swallow Falls.

The beachhouse/concession building located in the picnic area adjacent to Herrington Lake will open for summer use after the Open House program. This facility houses a boat/ski rental office, first aid room, sales area, restrooms and large glassed-in room which overlooks the lake and beach area. Wilburn Construction was the contractor for the renovation recently completed on this building.

To the wouth of the beach and picnic area is the public boat ramp for Herrington lake. Funds for this project were supplied by the DNR-Waterway Improvement Office.

Rough work and layout of the ramp, roads and parking area was done by park employees. Keystone Lime Company of Springs, Pa., was the general contractor for the final work.

The last facility open for inspection is the archery range below the lake dam breast. The design and work on this facility was carried out by park employees and Donald Kisner, a local area volunteer and archery champion.

A short program will be conducted at the beachhouse/concession patio at 1:30 p.m. At 2 p.m., Hugh Trimble will lead a wildflower walk from the dam parking lot. A slide show will be given throughout the afternoon at the park office.

The public is invited and there will be not gate charge for the day.

Persons may wish to bring a picnic.

For more information, persons may call the park office at (301) 334-9180.

A&A Affiliated With Better Homes, Gardens

Karen Spiker, president of A&A Realty, announced today that the real estate firm has been selected by the Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service as its exclusive member in Garrett County. Its affiliation with the Real Estate Service officially begins today, May 15.

A&A Realty was selected to carry the Better Homes and Gardens name "because of its record of responsible service in real estate," Ms Spiker said.

"The Better Homes and Gardens name has earned the consumer's trust, because it stands for quality service to the home and family. The Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service includes as members only established, reputable firms that it feels merit that trust," she explained.

Ms. Spiker said she decided to join the Real Estate Service in order to offer more services to consumers and to give the company the expertise of a national real estate organization.

"We feel that Better Homes and Gardens, with its knowledge of the housing industry and the American consumer, offers the best services available," she noted.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is a national network of independent real estate firms with about 1,000 offices nationwide. Its members have access to marketing, educational and financial programs developed by the Real Estate Service at its national headquarters.

A&A Realty also will participate in a national referral system operated by the Real Estate Service. The system will bring A&A Realty out-of-town buyers and enable it to refer relocating clients to other Better Homes and Gardens members, according to Ms. Spiker.

"We believe that as a member of the Better Homes and Gardens program, we can offer home buyers, sellers, and investors the best real estate service available," Ms. Spiker said.

In conjunction with this announcement, A&A has planned a number of events and promotions, including a coloring contest, the details of which can be found elsewhere in today's issue of The Republican, or obtained from the A&A offices.

WITHIN 18 HOURS after the printing of last week's issue of The Republican was completed, the 20-ton press that did the printing was removed from the building and the pit underneath it was filled with concrete to make ready for the delivery of a six-unit Harris offset press, which is being installed this week by Sincell Publishing Company, Oakland. Above, pressman John Kisner looks over the last issue of The Republican as it rolled off the Goss tubular machine. Above left, employees of Sincell Publishing sweat and strain to remove the old press, and below, the units of the new offset press are unloaded. In the foreground of the photo below is the main section of the press which is being replaced. Next week's issue of The Republican will be produced on the new offset press.

totally blind to some of the other horrendous problems we've mentioned many times, such as nepotism and faculty unrest."

"Some of our most pertinent concerns didn't seem to have much bearing on the Board of Trustees," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. "They downplayed nepotism . . . almost as if they endorsed it. They were totally impervious of the perception of that act throughout Garrett County, yet it appears to us that the act was the straw that broke the camel's back. This doesn't speak well of the credibility of the Board of Trustees.

Gregg further stated, "The Board of Trustees have got to open up better lines of communication with the faculty of GCC in an open forum. There's got to be a reason the faculty is so upset."

Regarding the closing of the Oakland Center of GCC, the commissioners said it was discussed at last week's meeting, but that it appeared that Dr. Puzzuoli and Trustees' Chairman Katharine L. Smith were the only members of the board who were certain of that fact. They said the other board members said they hadn't voted on it or they hadn't remembered voting on it.

The commissioners all agreed that at one time, the two boards worked well together, not against each other, to solve any problems at GCC. They said they were hopeful of a more cooperative relationship in the future.

Board of Trustees Chairman Katharine L. Smith also commented on the meeting saying, "We held the meeting for the purpose of specifically addressing concerns the commissioners had conveyed to us in a letter. I feel we did that. The important thing is that the board of trustees recognizes the problems and we know that some questionable decisions have been made, but we are working and will continue to work on those problems. Again, that was the purpose of the meeting."

Bambacus Comments

Senator Bambacus commented on the GCC situation yesterday. "I feel confident that the college can now move forward following these most recent troublesome episodes."

He continued, "There's a tremendous support of GCC within this community as is evidenced by the letters and phone calls I receive from county residents. Hopefully, we can now work in a more cooperative manner. Unfortunately, the John Wayne style of management does not work in community colleges. There's also no such thing as a board of trustees looking at themselves as a separate entity when the taxpayers pay for that college. The taxpayers are telling us to do something. Alienation policies and management by fear are not the place for a community college."

The senator went on to say that "it makes sense to work together, the administration, the board of trustees, and all elected officials involved."

Jobless Rates In State, County Fall In March

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate dropped to 4.5 percent in March, 1986 from 5.1 percent in February, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Employment and Training. This rate was the lowest for a March since 1973.

Garrett County's jobless rate also showed a decrease, from 13.7 percent in February to 12.2 percent in March.

Between February and March, Maryland's civilian labor force increased by 23,112 persons, to total 2,248,369. Employment increased by 34,020 for a total of 2,146,868. The number of unemployed persons decreased by 10,908 to total 101,501.

In Garrett County, the labor force increased from 11,479 to 11,558. There were 1,410 persons unemployed in March, compared to 1,567 in February.

Over the year, the state labor force increased by an estimated 28,398. Employment grew by 34,818 persons while unemployment declined by 6,420.

Of the state's total unemployed, an estimated 46.1 percent received unemployment insurance benefits in March.

Between February and March, the labor market's springtime expansion began. Seasonal layoffs persisted only in food processing. Meanwhile, extensive hiring was noted in construction, retail trade stores, eating and drinking places, hotels, amusement and recreation services, higher education, business and health services, and agricultural services.

The national unemployment rate decreased in March, 1986 to 7.5 percent from 7.8 percent in February. In February, only four states had lower unemployment rates than Maryland. They included New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Vermont.

Unemployment among black persons, nationally, was down from the 14.9 percent recorded in February to 14.7 in March. In Maryland, the unemployment rate among black persons, reported annually, was 9.3 percent in 1984.

In the Baltimore Metropolitan Area, the unemployment rate decreased from 5.8 to 5.2 percent. Baltimore City's unemployment rate dropped from 7.5 to 6.8 percent.

Unemployment in Maryland's suburbs of the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Area decreased from 2.9 to 2.7 percent.

Western Maryland's unemployment rate decreased from 10.2 to 9.2 percent. In the balance of state, the unemployment rate decreased from 7.8 to 6.9 percent.

Statewide, during March, Maryland's unemployment rate ranged from 2.1 percent in Montgomery County to 13.1 percent in Somerset County.

programs to teach the principles of citzenship education.

Another major interest while serving in the Senate and House of Representatives was environmental legislation. Randolph was author of the Solid Waste Disposal Act and was a contributor to the Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act, the Endangered Species Act, and the "Superfund" Act.

His participation in early New Deal legislation, including Social Security, Tennessee Valley Authority, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and the Labor Relations Act, has been regarded as outstanding legislative contributions.

Senator Randolph says his philosophy can be summed up by a quote by his friend, Charles Kettering: "My interest lies in the future, because I am going to spend the rest of my life there."

The public is invited to attend the GCC commencement.

Let's Pitch In . . .

It really won't be long before it is time to hang out the Autumn Glory Festival bunting and make final preparations for what hopefully will be another successful event. The crowds for the festival continue to grow every year and there is no reason to believe that the festival will not continue to get bigger and better. Or is there?

The Promotion Council has scheduled a meeting for next week at the Oakland Country Club to discuss the restructuring of the festival, with a primary emphasis on its funding.

We learned just this week from the executive director of the Promotion Council that the Autumn Glory Festival is the only one in the area, probably one of just a few in the country, that does not charge some kind of fee to the various organizations and individuals who participate in the festival events. It seems that nearly every other festival committee does just that, in order to insure that the festival is not only self-supporting, but is able to make some kind of profit in order to continue to expand and improve.

We found out that the profit from the 1985 Autumn Glory Festival was somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,000; however that does not include a number of other expenses incurred by the Council, such as for promotion mailings. Every news release concerning the festival—and there are many—is mailed to over 300 regional newspapers and radio stations, and the cost of those mailings must be absorbed by the Council. Meanwhile, there are some organizations that clear much greater profits, without having to pay a cent to the Promotion Council for all of the publicity.

While we do not support the idea that the Promotion Council should take a large percentage of the various participants' profits, we do believe that it is only fair that each is assessed in some manner to help cover the expenses of promoting the festival. Under the current system, the Council simply has no way of producing any real profits, and without profits, we all run the risk of a stagnant Autumn Glory festival, which does not grow and probably would die within a few years. There is no getting around the fact that to have a successful, growing festival, it is going to take more money than the Promotion Council has to spend.

Some may quickly point a finger at the county commissioners and insist that it is their responsibility to provide more money in the county budget to the Promotion Council for this purpose. We were ready to do that too, but then we were reminded once again that in all other festivals in the area, such as the Buckwheat Festival and Apple Blossom Festival, the participants are required to pay certain fees to help cover the expenses and generate more funds for an even better festival the following year.

We believe that if this is done, it will be well worth the extra expense, because the money will be there to improve the festival and thus, bring in more persons to enjoy and support it. In the end, everyone should win.

We encourage all participating organizations to send a representative to the Wednesday 7:30 p.m. meeting.

To the Editor:

I have been employed at Garrett Community College for the past eight years and I really can't believe how the faculty of the College can call themselves "professionals" anymore. With all that has happened to us over the past three years, I now realize that these so called "professionals" are literally destroying the College and what it stands for.

On Monday as I was going to another building, a student looked totally disgusted and when asked what the problem was, this student said a few members of the faculty were, at that moment, meeting once again with a reporter from a newspaper. The question asked of me by this same student was "When will it ever end?"

I am very angry at this moment. At one point in time I stood behind these seven or eight faculty members; they did have a legitimate "gripe" at one point in time, but now I realize that what they are doing is for their own personal goals and not for "the well-being of the College," as they claim. One faculty member took a turn around when he did not get a position for which he applied for last fall. A more qualified individual was hired for the position.

Other members in this "elite" group of dissenters were stopped cold in things they were involved in, and this they did not like. Then there are a few whom I just don't understand the reasoning behind what they are doing or why they feel the way they do. We have what is known as "Faculty Rule" on the campus here at GCC. Out of 18 full-time faculty, there are seven or eight of them who always seem to be involved in "digging up the dirt." As long as things go the way they want it, everything runs smoothly, but as soon as it doesn't, get rid of the administration and get someone in who WILL answer all their whims. Just look back over the past few years; it really fits well when you stop to think about it.

In closing, I wish to let you, the public, know how "professional" the faculty acted during the evaluation of Dr. Puzzuoli last week. It was I who took a copy of the original evaluation that came in, changed everything referring to faculty to read administration, staff and students, made the necessary copies, and included a cover letter to the staff and administration to turn them into me personally when completed. It is my understanding from several staff members that the two members of the faculty in charge of gathering the faculty evaluations went around to the staff, asking them for the evaluations they completed. Number 1, these evaluations had nothing to do with the faculty, and number 2, what would the faculty have done if I had gone around to the faculty asking them for theirs? And they call themselves professional? When I confronted one of these faculty members about it, he stated that he had a few and they did not want to turn them into me. That is not what I understand from the staff, but at this point in time I do not to draw any conclusions. I do feel, however, that this was a very "unprofessional" act by the faculty.

In my opinion, it's about time the State and County officials and also faculty who are no longer associated with the College (but are certainly keeping things stirred up) get out of it and the bull be taken by the horn internally. At one point in time, I wouldn't have said that; however, I hate to see the College destroyed, and that is certainly what is happening. We are here for a reason—education. But what kind of education is your child receiving here at GCC when certain faculty are constantly keeping the place in an uproar? We've gone through two or three administrations in the past three years. Maybe it's about time the community, and the State and local officials took a look at the faculty. Something is wrong somewhere, wouldn't you say?

Linda Browning
GCC Staff

To the Editor:

On May 20, 1986, will come another tragic end in the recent sad story of American Agriculture. On this date my farm, Alhambra Farm which has been in my family for almost 50 years will be sold at a foreclosure sale at the Courthouse in Oakland.

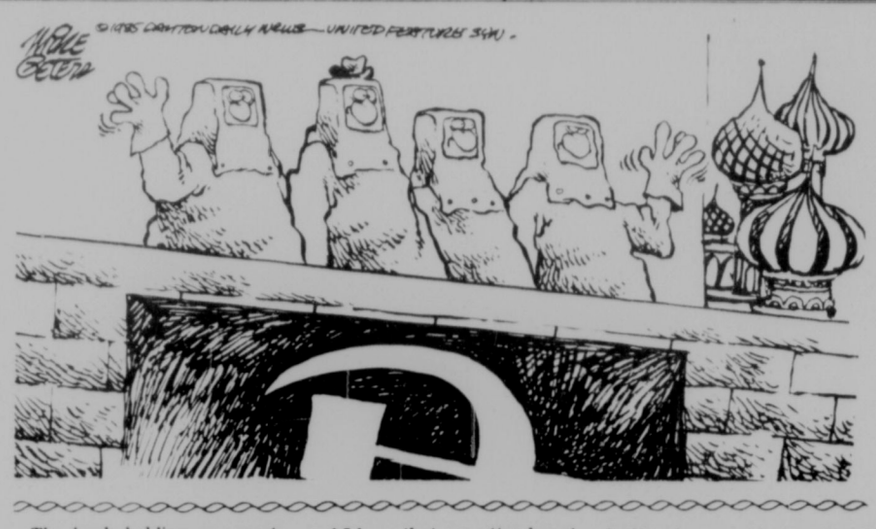
While the story is just the same as those of thousands of other farmers in our country who just could not make it because of bad farm economics, this could have been and could still be a happy ending if there were a little cooperation.

In 1984 before reaching a point where I felt compelled to file Chapter 11 reorganization, I applied at various places for long term refinancing. I found and was assured by one lender that loan would be made and all work was done to get this accomplished, however, they didn't deliver.

This is in litigation and on 4-20-86 a settlement was offered, but without the farm a loan cannot be made and it will now have to proceed with a trial in Federal Court and may now take years to settle.

Ever since filing Chapter 11 the bank holding the mortgage on my farm and home has fought me tooth and nail in court so they could foreclose. In February they finally succeeded.

The very sad note is just not the loss of the farm, but what it means to my unsecured creditors. They will lose all claims because this sale by the bank forces me into total Chapter 7 bankruptcy.



The bank holding my mortgage is a local bank and it's sad that they don't care about the other "little people" who I owe and were good to me when I needed help.

I realize that banks are in business, but the difference in what I owe the bank and what the farm is appraised is still over $50,000.00. The time needed to settle my lawsuit would take less than 90 days.

My question is why can't the bank wait another 90 days?

At foreclosure sales farm property usually brings less than ⅓ of its true value.

I am asking all people of Garrett County who want a nice home and piece of Garrett County property to come out and bid.

Again to my unsecured creditors, I am very sorry. I tried every way to stop the bank until I could get my settlement. This the only reason that I filed Chapter 11.

Sincerely,
Sidney R. Nazelrod
Soon to be

Alhambra Farm

Letter to the Editor:

Today, many people believe that they don't make a difference. They feel so powerless in the determination of national and local issues that they just sit back and watch life go by them.

If this were the attitude of the American Red Cross blood donors, the millions of Americans whose lives depend on a steady supply of blood and blood products would indeed have a dark future. In reality, through blood donations, those who believe they don't make a difference can become the most significant factor in the life of an accident victim, surgical patient, cancer victim and anyone else who needs blood.

Scientists are continually discovering breakthroughs in transplants, surgery and treatment of acute and chronic illnesses that are sustaining the lives of people whose cases might have been considered helpless twenty years ago.

Along with these breakthroughs comes an increased and urgent need for blood and blood products. There is no known substitute for human blood, and when blood is needed, neither money, promises to donate in the future, or excuses for not donating in the past can take the place of a safe, readily available blood supply provided by volunteer donors.

What does it take to become one of those individuals who give of themselves to help the sick and injured? You must be between the ages of 17 and 65, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in generally good health. It is up to those who can give blood to share their good health with those in need.

So please give blood on Friday, May 23, at the Oakland Armory, from 11:00-5:00 p.m. or at the Friendsville Fire Hall, Friday, May 30, 12:00 noon-6:00 p.m.

Norma C. Hesen, R.N.

To the Editor:

I attended the Spring FFA Judging Contests held at College Park, May 2. I feel that the North Garrett and Oakland FFA Chapters had an enjoyable time together. We didn't let being from rival schools interfere with getting to know each other better.

I congratulate the members of Oakland's Livestock Judging Team: Marsha Custer, Scott Marley, Becky Sanders and Randy Lucas. You did a great job and good luck in Springfield, Mass. when you compete in the National Competition.

I also congratulate the Horticulture Vegetable Judging Team: Norma Broadwater, Venessa Stacy, Lisa Corbin and Barbara Lee. You did a fantastic job in placing fifth in the state.

I congratulate the top individuals from the Oakland Chapter: Charles DeBerry, who placed sixth in Dairy Foods Judging; Becky Sanders, who placed tenth in Livestock Judging; and Mike Kepple, who placed ninth in Dairy Cattle Judging. Mike, next year there will be more time to study (more than two weeks) and as you told me, "next year I'll get eighth."

From the North Garrett Chapter I congratulate Mark McKenzie and Herb Fazenbaker, for placing fifth in the state for Meat Judging.

As for the other members who attended, just remember that you tried your best and your best is all that you can do.

I thank Mr. Steve Kisner and Mrs. Harold Loughrie, two cherished advisors, who really care about their students. Without their help, our chapters wouldn't be where they are today. Mr. Loughrie, thank you for telling me to do the best that I could do. It really helped a lot. Also, special thanks to Mrs. Donna Knox for being the girls chaperone. You were a lot of fun and I hope that you attend next year.

Finally, I would like to express to people that the FFA is not "all cows and plows." The FFA is an organization of dedicated young adults, who want to learn more about agricultural fields. The population of people enrolled in Vocational Agriculture and the FFA have gone down. I'm just trying to tell people that the FFA is an organization to be proud of and I'm very proud to be a member.

Sincerely,
Darla Broadwater
Member, North Garrett
FFA Chapter

To the Editor:

May I call your attention to the National Eye Care Project's HELPLINE, which begins May 19, 1986, in Maryland.

The project's goal is to tell everyone age 65 and over throughout the state that medical eye care is available to those who cannot afford it.

The HELPLINE offers medical eye care to any U.S. citizen or legal resident age 65 and over who is needy, who does not have a medical eye physician, and who has a medical eye problem. Professional medical eye care will be offered to the disadvantaged elderly at no out-of-pocket cost to them. Information on eye diseases will be sent to anyone who calls the toll-free Helpline number, 1-800-222-EYES.

The National Eye Care Project is sponsored by the Federation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Maryland Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons.

The success of this public service project depends on reaching people over age 65 who believe that they have a medical eye problem, but who do not have the resources to seek medical care.

Thank you for your help in calling attention to this project.

Sincerely,
Ronald S. Oser, M.D.

To the Editor:

Maybe it's time for a few thoughts in a lighter vein. Something inspired me to write a little poem, which I (lovingly) dedicate to my two teenage sons—and to the mothers of all the rest:

Nothing To Eat

You stand at the frig. the door open wide and longingly look for something inside.
I wonder, what is "Something To Eat?" It's not carrots, or cheese, or eggs, or a beet!
Not sausage, not bacon, not cabbage (no, please!) and you visibly shudder at "that cottage cheese."
You open a jar of something that's brown, smell it and gingerly put it back down.
There are oranges, baloney and lettuce galore, but you sigh as your hand idly closes the door.
"Hey mom, I tell you, it sure would be neat, if you'd go grocery shopping—there's just nothing to eat!"

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tom Brobst

To the Editor:

I just got home from shopping and I am angry. Any more it seems to be a trend to argue, persuade, gripe, threaten and scream at toddlers. No wonder schools are having a problem with children in respecting their elders. If a child learns at such a young age he can hold out and get his way, that is what he will do the rest of his life.

It is important to show your child love. But love is not arguing with a child until you give in. Love is teaching the word "No" and "Don't" or "Not Now" and not saying it more than three times, unless there is a punishment for that child. When will parents (grandparents, aunts and uncles included) set down good, fair rules and enforce them at all times? If "no" is "no" at a parents home, it is "no" anywhere else.

I'm tired of hearing a parent say "Oh she/he is soo-o bad, I bet I will get a call from school everyday. Hee! Hee! "Sure they will and it will be their fault for not teaching the child that there is a time for the child to play and have fun and there is a time for the child to be quiet and do as he is told. If the child doesn't learn these things at home then how does the parent expect him to learn it at school? I get angry because it is the parents who make bad children by not teaching them to respect their elders and other's property.

I have five children. When a rule was made, it was kept, from the oldest to the youngest child. Now as our grandchildren come in our, and other's, home the rules are still the same. This has made it easier for our children to raise their children because our rules were fair and they (our children) adopted them for their homes. Now the children know "no" at mom and dad's home is "no" at mamma's and pap-pap's as well as at aunts and uncles.

Our children and grandchildren always knew they were loved. We showed them all the time! Others, who view our offspring, cannot understand why or how we have had such good kids. It's because we have taught them "no" means "no" and to show respect at all times. I just wish young parents would get back to the Golden Rules and teach their children. Please, no more downing the child. Don't scream, threaten and argue with your child, teach them, love them!

Thank you,
Ima Wright

To the Editor:

An area Educator's visit to Russia. Observations Mr. Slagle's comments in the 10 April, 1986 edition of The Republican (p. 5) on his trip to the Soviet Union—"the most educational and most worthwhile learning experience I have ever undertaken"—appear to lack familiarity with some of the Soviet theoretical and practical positions on the subjects he discusses. I have before me the theoretical and political journal of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU), the fourth (March) 1986 issue, containing General Secretary Gorbachev's report to the 27th CPSU Congress, its resolutions, party rules, etc. The journal emphasizes, as does all appropriate Soviet literature, that the fountainhead of power in the USSR is the Communist Party. "It is the inspirer and organizer of the historical creativity of the masses, the guiding and directing force of our society (p. 149)." The CPSU "will in an offensive and wellreasoned way reveal the anti-people's, inhuman nature of imperialism, its exploitative essence (p. 135)." The key word here is imperialism, a synonym for the western world in general and the United States in particular. Hence, Mr. Slagle's observation that the young people are taught internationalism from the first grade, . . . above patriotism to love all countries of the world and to love peace" must be balanced by the party's stated position of revealing what it calls the "inhuman nature" of imperialism or the West, primarily the United States. The party exercises its control over the young people by its direct guidance of the Young Communist League (Komsomol), ages 14 to 26, and the latter's direction of the Young Pioneers, age 9 to 15. These two numerically multi-million organizations are designated the active assistants of the party, and when combined with the practice that party law reigns supreme over any other law, be it constitutional or statutory, a formidable incalucating and control apparatus is in place.

Mr. Slagle proceeds to observe that the Russian people "have organized youth groups for world peace, for nuclear disarmament and show a great desire to organize with the American youth." This organizational measure is an old Soviet ploy involving the establishment of various public, state and mass organizations to function as "transmission belts," i.e., to instill into like foreign groupings the party's policies in the disarmament, peace, trade-union and other fields. Since the party is constitutionally the core of all organizations, both public and state, a certain wariness should be exercised when dealing with such Soviet organizations. Just recently in Moscow an unauthorized Soviet peace group calling for a policy deviating from the party's was broken up, some of the participants getting a first-class lesson in Soviet democracy.

One can readily sympathize with the older Soviet generation's sincere antipathy to war, World War II having cost the USSR 20 million to 25 million people. While nothing can mitigate such a horror, it should be recalled that Stalin, the Soviet dictator at the time, played a major role in unleashing the war when he accepted the 1939 Nazi-Soviet Pact partitioning Poland, securing Germany's eastern flank, thereby unleashing a concatenation of events resulting in the Nazis overrunning virtually all of western Europe.

The Preston County educator also writes of the Soviets "number one" problem—alcoholism. Even in this area, Soviet writers insist that drunkenness is not a product of the Soviet lifestyle. Hard drinking, they say, is a relic of capitalism, when "drunkenness is the hands of the ruling, exploitative classes became a convenient weapon to torpify the workers, with a view toward diverting them from the revolutionary struggle," plus a way for entrepreneurs to make profits and for states to levy taxes (Moscow University Herald, No. 1, 1986, p. 30).

Our Turn

by Susan Alvarez

With summer fast approaching, our thoughts quickly turn to the beach and swimming. Things seem to have changed a great deal over the years, though. Just compare comments that were heard on the beach a few years ago with comments that you hear today:

Then—"Gee, you can walk for miles on this beach and see nothing but sand and water."

Now—"Gee, you can walk for miles on this beach and see nothing but umbrellas, sailboats, and surfboard rentals."

Then—"Where's the baby oil and iodine?"

Now—"Where's my sunglasses and the maximum protection lotion?"

Then—"You have to watch where you're stepping so you won't kick sand on a sunbather."

Now—"You have to watch where you're going so you won't run into a jogger."

Then—"Look at that beautiful sunset!"

Now—"Gosh I'm glad the sun went in, no more ultraviolet rays for the day."

Then—"When we get tired of sunbathing, we can go for a swim."

Now—"When we get tired of jet skiing, we can go sailboarding, water-triking, snorkeling, down the water slide, or sand-boarding."

Then—"Wow. The women's bathing suits are really daring this year!"

Now—"Wow! The women's bathing suits are really daring this year!"

Oh well, I guess some things will never change!

Tricycles Outlawed

by R. Craig Speicher

"Crackers" exploding. Tricycle rider jailed. Liquor dealer pays town $200.

This was Grantsville 70 years ago, as now seen in the Ruth Enlow Library, Grantsville Branch, which recently acquired copies of the original minutes of public meetings held by Grantsville mayors and councilmen from 1899 to 1931.

Levity replaces gravity, as today's reader of the minutes sees humor where once a somber tone predominated.

Exerpts follow:

June 26, 1899—"All cows and cattle of any kind are prohibited from running at large within corporate town limits from 7 p.m. until 5 a.m." Violators incur fine "not less than one dollar plus costs, or more than three dollars plus costs."

July 27, 1900—Pair of handcuffs ordered for bailiff. Walter K. appointed bailiff; salary is five dollars a month.

August 13, 1900—Walter K., bailiff, resigns.

September 26, 1901—Charles W. new bailiff, salary $25 a month plus board.

April 23, 1906—Ordinance passed: Fee to sell alcohol $200 annually, payable to town.

June 18, 1906—Ordinances passed regulating "sale of liquor, keeping of cattle off the streets and alleys, suppression of vice and immorality, prohibiting horse racing" . . . and "the use of firearms and crackers."

November 7, 1906—"Tax rate for . . . 1906 shall be 15¢ on $100."

May 6, 1907—1,000 feet of plank purchased for pavement repair. Prohibited: "Frosted windows, sundown blinds and slat doors for saloon."

July 5, 1910—Notices posted "notifying all automibilists of the limit of speed." Prohibited: "Pasturing of public grounds of the borough."

January 1, 1912—"Sledding, skating, and running small wagons for pleasure" must discontinue.

January 6, 1913—Curfew bill passed. Bailiff paid five dollars to ring town bell in January.

March 3, 1913—"Notify U.B. to remove all . . . manure from alley back of his stable according to ordinance 19."

June 5, 1913—Complaint about "manure at C.B.'s stable getting out on the sidewalk . . . making it unpleasant and disagreeable to pass . . . through. Complaint of snowballing in the borough by boys."

January 1, 1914—Five posters forbid bicycle riding on sidewalks.

September 8, 1914—Avilton Mutual Telephone Co. permitted building into borough.

December 7, 1914—Council to receive "50% . . . clear proceeds of a moving picture show."

June 7, 1915—"No firing of shooting crackers . . . permitted" within corporate limits.

August 2, 1915—Citizens complaining: "Running of bicycles, tricycles, roller skates or hand wagons should . . . not . . . be permitted . . . whatever. Penalty of not over five dollars nor over five days in lockup" for violators.

January 9, 1917—Mr. Murphy is asked to be bailiff "to keep the boys in order for one month."

September 3, 1917—Children driving cattle along streets told "keep the cows going . . . and . . . off the pavements."

December 2, 1918—Complaint: Several parties interfering with street light switches and throwing stones at lights.

September 7, 1920—Posters to prohibit "emptying of slops, wash water or filth of any kind" in alleys.

April 6, 1925—"Sprig Tower" to pay town one dollar per night for showing motion pictures.

September 14, 1925—Lutheran Church protests "objectionable privy . . . near the church."

September 2, 1929—Walter P. and Burt S. plead guilty; fined three dollars each for disorderly conduct; discharged.

March 26, 1931—Installation of town water noted.

Grantsville, 1986: "Sprig Tower," whoever or whatever it was, has sunk into eternal oblivion.

The 1901 bailiff who earned $25 a month, today would make that much in less than half a day, representing inflation greater than 4,000%. The $200 liquor license fee of 1906, however, has risen "only" 400%, to $800, payable to the county instead of the town. Calculate an explanation for that discrepancy, if you can.

That mastodon AT&T has gone down in a blaze of litigation in our time, so we quickly comprehend the passing of little 1914 Avilton Mutual Telephone.

We understand, too, how oversized tricycles navigated by tottering young men in knickers menaced pedestrians 70 years ago and why they were banned from streets and sidewalks.

The privy, too, has gone down in a blaze, and the Lutheran Church, happily, once again breathes pure air.

Were they indeed the "good old days?"

General Secretary Grobachev's proposal "to eliminate all nuclear arms from the world by the year 2000" represents a public relations gambit and is unacceptable to the west. Nuclear weapons now are the United States' main deterrent to a Soviet move into Central and subsequently western Europe and will remain so for the foreseeable future. The elimination of weapons of mass destruction would make Soviet conventional forces masters of the European heartland.

Mr. Slagle concludes with an observation on the hospitality of the Russian people, to be sure, this trait appears intrinsic and hence traditional, as it is for the many peoples inhabiting the USSR. In fact, one witness once observed, tongue in cheek no doubt, that one should not laud the beauty of a Russian's horse lest he give it to you. Imagine trying to get a Russian horse past our Agriculture Department. This notwithstanding, a balanced assessment of the Soviet Union necessitates listening to the background rhetoric, as this admonition to the over 19-million strong party attests:

"One of the most acute struggles of the two world views in the international arena reflects the opposed nature of the two world systems—socialism and captitalism . . . (The Party) will instill into the Soviet people a heightened political awareness and vigilance, the ability to evaluate social phenomena from clearcut class (Marxist-Leninist) positions, to defend the ideals and spiritual values of socialism (op. cit., p. 135)."

By all means, visit the Soviet Union, and hang onto your vigilance.

U.S. Should Take Lead In Halting Nuclear Tests

by Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

Once again the topic of whether or not we should stop testing nuclear weapons is being discussed in the Senate.

This is one of the perennial conversations that has gone on ever since the Administration of President Eisenhower. President Eisenhower himself, with all of his military experience and knowledge of world affairs, was a strong advocate of a comprehensive test ban. The test ban is an agreement by the superpowers to stop testing nuclear weapons.

There are some strong opponents of a test ban who maintain we need to continue to test for four major reasons: First, to determine whether weapons in the inventory are reliable; second, to determine whether improvements and safeguards can be added to these weapons; third, to analyze nuclear weapons effects; and finally, they argue that we should continue testing in order to make new discoveries that lead to new weapons.

Proponents argue that testing not only tends to enlarge the inventory of nuclear weapons, but also encourages the opportunities to develop even more lethal weapons, thereby expanding the danger of nuclear war.

They also point out that greater reliability of the weapons could mean greater likelihood that they could be used. Another argument against continued testing is the fact that testing often leads to the development of more destabilizing weapons. Still another reason to stop testing is nucler proliferation. The superpowers are trying to keep non-nuclear nations in the world from becoming nuclear. The United States has taken the lead in negotiating a non-proliferation treaty to which many nations have adhered. But that treaty will terminate within ten years and the question arises: Will the nations that have agreed not to enter the nuclear race restrain themselves in the absence of some restraint on the part of the superpowers? Or, will the constant, continual testing and improvement of nuclear weapons, and enlargement of the arsenals of nuclear weapons, push them into the race as well?

Another argument that opponents of a test ban make is that even if we were willing to suspend nuclear testing, we cannot be sure that other nations—specifically the Soviet Union—would also suspend all nuclear testing. So that of course raises the issue of verification. Can we determine if such an agreement would be faithfully adhered to?

In testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Admiral William Crowe, offered some interesting observations on this point. He told the Committee that, even if the technical devices were available to determine verification of weapons testing, we still would need observers in each country in order to assure verification. I believe that the superpowers are close to that level of technical ability and willingness to accept an exchange of observers. And I am hopeful that in international negotiations we would be able to remove any question about verification of the testing process.

Garrett BPW Club Installs New Officers

Patricia Vetter, Oakland, was installed as president of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club May 8, by installing officer Mary Andersen, state recording secretary. Other newly-installed officers are Sarah Jane Kuhn, vice president; Carol Canan, recording secretary; Linda Maroney, treasurer; and Linda Sanders, nominating committee chairperson.

Three new members were also introduced during the dinner meeting at Will O' the Wisp: Darlene Tressler and Nancy Priselac, both of Garrett Community College; and Peggy Jamison, Planner II for Garrett County. Cosette Harman was membership expansion chairman for the past year.

Outgoing president, Phyllis Buckel, recognized several persons for perfect attendance, including Barbara Flinn, Pat Vetter, Cosette Harman, and Joyce Winters. Those missing only one of the monthly meetings were Linda Sanders, Connie Trickett, and Mildred Wucik. Miss Wucik was also recognized as a past state president from the Garrett County club.

Special guests present included Kathy Brockette, Barbara Cadwallader, Dottie Barclay, and Jean Touhy, all members of the Cumberland club; and Mrs. Wilda Winters, mother of the incoming president.

Local music writer and performer, Joyce Miller, provided several of her original songs. Joyce has composed 75 songs thus far in her career and recorded her first album of original songs in Harrisonburg, Va., last year. A second grade teacher at Friendsville Elementary School, Joyce has been singing at churches and social gatherings.

Outgoing officers and chairpersons honored by Phyllis Buckel included Pat Vetter, vice president; Betty Lou Cogan, treasurer; and Cosette Harman, recording and corresponding secretary; Mildred Wucik, Linda Sanders, Pat White, Kathy Zimmerman, Connie Trickett, Joyce Winters, Lucy Shorb, Wilma Calhoun, and Carol Canan.

New president, Patricia Vetter, presented Mrs. Buckel with a gift certificate for dinner for two at Will O' the Wisp as a token of the club's appreciation for all her efforts as president for the past two years.

Members attending the state convention in Ocean City this week are Phyllis Buckel, Kathy Zimmerman, Carol Canan, and Young Careerist winner Lisa Thayer.

The club's next meeting will be June 12 at Will O' the Wisp.

Cub Scout Day Camp Slated June 23-27

Deep Creek District Day Camp will be held again this year at Broadford Recreation Area from June 23-27. The camp will be operating each day from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., according to Marie Custer, district aid.

Custer reminds parents of cub scouts that they should contact their son's den leader or the cub master immediately for registration and health forms. The forms and registration fees are due to the respective cub masters by Saturday, May 17.

The district aid noted that the camp was a well-rounded program of crafts, nature, sports and swimming. "Adventures in the outdoors, more than anything, encourages cub scouts to continue in the scouting program and graduate into boy scouting as a member of the troop," said Custer.

For additional information, interested scouts may contact their den leaders, cub masters or Custer at 334-3195.

Local Cyclists To Participate In MS Event

Two local cyclists will be among the participants in a 150-kilometer (94-mile) cycle tour to support the fight against multiple sclerosis.

Mark Powles and Gary Heginbotham, both of Mtn. Lake Park, will make the ride from Baltimore to Annapolis on June 7 and then return on the same route on June 8.

Besides paying an entry fee, each cyclist must obtain a minimum pledge of $1 per kilometer ($150 total). Persons interested in making a pledge to Powles or Heginbotham may do so by contacting them at 334-2042 or 334-2838, respectively, during the evening hours.

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system that can cause speech, visual, and mobility problems. It strikes adults in the prime of life, usually between the ages of 15 and 50, and affects an estimated 2,000 families in Maryland. There is no known cure for the disease.

Fellowship To Meet Saturday

The Oakland Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship will meet this Saturday, May 17, 7 p.m. at the Aurora Fire Hall. A buffet dinner will be served, the cost of which is $4 for adults and $2 for children. For reservations persons are asked to call 334-2947 or (304) 735-5150.

Area Students To Participate In Summer Centers

Dr. Charlene Evans-Thomas, director of elementary education for the Garrett County Board of Education, announced recently the names of the local students who have been accepted into the 1986 Summer Centers Program.

The following students were named to the various centers: Sarah L. Younkin, Accident Elementary, Discoverers in Mathematics; Jennifer M. Gaster, Bloomington Elementary-Jr. High, Center for the Arts (photography); Katherine T. Wiley, Route 40 Elementary, Aquatic Biology; Brian C. Hensley, Northern Middle, Creative Expression; Molly M. Ramsey, Northern Middle, Environmental Research; Tammy Rosenthal, Southern Middle, Bay Studies-Smith Island Itinerary; Thomas Q. Moyer, Southern Middle, Introduction to Space Sciences; Teresa A. Lumpkin, Southern Middle, Strategies for Decision-Making on World Policy; Renee Warnick, Northern High, Printmaking; William G. Bishop, Northern High, Living Off the Land; Cindy A. Bosley, Northern High, Expanded Experiences in Leadership.

Dr. Evans-Thomas said the students were assisted in filing application by their respective teachers, guidance counselors, vice principals and principals.

According to Evans-Thomas, the Division of Instruction, Maryland State Department of Education has, for the past nine years, sponsored centers which offer intensive, advanced-level learning opportunities to students entering grades five through 12 who demonstrate outstanding academic or artistic ability. A course for fourth graders was introduced this year, along with selected residential course offerings for fifth and sixth graders.

Courses at these centers are designed to enrich the regular school program by using a variety of unique approaches including intensive field study and research, internships with experts, career exploration and advanced content. Courses are offered in science, economics, humanities, government, problem solving, leadership, mathematics, visual and performing arts, creative writing and international studies.

Center schedules are arranged so that students generally spend six hours each day in their chosen major field of study. In addition, Evans-Thomas said, there are enriching evening programs at the residential centers that typically include cultural events, films, concerts and seminars.

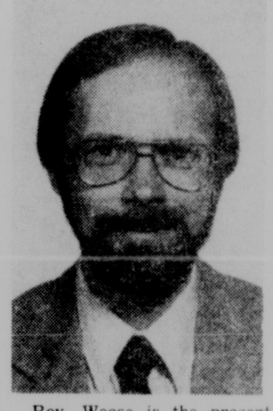
TRANSPORTATION WEEK — This week has been proclaimed Transportation Week by the Garrett County Commissioners. Garrett County transportation services, vans and station wagons, provide transportation for senior citizens, handicapped persons, low income persons and the general public to senior centers, medical appointments and other necessary trips. Maryland's transportation providers have designed and implemented many services and programs for energy conservation, and are involved in planning additional and improved programs to greater enhance Maryland's transportation in the future. Seated above, left to right, are Garrett County Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey. Standing, same order, are: Linda Green, transportation director; Gerald Smith, driver; and Bonnie Zimmerman, coordinator.

HEALTH OCCUPATION STATE WINNERS — The Health Occupations classes from Northern and Southern High Schools participated in the state-wide competition for Health Occupation Students of America in Cambridge recently. The State Department of Education in conjunction with the Leadership Clubs sponsor these events once yearly and competitions are held in leadership and skills as well as essays. The Southern students rated high in prepared speaking and job seeking skills. They claimed second in the state in the essay contest, also. Students participating from Southern High School, pictured above, are: front row, left to right, Sharon Davis, Anita Sines, and Maria Chadderton. In the back, same order, are: Robin Tusing, Leigh Leighton, and Kelly Hershman. Not pictured are Roberta Harvey, Sheryl Graham, and Sherri Friend. Northern High School students participating, pictured below, left to right, are: Mary Ann Fadeley, high rating in the essay contest; Laura Bosley, third in prepared speaking; Karen Welmer, second in medical assisting, clerical; and Crystal Thomas, tied for third place in job seeking skills. These students competed against 33,500 Health Occupations students throughout the state. The theme for the event was "Success Comes Only to Those Who Dare to Challenge." Health Occupations class is a vocational class offered at both county high schools under the supervision of Kenneth Bittinger.

Rev. Weese To Lead Revival At Local Church



Rev. Weese is the present pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cumberland. He is a former resident of Garrett County and attended county schools, taught English and psychology classes at Northern High School, and Adult Basic Education in Oakland.

He holds a master's degree in counseling psychology from Frostburg State College, a master's in theology from Bob Jones University and a bachelor's degree in secondary education from Bob Jones University. He and his wife, Carol, have two children.

The Rev. Stanley E. Weese will preach at a series of revival meetings Sunday through Wednesday, May 18-21, at the Deep Creek Baptist Church on Route 219 north of the Glendale Bridge Road.

Rev. Donald Wilson, pastor of Deep Creek Baptist Church, invites the public to the services which will begin at 11 a.m. on Sunday and at 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

ner, a $10 gift certificate from Flowers and Things, a color analysis from Four Seasons Stitchery, a hair cut from Beauty Heaven, a Mary Kay Cosmetic from Rawnie Gillum, and an Avon Cosmetic from Nancy Jones. Every participant received a bag of favors provided by Earthmovers, Beachy's Pharmacy, Liberty Bank, Avon, Stroehmann Bakers, and Sebold Trucking.

The first prize winner was Erin Wengerd, and in second place was Jim Kenner. Dorothy Kay Beachy, Beth Green, Trina Wengerd, Marsha Swauger and Rose Marie Edgar were all very close in the pledges they had collected, so the remainder of the prizes cannot be awarded until the funds are turned in on May 10.

Others who contributed to the success of this event included Julia Hall; Location Chairman, Nancy Jones; Prize Chairman, Carol Wengerd; Recruitment, Rachel Stewart; publicity, and Kay Beachy, food.

According to Borch, proceeds from the event will fund research to find a cure for cystic fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of children in this country, and medical care programs to lengthen the lives of children with cystic fibrosis. The Maryland Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, with the aid of volunteers across the state, raises funds to support these programs through events like the Walk for Breath in Grantsville.

age group. The remaining 25% will be transients. The school age population within this group is estimated to be less than 100. Most of these potential students will be attending schools of higher education. Because of the maturity and the financial status of the new residents, the majority of the population will be college age and will probably attend college outside of Garrett County.

Garrett Community College, a two-year college, is the only school of higher education. There are six colleges and one university located within 60 miles of Oakland.

The present school system is underutilized. The impact on the school system from this increase in population will be negligible.

5) Protective Services—Garrett County law enforcement consists of the County Sheriff's Office which is supplemented by the Maryland State Police. Oakland, the largest of the incorporated towns, has its own three-man force. Based on the International Association of Chiefs of Police criteria, there should be one on-duty officer per 1,000 population. The rural character of this area would lessen the need for that generalized standard of protection.

Garrett County has 10 volunteer fire companies. Service is provided by two rescue squads which are CPR-qualified. The county operates an Emergency Management System (911) to which all companies respond. These companies depend on contributions from people within their protection area and also receive allotments from county government and the towns. The county pays for the cost of maintaining the Central Alarm System.

Garrett Memorial Hospital is the only hospital in the county and is a full-service facility with 61 medical/surgical beds, 4 coronary care beds, 7 obstetrics beds, and 4 pediatric care bed capability. With the planned development producing an estimated 975 additional people, it must be assumed that while all the protective services are in place, there will be the need for adding personnel.

Finally, the report stated that the construction programs and hotel would provide jobs and that the most direct benefit would be revenues generated for the county.

Status of Water System

Currently, a series of test wells are being drilled on the site to determine the location and availability of water. They are permitted through the Department of Natural Resources, the Water Resources Administration and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

It is anticipated at this time, without the benefit of test results from the ground water, that the treatment will consist of chlorination and iron removal. After treatment, the water will be pumped by a high head service pump through a transmission system to a storage facility.

The water consumption for the townhouse-type of units will total 300 gallons per day per unit. The consumption rate for the hotel units will be 130 gallons per day per room. After the construction of 330 townhouse units and 150 hotel rooms, the total daily consumption will be 118,500 gallons per day. In order to deliver this ultimate flow, it is necessary that the well system produce 110 gallons per minute for an 18-hour duration.

The well, treatment and transmission systems may be phased as the development progresses. Upon completion of the system, the entire system will be offered for dedication to the Garrett County Sanitation Commission for ownership, maintenance and operation.

Status of Wastewater

The wastewater conveyance system that serves the project of the Wisp Recreation Area consists of five wastewater pumping stations and approximately 8.9 miles of six, eight and 16-inch force main and 0.7 miles of 15 and 18-inch gravity sewer main.

The existing wastewater treatment plant has a capacity of 0.600 million gallons per day. The metered effluent from the plant as provided by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission shows a peak flow of 0.250 m.g.d. during Labor Day weekend, 1985. This data indicates the relative surplus capacity in the wastewater treatment plant. For the sake of comparison, this excess capacity could accommodate an additional 1,333 dwelling units generating 262.5 gallons per day dwelling unit.

A study has been prepared and submitted to the Garrett County Sanitary Commission illustrating the flows generated by not only the Wisp Recreation Area as currently planned, but also the Wisp Ski Area with the addition of their 461 planned units. The total average daily flow from both projects would be 0.144 m.g.d. The study is currently underway to update these flow projections based on comments received from the Sanitary Commission. The magnitude of flows illustrates that these two projects would have little effect on the remaining capacity at the wastewater treatment plant.

The improvements to accommodate these projected flows will not affect the performance of the system as it relates to the existing customers served.

It is anticipated at this time that the collection and conveyance system, when complete, will be turned over to the Garrett County Sanitary commission to own, maintain and operate.

Stormwater Management

Rachuba is in the process of preparing a hydrological analysis assessing the pre-developed and post-developed conditions relative to stormwater runoff.

They maintain that since Deep Creek Lake will act as the regional stormwater management facility, they propose to discharge their storm drainage systems directly to the lake. They are, however, addressing the idea of providing certain water quality measures in their system to infiltrate the contaminants in the stormwater associated with the first one inch of rainfall.

Declaration of Covenants

Also yesterday, the Planning Commission reviewed the declaration of convenants, conditions and restrictions for the planned development of the townhouses.

Those purchasing townhouses would sign an agreement to form a non-profit membership corporation known as "The Slopes at Wisp Homeowners Association," for the purpose of performing certain functions on behalf of the owner of lots within the property.

Within that association, architectural committees and a board of directors would be formed to enforce common area and structure restrictions and to outline maintenance by the owner.

The lots will be used for residential use only and without the written approval of the architectural committee, no lot may be sub-divided. Other conditions and restrictions pertain to motor vehicles, structures, animals, parking areas, notices and nuisances, trash, additional property, annexation, party walls, amendments and enforcements.

THE CONDOLENCE CALL

The condolence call is distinct from attendance at the viewing or funeral. It is a personal home visit made to a bereaved individual or family by relatives, friends, neighbors, associates, acquaintances soon after they have learned of the death. However, the individual who fails to go early to the bereaved home need not assume that he may not go later. Condolence calls may be made at any time, before the funeral or after, during the first weeks of grief.

The condolence call has several purposes. It expresses sympathy and offers help in a difficult time. The bereaved should know that they are not alone in their grief, that there are people who care about and understand their sorrow. It also helps maintain ties between that person and the society. This not only demonstrates community support, it can help the mourner from slipping too deeply into grief.

Lakers Stopped Cold In Region XX Tournament

Although the Garrett Community College Lakers came on with a flurry in the closing weeks of the regular season to capture a spot in the Region XX post-season tournament, their participation in that double-elimination event was short-lived, as they fell to Baltimore CC in the opener on Friday morning, 9-1, and then lost to Beaver CC later that day, 11-3.

The Lakers, who came into the tournament with several back-to-back games of strong hitting, managed only two hits in the contest against Baltimore off Jose Malunado. Rich Harasti accounted for both of the Lakers' safeties, a single in the second inning and a solo homer in the seventh.

The Red Devils recorded only four hits off GCC's leading pitcher, Vaughn Yenich and Bryan Gray, but two of them were home runs and another was a two-run double.

Tony Shade gave Baltimore three runs in the first inning with a home run, plus added a three-run triple in the sixth. Terran Todd recorded a two-run double in the fourth.

Chris Huyett, Bill Liller and Denzil Evans worked the mound for the Lakers in the game against Beaver, but the Pennsylvanians riddled them with a total of 13 hits, including a three-run blast by Jim Dickinson in the first inning and a similar shot by Phil Bodley in the sixth.

The only highlight of the game for the Lakers was in the top of the sixth inning, when they picked up four of their eight hits, including RBI singles by Kent Freeman and Jim Keller, plus a double by Rick McPeek.

The Lakers concluded their season with an overall record of 31-21. Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt praised his sophomores for their outstanding play, especially near the end of the regular season when the Lakers won eight of 11 games.

Southern Jayvees Nipped Twice By Bulldogs, 1-0, 2-1

After jumping out to a 4-0 start this season, the Southern jayvee team has fallen on hard times this past week and now hold a 4-3 mark.

The junior Rams dropped a doubleheader to host Bruce on Saturday, 1-0 and 2-1.

Despite a two-hitter by Southern's Jason Park, Chris Wilson also tossed a two-hitter for the home team in the opener. Glenn Metz singled home Terry Miller for the only run of the game.

Chris Miller repeated his teammates performance on the mound in the nightcap, allowing only two Ram hits. Darrell Davy knocked home the winning run for Bruce.

They were the fifth and sixth wins in ten starts for Bruce. The two teams are slated to square off again this Saturday on the Rams' diamond.

Men's Association Golf Winners Noted

The Oakland Country Club Men's Association held an intra-club Callaway tournament this past weekend at the local course. Placing first was Scott Finch, who fired a 71.

There was a seven-way tie for second place, as the following players each carded a 72: Nick Dzendzel, Henry Trickett, Dan Daniels, Charles Kitzmiller, Ken Metheny, Larry Dixon, and Leo Mazzone.

Zumpano RBI Gives Huskies Win Over Beall

An RBI single by Aaron Zumpano, his third hit of the game, gave the Northern Huskies a 6-5 victory over visiting Beall Monday evening.

It was the fifth win of the campaign for first-year Coach John Helmick against nine defeats, as his young team has played better each week, having dropped a close contest to the area's Class B leader, Southern, last week.

The Mountaineers jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first and were on top 4-1 after two and one-half innings, however the Huskies answered with a single run in the bottom of the third, one in the fourth, and two more in the fifth to give them a 5-4 advantage. Beall knotted the score at 5-5 in the top of the seventh.

Paul McClintock reached first base for Northern to lead off the bottom of the seventh and set up Zumpano's RBI. McClintock raced all the way from first for the winning run.

Wayne Tabor, who was relieved in the sixth by Lipscomb, was credited with the win on the mound, while Bobby Hilderbrand was tagged for the loss. The loss dropped Beall to 8-7 on the season.

Sweitzer Receives Safety Award

Barry R. Sweitzer has been named as Herrington Manor State Park's Safe Employee of the Month for April, according to Dennis Shaffer, park safety officer. In recognition of Sweitzer's accomplishment and in support of the park's safety promotion effort, the Oakland Pizza Hut has presented him with a gift certificate good for any large pizza of his choice.

According to Shaffer, Sweitzer was selected from a group of five candidates and was selected for his safe work habits, leadership in the area of work safety and accident/injury free record. At Herrington Manor, Sweitzer is responsible for a wide range of duties including building and grounds maintenance and minor construction projects.

Sweitzer is a 1981 graduate of Southern High School where he received a Vocational Agriculture diploma. While at Southern High he was an active member of the Future Farmers of America. Prior to his 1982 enlistment in the U.S. Navy, he worked at Herrington Manor with the Youth Conservation Corps. His Navy experiences took him to many Mediterranean Seaports and the island of Granada.

Since returning to Garrett County this spring, Sweitzer has made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Sweitzer, Route 1, Oakland. He is now serving with the Oakland Army National Guard unit with the rank of corporal. He says he hopes to some day be counted among the successful farmers of Garrett County.

EARNS SAFETY AWARD — Barry Sweitzer, center, an employee at Herrington Manor State Park, was recently named the recipient of the Safety Award of the Month for April. The award is sponsored by the Pizza Hut of Oakland and was presented by Dennis Shaffer, safety officer for Herrington Manor State Park. At right is Richard Sines, a representative of the Maryland Forest, Park, and Wildlife Service Western Area Safety Committee. The award entitles Sweitzer to one free large pizza of his choice.

New Accident Council Member Takes Oath

The Accident Mayor and Town Council met in regular monthly session on Monday, May 5. Fred Kahl, newly elected councilman, took the oath of office before Mayor Wayne Fratz. Also present were Councilmen Hobert Bowser, Richard Carlson, and Charles Strauss.

Budget for 1986-87

Mayor Fratz reviewed the proposed general fund and water and sewer budgets for the coming fiscal year, 1986-87. The council voted to set the 1986-87 tax rate at 53 cents per $100 of assessed property value. The proposed budget will be presented at a public hearing scheduled for June 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Accident Town Hall. All interested citizens are invited to attend and provide comments and ask questions concerning the entire budget. Copies can be obtained by contacting the town clerk.

Renewal of Contracts

The council took action to renew the contract with the Maryland Environmental Service for another year. Under the terms of the contract, MES provides routine weekly supervision of the operations and maintenance of the town's water and wastewater facilities. This includes technical supervision and training to the town's new employee, Roger Knox, who began his employment on April 1.

The council voted to renew the trash collection contract with Fazenbaker and Sons Trucking of Oakland for another year. Household garbage will continue to be collected on Fridays under the same arrangements.

The town will also be engaging the accounting firm of Rodeheaver and Associates of Oakland to perform the annual financial audit required by the state.

Town Parks

By letter dated April 15, from the Department of Natural Resources Capital Programs Administration, the town received preliminary approval of Phase II Program Open Space funding to further develop the Accident Community Parks, East and West.

The council met with Larry Brenneman, representing the Central Garrett Little League, and authorized the purchase and installation of the backstop for the playing field on the former Accident Elementary School playground. Brenneman stated he anticipates utilizing the playing field for Little League games within the next month. Additional improvements will be made to the field during the summer and fall months.

The final Phase I development project was completed with the construction of the stone fireplace in the pavilion in the Accident Community Park West. This included the enclosure of the entire southwest side of the pavilion with a stone wall to help as a windbreak for the pavilion.

Following an on-site inspection, the council decided it was more practical to remove the barn structure from the former Baumann lot. This decision was based on the costs to renovate and maintain the building without a revenue generating use. Instead, the land area, which is level, will be utilized for a volley ball court to complement the picnicking area. The town contracted with Jerry Maust of Accident to tear down the structure.

Post Office

In response to a March 18 letter from the town to the District Office, U.S. Postal Service, Baltimore, representatives from the Postal Service Customer Services met with town officials on April 9 to discuss hours of operations and other matters concerning the new postal facility at Accident. As a result of the meeting, window service hours were changed the next day, April 10, so there would be continuous window service between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on weekdays. This was accomplished at no additional cost by altering the postmaster's lunch break.

Postal Service officials agreed that time locks can be installed to extend the lobby hours to 6 p.m. There will, however, be a three to six-month period required prior to installation of the locks.

A snorkel collection box was installed to allow customers to deposit mail from their vehicles. There are also plans to install a walkway from South Street to the front door of the post office to improve the flow of traffic.

The Postal Service also plans to install larger "Do Not Enter" signs at the parking lot exit from the Accident-Bittinger Road. Town officials request that patrons who drive to the post office observe the parking lot entrance and exit signs and proper use of the handicap parking space.

Delinquent Accounts

The town reported that all delinquent tax accounts have been paid with the exception of one real estate account for tax year 1984-85. The council directed that this account be turned over to the county treasurer for collection, including the past-due water and sewer account, which is a lien against the real estate.

Bicycle Safety Program

As a follow-up to the Bicycle Safety Program presented last year for the youth of the community by the Maryland State Police, the town will be distributing booklets entitled "A Safety Handbook for Bicycle and Moped Owners." A cover letter from the mayor to the youth of the town will accompany the booklet.

Cable TV, Dogs, Town Sign Are Meeting Topics

Business discussed during the recent Friendsville Town Council meeting included discussion of the Yough Cable TV Company. Those having problems with cable should submit them in writing to the mayor and town council before May 30.

Another discussion concerned dogs that are running at large in the town. Citizens with complaints about dogs should contact the mayor and town council.

Several businesses have not yet submitted their blanks to be placed on the town sign. Council encouraged them to have the signs finished and to return them to the mayor as soon as possible.

In the near future, local businesses and restaurants will be visited by the town council members to investigate grease traps and drains, under the requirements of the State Health Department.

A public hearing was held on May 7 in reference to amending the town zoning ordinance to allow an addition of 700 plots at the Steele Cemetery. The request was made by John Williams. Of the citizens who attended, no one objected to the addition.

The town water lines will be flushed on May 24 at 10 p.m. If circumstances allow, council members would like to flush the lines every fourth Saturday of the month.

A non-long distance phone number is available for reaching the town clerk, Lisa Hetzel. The number is 826-8311.

Police Report Local Mishaps

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment this week investigated several mishaps which resulted in injuries.

Two Deer Park residents were listed in "satisfactory" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital last night as a result of a single-vehicle accident Monday on the Old Wilson Road.

Twylla S. Cross, 29, and Jessica Cross, eight, were transported to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

According to police, Twylla Cross was driving a 1972 Dodge Swinger. As the vehicle rounded a left curve, it ran off the right side and struck a telephone pole.

Cpl. Richard Graham investigated the mishap.

A tractor trailer accident occurred Sunday on Route 48.

According to police reports, Gordon L. Harrell, 54, Rossville, Ga., was operating the truck, which was carrying sides of beef. As the truck rounded a left curve, the load shifted, causing Harrell to lose control. The trailer then jumped the guard rail and the tractor overturned.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated, reporting that approximately 100 feet of guardrail were destroyed.

Harrell was transported to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Medevac helicopter, where he was treated and released, according to a spokesman there.

A single-vehicle accident occurred May 8 on the Potomac Camp Road.

Police said David R. Bucklew, 20, Deer Park, was operating a 1984 Ford Bronco. As the vehicle approached a wooden bridge, the driver attempted to pass a can of soda to a passenger. Bucklew took his eyes off the road, causing the vehicle to run off the right side and overturn into a creek.

Tfc. R.C. Georg investigated the mishap, charging Bucklew with negligent driving. Bucklew was apparently not seriously injured.

Two vehicle accidents resulted in drivers being charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Mark S. Duckworth, 29, Oakland, was charged by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger following a May 9 incident on Route 135.

Police said the vehicle, a 1985 Dodge Charger, traveled onto the right shoulder, then back onto the road. It then began to skid, crossed the center line, went out of control and ran off the left side. The vehicle then struck an embankment and overturned.

Duckworth was also charged with failing to remain in one lane.

Gary G. Glotfelty, 40, Deer Park, was charged by Tfc. David W. Broadwater Friday after his vehicle, a 1984 Plymouth Horizon, ran off the road and struck a ditch and utility pole on Route 560.

He was also charged with failing to stay in one lane.

Log vs. Dog or
How To Avoid The Dog House When Building A Log Home
HERE'S SOME HELPFUL TIPS:
1. To end up with a quality house you must start with a quality product. Consider logs, for instance. According to the U.S. Forestry Service, as reported in the Log Home Guide, Cedar logs are the best, followed by kiln dried Pine, preferably Eastern White Pine. At A&A we offer both Cedar and White Pine.
2. Air—One of the biggest problems with log construction—you can't see it, but you can sure feel it. At A&A we have the experience to eliminate the air infiltration problem with expert building techniques and products.
3. Settling, warping and twisting—It's been our experience to witness some severe problems of openings in walls and around windows and doors, most of which resulted from poor construction or use of inferior wood species like Yellow Pine, Spruce, or Hardwoods. Unfortunately, the log housing industry has suffered from Johnny-Come-Latelys who produce an inferior product that only looks good.
At A&A we've served our apprenticeship in the log housing business, being one of the first to offer log homes in this area. If you are considering building a log home, we can help you. And save you money as well. We'll keep you out of the dog house.
P.S. We'll build the house, you make it a home.

Health Clinic To Hold Free Classes

Two free classes will be offered at Ann Robinson's Natural Health Clinic over the next two weeks, according to Robinson.

The topic for the first class, to be held on Tuesday, May 20, will be colon health. The second class, scheduled for Tuesday, May 27, will be on iris analysis. Both classes will be held at the clinic, located on Route 219 near Humberson Log Homes, and will begin at 7:30.

A special group of healers from Baltimore will be at the clinic on May 24, with an introductory lecture and explanation of the healing process beginning at 10 a.m. The session is free and open to the public.

According to Robinson, the healers particularly deal with emotional blockages and help to release them. There is no charge for the healing. Robinson said, "God does the healing, we're just His channels."

Appointments for private sessions with the healers may be made by calling the clinic at 334-9008.

Aims Of Mailbox Improvement Week Are Explained

The U.S. Postal Service has designated May 19-24 as "Mailbox Improvement Week."

"Each year a week in May is set aside to remind customers on rural, city motorized and contract delivery routes to examine and improve, where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes," Division General Manager James A. McDougald said.

"The purpose is to call attention to the need to provide mail receptacles that are conveniently located, safe to use, neat in appearance and are designed to protect the mail from the weather," McDougald continued.

The Postal Service points out, however, that Mailbox Improvement Week means more than eye appeal.

"Say that an old, dented box has sharp, cutting edges or that the receptacle is too small, too hard to reach or made inaccessible by obstructions," comments McDougald. "In such cases the mail would be stamped undeliverable and the customer would have to come to the post office to pick it up. We need the cooperation of our customers to maintain service at its highest level."

Postal regulations require that rural and contract route carriers must have access to mailboxes without having to leave their vehicles. Such boxes must be located on the right-hand side of the road in the carrier's direction of travel where traffic conditions would endanger a carrier driving to the left to reach the boxes. The boxes also must be placed to conform with state laws and highway regulations.

Customers are requested to remove obstructions—including vehicles, trash cans, and snow—that make delivery difficult.

For both suburban curbline and rural roadsides boxes, the Postal Service requests a height of 3½ to 4 feet from the bottom of the box to ground level. The address should be clearly printed on the receptacle to assure more efficient delivery.

There are approved traditional and contemporary mailbox designs. A customer-designed rural box needs the prior approval of the postmaster before it can be installed.

One last safety caution from the Postal Service: Some mailboxes supports are so massive (heavy metal posts, concrete, farm equipment filled with concrete), they are damaging vehicles and causing serious injuries to people who accidently strike them. The Federal Highway Administration has suggested mailbox mounting and support designs that post offices will share with their customers.

IF YOUR HOME IS SPECIAL

You have often heard that it makes sense to buy or build a home whose price fits the neighborhood profile. That's nice for everybody in that neighborhood except the one who has the most expensive home. The house may be well worth the extra cost—perhaps the view is exceptional or the construction unique or the amenities (grounds, pool, decorating, etc.) superb. How does this seller receive full value for such a home?

Have an experienced agent draw up a complete listing of your home's features and amenities. With a probable-buyer profile, ads can be targeted directly to those most interested. If the potential buying group is small, the agent may find it necessary to widen his or her normal advertising range. If appropriate, the brochure can be designed with copies sent to names on a select mailing list.

If your home is fairly priced according to the features offered and you hire the right agency, you should receive the full value you expect.

"WHAT A RIDE, WE MADE IT!" — Care for the horses goes on even after the race is over. Caroline (left) and Alison Geroski, of Table Rock, are shown sponging their horses down in Spruce Glade Lake in Canaan Valley after they had completed 25 miles in approximately four hours and 15 minutes in the Canaan Competitive Ride held last Saturday near Davis, W.Va. Also completing the ride in good time was Cinda King of Deer Park. The goal of all the riders is just to finish with a healthy horse, and when that is done, there is a great deal of pride in the accomplishment.

Three Garrett Co. Riders Complete Canaan 25-Mile Competitive Race

Just to complete the Canaan 25-mile competitive ride was the goal of the 45 riders who started early Saturday morning at Timberline near Davis, W.Va. All 45 of those riders met their goal, and came across the finish line within the allotted time of four to four-and-one-half hours. This included three Garrett County riders who not only finished but placed high in their classes.

Caroline Geroski and her horse, Nijems Sheik, received a ribbon for fifth place in the junior division, while her mother, Alison Geroski, on Westchester, placed 12th in the medium-weight division.

Although this was the first competitive race for all the Garrett County riders, perhaps the least experienced rider of the three was Cinda King, who had an impressive eighth-place finish in the medium-weight division on her horse, Annies Lucky Lady.

Cinda, Alison and Caroline each received a grooming brush with a silver plate attached stating the date, event, and their name and placing as an award for successfully completing the 25-mile race.

Each horse was given a pre-race vet check by one of four veterinarians and a pulse and respiration (P&R) team. This pre-race check was used to compare the condition of the horse after the race when the final vet check was taken. In addition to checking pulse, respiration, muscle tone and dehydration, the horses were checked for swelling or sores in the tack area, stress or injury to the legs, lameness, and muscle fatigue.

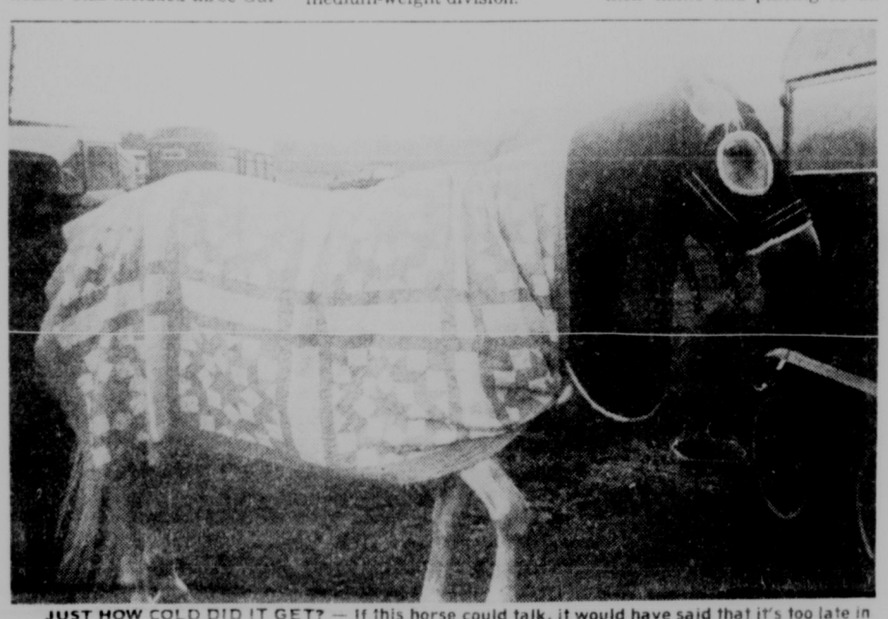
Serving as one of the veterinarians for the race was Dr. Rick Jenkins of Pineview Veterinary Hospital in Oakland. P&R team members from this area were Cissy VanSickle, Lynn Quick, and Robin Leyda.

Although the temperature Friday night was frigid for those who were camping and the horses, Saturday's weather was ideal for the race. The cool temperature and warm sunshine were exhilarating for both horses and riders, and the Canaan Valley scenery made the race a memorable event for all the competing riders.



JUST HOW COLD DID IT GET? — If this horse could talk, it would have said that it's too late in the year for the 30-degree temperatures which hit Canaan Valley Friday night. This horse traveled to Canaan Valley for the 25-mile competitive race last weekend from a much warmer area and the mountain temperatures made his teeth chatter and his muscles tighten. Early Saturday morning, when the picture was taken, there was a film of ice on the horse trailers and vehicles and a skim of ice in the water buckets. During the night, the horse's owner added a hood to the blanket already on the horse, but before morning, the quilt was added on top of everything else to make him more comfortable until the start of the race.

Earnings Are Down For Farm Credit

The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the major agricultural lender in the Middle Atlantic area, reported first-quarter earnings of $7,530,000. This total is down 33 percent from their $10,030,000 of net income in the first three months of 1985.

Genetic Testing Halted By Activist Group

The Foundation on Economic Trends filed suit in U.S. District Court in late April to stop the U.S. Department of Agriculture from allowing Biologics Corp., of Omaha, Neb., to manufacture a pseudorabies vaccine for swine which contains a live form of the pseudorabies virus with part of the genetic code altered.

The foundation's president, Jeremy Rifkin, is an outspoken opponent of genetic engineering who is battling agriculture on two fronts, the swine vaccine and a new pesticide.

The USDA had approved the suspension of a license for Biologics Corp. for two weeks to allow for additional testing. That decision came after complaints from the Rifkin group and others.

"It is important that we continue our record of safety in the approval of genetically engineered products and that we follow all required procedures, including the technical requirements of the national Environmental Policy Act," said Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, explaining the temporary suspension.

"To help us assure that all these steps are taken, the vaccine manufacturer has agreed with us to suspend the license and sale of this product for two weeks from April 9 through April 22 while APHIS formalized the documentation that was required."

The vaccine was approved again April 22, and Rifkin filed suit two days later. The foundation was joined in the suit by Michael W. Fox, scientific director of the Humane Society, according to an Associated Press report.

Rifkin also blasted an Environmental Protection Agency advisory group which recommended giving Monsanto Company permission to field test a genetically-engineered pesticide on a St. Charles, Mo., field.

The subcommittee of the EPA's Scientific advisory panel encouraged the EPA to require Monsanto to repeat certain preliminary tests that the agency considered flawed, and noted that the field tests should require certain restrictions.

Monsanto is seeking permission to test Pseudomonas fluorescens, a bacterium, which is injected with a gene from another bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis. The process is expected to be used for a toxin to fight root cutworms, and would be applied to corn seeds before planting.

The champion cow, consigned by Cracklin' Farm of Laytonsville, was sold to Whip 'O Will Farm of Mocksville, N.C., for $1,250.

Allegany County Buys Cumberland Fairgrounds

An agreement has been reached by the Allegany County commissioners for the purchase of the Cumberland fairgrounds at a price of $425,000.

On Friday, nalf that price was paid to the Cumberland Fair Association for the 97.5-acre tract. According to the agreement, the balance will be paid by August 2.

About 80 percent of the funds for the land will come from Allegany County's share of the Maryland Program Open Space allocation.

Free Black-Eyed Susan Seeds Offered By SCS

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service is offering free seed packets of the Black-eyed Susan, "Golden Jubilee," again this year. Last year's distribution program was designed to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the soil and water conservation movement. The program was such a success that the decision was made to offer the seed packets once again.

Like last year, several conservation organizations have teamed up to sponsor this distribution of the black-eyed Susan flower. Those organizations are: the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts, the Maryland Old Line and Pocomoke Chapters of the Soil Conservation Society of America, the District of Columbia Soil and Water Conservation District, the Southern Maryland Resource Conservation and Development Area, and the Greenfingers Garden Club.

The flower was specially developed by the SCS plant materials center to grow where soil erosion is a hazard. The packets are available free on a first come, first serve basis and can be picked up at the Garrett Soil Conservation District or Soil Conservation Service office at the Garrett County Courthouse, Room 355.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Soil Testing, A Useful Tool For Both Farmers And Urban Dwellers

Extension soils specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park, V. Allan Bandel, says, "Whether you're a farmer tilling the fields or a homeowner with a lawn to mow, regular soil testing can pay dividends. The payoff comes in lower fertilizer bills, more profitable crop production and more beautiful lawns and gardens."

Dr. Bandel points out that soil tests are like a bankbook. They alert you to low soil fertility levels which must be corrected to obtain maximum economic yield. Soil tests also help determine those high-fertility soils on which fertilizer rates can be reduced without adversely affecting crop yields.

In other words, soil testing enables both farmers and homeowners to utilize plant nutrients efficiently. Many farmers whose soil test levels are in the high range could cut back profitably on the amount of phosphorus and potash being applied.

Soil testing also is important for farmers using manure on their fields. It permits them to apply the exact amounts of commercial fertilizer needed to supplement the type of manure being applied.

Farmers should set realistic goals based on their own average yields, Bandel said, and then fertilize for those goals. Knowing how to produce a really high yield may not be profitable. But knowledge is essential in being able to produce a maximum economic yield.

"If you're planning to submit samples to the University of Maryland soil testing laboratory at College Park," Bandel advises, "your first step is to obtain a free soil testing package from any office of the university's Cooperative Extension Service. The package contains sampling instructions, an information form, and a shipping container. There is a $4 charge for each sample sent to the soil testing laboratory.

Farmers submitting several soil samples from one large field need not fill out an information form for every sample. Several samples can be described on one sheet. Just make sure that the inclusive sample numbers are listed.

The Extension Service in Maryland also offers a manure analysis program to farmers for $12. This analysis provides a read-out on the plant nutrient content, nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, in manure that is destined for application to cropland.

Ever since the first county agricultural agents were appointed in 1911, Maryland residents have had opportunity for soil testing service from the University of Maryland at College Park. During most of that time the soil testing laboratory has operated as an educational tool of the university's Cooperative Extension Service. Testing was free until 1982, when a $4 charge per sample was initiated.

Now, because of potential cutbacks in federal government funding, an attempt is being made to put soil testing on a self-supporting basis. This will require increased usage by the public. "If the necessary public support is not generated, a venerable educational tool may be lost," Dr. Bandel declared.

For more information, contact the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

USDA Must Rewrite Dairy Buyout Regs

A federal judge in Lubbock, Texas, has ordered the U.S. Department of Agriculture to rewrite the regulations for the dairy termination program, but the program will be able to continue in its present form until June 1.

The ruling by Judge Halbert Woodward was in response to a suit by the National Cattlemen's Association, which was seeking a more orderly marketing program for cows slaughtered as a result of the program, which is designed to cut milk production.

Beef prices dropped drastically the day the USDA announced acceptance of bids for the dairy termination plan, despite the fact that the USDA also announced that it will purchase more meat in the coming months than the slaughter is expected to produce.

Because of that the NCA has also asked the Commodity Futures Trading Commission to investigate possible market manipulation and extreme changes in the market. The NCA noted in a recent press release that "there is concern that traders have pushed the market beyond reasonable expectation" in the recent downward trend.

Judge Woodward made his decision April 30 after receiving final briefs from the USDA and NCA two days earlier. According to a law clerk in the judge's office, the ruling says the USDA must "take steps to minimize the adverse effect on red meat."

Meanwhile, a federal judge in Rochester, N.Y. ruled that the forced hot-iron branding of dairy cattle slated for slaughter was illegal, pending a trial. After the ruling, the USDA agreed to allow farmers the option of chemically freeze-branding cattle.

Dairy Herd Buyout Creates Income Tax Hassles

There has been much discussion about the income tax consequence of selling an entire herd under the dairy buyout program and the resulting income payments from the U.S. Government.

Unless the U.S. Treasuary Department, under which IRS operates, grants special exceptions, the current rules will govern. Most dairymen are familiar with some of the rules because they have been selling some cows and other dairy animals each year.

George Stevens, dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, tells those not familiar with the rules and procedure to seek competent tax assistance. He says the procedure can be very complex. The basic tax forms used are Form 4797 and Schedule D.

In general, the disposition of a herd will result in capital gain income or loss and ordinary income of loss. The payments received as a result of a bid amount will be ordinary income (same as sale of milk). The capital gain income or loss and the ordinary gain or loss can be determined only after the completion of Form 4797 and Schedule D.

Stevens tells farmers with a net long-term gain (line 20, Schedule D) that only 40 percent of the gain is subject to income tax. However, he says, the excluded 60 percent is a tax preference item and may be subject to an alternative minimum tax. "If line 22, Schedule D is more than zero, you must file Form 6251 to determine whether or not you are liable for the alternative minimum tax," says Stevens.

Two references Stevens feel could be useful to farmers are: "Farmer's Tax Guide" (available at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office) and "Sales and Other Disposition of Assets," IRS publication No. 544 (available from IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 25866, Richmond, Va. 23260).

Rollovers account for approximately one out of every two tractor fatalities.

Majeskie Cites Importance Of Md. Dairy Industry

Dr. J. Lee Majeskie, extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, was the guest speaker during a recent meeting of the Maryland Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation (MDHIC) at the Kent Island Yacht Club in Chester.

In his talk, Majeskie pointed out the importance of the dairy industry in Maryland and noted that dairying and poultry account for about 50 percent of agriculture in the state. In 1985, he said, there was an increase in the public consumption of dairy products. At the same time, thanks to continued depressed grain prices, he added, cattle feed was comparatively cheaper.

In 1985, there was the greatest increase in milk production since the program began among the 650 herds in the MDHIC. Majeskie attributes the increase to several factors: better use of DHI record keeping, better herd management, aggressive culling of the least productive cows and better management practices in general.

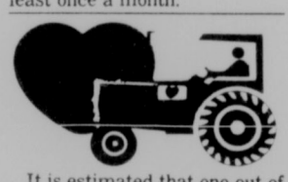
"Also," Majeskie said, "during the past 12 months there has been an increase in herds on the somatic cell count (SCC) program. However, this is one area where considerable improvement can still be made. There was no change in the percentage of cows in the low SCC group.

"Excellent educational programs have been available to help dairymen become more aware of how to use and understand the SCC information. All dairy producers in the DHI system should be encouraged in the SCC program. A dairyman should not be willing to bring new bulk tank cows into the herd unless there is SCC information on those individual cows. The average bulk tank reading might be low at the milk plant; however, it does not inform the buyer about that individual cow which might be entering your herd.

Majeskie said that a continued effort will be made to encourage more herds to enroll in the SCC program, as this information can then be used to increase the milk quality produced by the Maryland dairy herds. He told the group that the influence of superior genetics available through all artificial insemination programs are being seen. "Dairymen are taking advantage of young sire programs as well as using high-production bulls," he said.

Majeskie said that in his opinion, dairy farmers may have to tighten their belts a bit in the next year or so, but by 1988 there should be a significant upturn in the farm economy.

Another important element in the improved dairy picture is the operation of the Mid-West Milk Lab in Hagerstown. In existence for about 18 months, the lab is headed by Bob Hope and analyzes more than 51,000 milk samples per day for fat and protein, from cows as well as from dairy goats. To be eligible for the MDHIC, a dairyman's cows must be sampled at least once a month.



It is estimated that one out of four tractors is currently equipped with rollover protective structures.

SALUTE TO LOCAL DAIRY FARMERS WEEK — To show their support to the dairy industry in Garrett County, the Garrett County Commissioners have proclaimed June 1-7 to be a Salute To Local Dairy Farmers Week. Present for the proclamation, and serving milk and cookies to the commissioners, were (standing) Sheila Bender, Maryland State Dairy Princess, and her nephew, Shawn Bender. Commissioners (seated left to right) Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey stated that because the dairy industry is one of the leading industries in the county; and because dairy products, with their high calcium content, are an important part of the daily diet; and because milk is not only good for you but tastes great too; urge all citizens to support area dairy farmers. June is National Dairy Month, and as state dairy princess, Sheila will be working along with The Republican to promote the dairy industry in the area. Farmers or farm businesses who would like to show their support and salute the dairy industry during June should contact Sheila at 826-8340, or Bernice Kepple at 334-3963.

SCS Helps Students Learn About Soil

A new tool for teaching students about soils is now available from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The tool, a colorful overhead transparency depicting a soil profile, has an information and activity sheet attached. According to Jim Schlossnagle, SCS district conservationist, the suggested activities are varied enough to be used indoors or outdoors, for grades K through 12.

"Most people don't think about the soil beneath their feet or its impact on our lives," Schlossnagle says. "This soil profile transparency helps illustrate the fact that the topsoil layer that supports crops, trees and other plants is actually very thin. Since it takes anywhere from 100 to 600 years to form one inch of topsoil, it is important that we conserve and protect what we have."

On the average, there is only about six inches of topsoil over most of the state. In some areas, the topsoil layer has eroded away completely.

"Teaching young people to conserve and respect our natural resources will help assure that future generations will be able to produce the food and fiber they'll need," Schlossnagle said.

For a free copy of the soil profile transparency, contact the SCS or Soil Conservation district office at Room 355 of the Garrett County Courthouse in Oakland.

USDA Establishes Nat. Agricultural Statistics Service

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today changed the name of its Statistical Reporting Service to the National Agricultural Statistics Service, which is associated with the Maryland Crop Reporting Service, according to M. Bruce West, state statistician. The new name more accurately reflects the purpose of the agency and its broad agricultural focus.

West also said that the agency's crop reporting board is now called the Agricultural Statistics Board to closely align with the agency name and to better describe the scope of the board's output. Each year the board issues over 300 national reports covering roughly 120 crops and 45 livestock and poultry items, as well as related topics such as farm labor and land in farms.

"Reports released by the Agricultural Statistics Board," West noted, "reflect activity at the state level and are developed from information provided by the Maryland Crop Reporting Service and 43 other state statistical offices, which use varying names in their data collection and reporting work.

"We will be working with the Maryland Department of Agriculture to move toward a name change for our office that's closely tied to the national agency's new title so that data users can quidkly identify activities here in Maryland with those at the national level."

West said that the renaming of the Statistical Reporting Service and its Crop Reporting Board coincides with an internal restructuring designed to take full advantage of the increasingly sophisticated survey techniques and data processing capabilities that have been adopted over the past two decades.

"The agency has operated under the same basic framework since 1967, and it became apparent that a realignment was needed to effectively administer the increasingly complex technologies used in collecting, analyzing, and disseminating agricultural statistics," West said. He added that the new structure becomes effective on October 1.

The reorganization arrays the diverse but related functions of the agency under two deputy administrators. A deputy administrator for programs will oversee all program-related activities dealing with content, specifications, standards, data analysis, information resources, and preparation of final forecasts and estimates.

"With this position, the agency expects to have a more concentrated focus on program content and a heightened emphasis on data management to ensure timely and accurate forecasts," West noted. The program deputy will also chair the Agricultural Statistics Board.

The deputy administrator for operations will be responsible for cooperative federal-state programs in Maryland and the agency's other field offices. The same person will oversee survey design and data collection activities, and statistical research and development functions. West said that the combination of field operations and research activities should allow a more effective transfer of research results to ongoing data collection programs.

Angus Association Holds 50th Md. Sale

The Frederick Fairgrounds was the site of Maryland's All-American Spring Angus Sale in April, and was the 50th consecutive spring Angus sale sponsored by the Maryland Angus Association. Maryland has one of the oldest Angus associations in continuous operation in the United States and buyers came from as far as Kentucky.

The sale grossed $34,375 to average $860 on 40 lots. Thirty-eight females and two bulls were sold. The high selling female was a cow-calf combination consigned by Susan Holston of Derwood. She brought $2,750 on a bid from Back Acres Angus of Mt. Airy.

Second high selling animal was also a cow, which was consigned by Riegele Farms of Hartly, Delaware. She sold with a heifer calf for $1,275 to Vernon Sealover of Dillsburg, Pa.

The top selling bull was a four-year-old, consigned by Riegele Farms. He sold on order to Ned Dykes of Princess Anne for $1,225. The other bull was a consignment from Penn State University and he sold for $1,100 to Pholomath Farm of Woodbine.

Spring Simmental Sale Prices Down

The Maryland Simmental Association held its 12th annual spring sale last month at the Frederick Fairgrounds. Seventy two lots of purebred Simmental cattle were sold with an average of $700 per head.

The prices were below normal, said chairperson Donna Gosnell, but not too disappointing considering the current state of the market. She commented that attendance was high at the sale and that several new buyers participated.

The top cow/calf pair, consigned by R & H Simmentals, brought $1,400; the top bred heifer, consigned by Clyde Grossnickle, brought $1,350; and the top bull, consigned by WiltMont Choice Farms, brought $1,100.

Easy Jet's Foals Top $20 Million

Easy Jet, the all-time leading sire of running Quarter Horses, has become the first stallion to sire earners of more than $20 million.

From races processed by the American Quarter Horse Association through April 18, Easy Jet's foals have earned $20,005,443. His 16 foal crops have yielded 1,431 race starters, including eight champions and 120 winners of stakes races.

The 19-year-old sorrel stallion was bred and raced by Walter Merrick of Sayre, Oklahoma, where he is currently standing. Quite a race horse himself, the stallion won 27 races, including the All-American Futurity, earning $445,721, and was named World Champion Quarter Running Horse in 1969.

Cutworms On Corn

If you have experienced cutworm problems in the past, you should plan to start scouting your corn fields as soon as the corn starts coming through the ground. Leaf feeding is the first sign that cutworms are present. Look for small irregular holes in leaves and cut plants. Note any leaf feeding that may be due to cutworms too small to cut plants and check these areas again in 24-48 hours. Preplant or at-planting treatments are not recommended except in high risk fields. As a general guideline, treatment should be applied if 10% or more of the young plants show fresh leaf feeding and cutworms are present. You may have to turn over clods of soil or dig down next to the corn plant to find the cutworm during daylight hours. Ambush, Pounce, Pydrin, Pay-Off, Lorsban, and Sevin bait are labeled for cutworm control after the problem has been detected. Ambush, Pounce and Pydrin are labeled at 0.1 to 0.2 pounds of active ingredient per acre, Pay-Off at 0.04 to 0.08; Lorsban at 1 to 1.5; and Sevin Bait at 1 to 2.

Alfalfa Weevil

Larva populations are low here in the County. Early harvest may be the best management strategy this season. However, if you have a field that has a high population and more than 50% of the plants showing damage with harvesting more than one week away, you should spray.

Corn Flea Beetle

Watch for Corn Flea Beetles on newly emerged corn. These insects are tiny (pin-head size), brown to black beetles with enlarged and thickened hind legs used for jumping. They strip the green top layer of tissue from the leaf, resulting in irregular brown lines, or "tracks." Heavily infested plants appear silvery or whitish in color, and leaves may shrivel and die. Experience has shown that field corn is seldom seriously threatened unless flea beetle populations exceed 8-10 per plant, and at least 50% of the plants appear silvery from feeding damage. Treatment is rarely needed after plants reach 6" in height.

Beef Breeding Season Basics

An awful lot of cows that have spring calves are bred in the months of May, June and early July. Cows should be immunized when open for IBR, P13, BVD, Lepto, and Vibriosis. Sound bulls need to be turned into the pasture for natural service at the start of the breeding season. Make sure their feet are in good shape and that they have been checked for other unsoundnesses and semen production. Make sure you impose a definite short breeding season that ought to be 45 to 60 days on virgin heifers and 60 to 80 or 90 days on mature cows. Don't expect yearling bulls to settle more than 20 cows. On two year old and older bulls, expect them to breed 30 to 40 cows. Put the date on the calendar when the breeding season should end and be sure to put bulls in the bull lot at that time. Strung-out calving seasons make management problems in the future. Plan now to pregnancy check cows anytime after 60 days after the breeding season ends.

Crop Planting On Schedule In State

Across Maryland corn planting was well underway by the end of last week with 50 percent of the crop planted by May 4, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Last year at this time 68 percent of the crop had been planted while the average over the past five years shows 41 percent normally planted. Sweet corn was 33 percent planted by May 4 compared to 56 percent a year ago and 47 percent over the past five years.

Seventy-eight percent of acreage had been prepared for planting of spring crops on May 4, compared to 90 percent a year ago. Spring oats were 89 percent seeded last week. A year ago, 95 percent of spring oats had been planted as of May 4 while the average over the past five years is 84 percent seeded. The condition of small grains was good throughout the state as of May 4. Some farmers began to cut hay last week. Light to moderate cases of alfalfa weevil were reported in various parts of the state.

Temperatures for the weeks ending May 2 averaged five to eight degrees above normal, with precipitation averaging 0.04 inches, ranging from zero to 0.03 inch.

According to the national weather service's 90-day weather outlook, temperatures for Maryland for May through July will be above normal and precipitation will be below normal.

Potomac Council Holds Annual Spring Camporee

Over 350 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and Leaders participated in the Potomac Council Spring Camporee on Big Savage Mountain this past weekend. The theme was "minimum impact camping."

The event began Friday evening for the Boy Scouts with an overnight stay near the High Rock Fire Tower. Saturday morning, the boys were required to carry everything they would need for a six-mile hike and Saturday evening/Sunday morning overnight camp.

The hike took the Scouts from the fire tower to below the Savage River Dam, where a special program of minimum impact camping was provided by experts in such areas as camping, backpacking, cooking and health & safety.

Jim Williams, event chairman, stated that 18 troops from Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral, Hampshire and Hardy counties in West Virginia participated.

Devotions closed with the hymn "With God As Our Friend."

The business meeting was opened by Mrs. Nellie Yommer. A love offering was received to be sent to the Triennial Convention to be held July 30-August 3 in Chicago.

Lucretia Stanton, Ethel Hetrick and Leota Baker represented Zion's LCW at the recent Spring District Assembly held at Grace Lutheran Church, Fairmont, W.Va. The highlights were reported to the local group.

The meeting adjourned with the missionary benediction and the singing of a hymn. The next meeting will be held on June 4. Love offerings for the synodical convention should be submitted by that time.

TEACHER'S APPRECIATION WEEK was held May 5 through 9 at Friendsville Elementary School. The week began by decorating a bulletin board, table and the faculty lounge. Mr. Gaither's art students designed booklets, which were presented to the teachers on Tuesday morning. Throughout the week various projects were planned for the teachers and staff, ending the week with a special luncheon and gifts. Members of the Parent Volunteer Teacher Appreciation Committee, left to right, were: Vonda Peck; Karen Meyers; Connie House; Sharon Hoover, chairperson; Judy Livengood, Frani King, and Phyllis Kahl. Not pictured were Donna Grove and Nancy Thomas.

STAMP COLLECTING AS A HOBBY — A talk on stamp collecting was given at the Kitzmiller Elementary School on May 6 by Katherine Schenk, postmaster at the Kitzmiller Post Office. The talk was given to the fourth and fifth grade students of Miss Judith Burrell and her assistant Mrs. Leona Brantner. The postmaster gave four stamp kits as prizes to the class. The winners were: David Burrell, 30 Stamps-30 Countries; Erika Altman, Costumes Through The Ages; Amy Schrier, Sports Around The World; and Terry Lewis, Outer Space. Ms. Schenk told the students that stamp collecting is the most popular hobby in the world and in the United States alone about 22 million people are stamp collectors. Information on the Benjamin Franklin Stamp Club and a booklet entitled "Introduction to Stamp Collecting" was given out to each student.

NEW BROAD FORD PTA OFFICERS — New officers were recently elected for the 1986-87 term by the Broad Ford PTA. SCHOOL BUS CONVENTION — Garrett County school bus contractors recently attended an annual convention in Columbia with contractors from the other 22 counties and Baltimore City in Maryland. They own 2,600 of the 4,600 school buses in Maryland. The contractors voted again to stand united against seat belts in school buses as the results of the two crash tests held nationally this year proved a student's head is more likely to be injured if the body is lap-belted in the bus during an accident. A spokesman at the convention said, "School buses remain the safest form of transportation in the United States with the egg carton (padded seats) concept of safety incorporated inside every school bus. With a new law which recently passed, all vehicles must now stop 20 feet from a stopped school bus, instead of the 10 feet previously required." Pictured above, left to right, are Wanda and George Wassell, Garrett County School bus contractors, and J.B. Edwards, immediate past president of the state organization.

Baker Files Candidacy For Attorney General

Russell "Tim" Baker has filed his certificate of candidacy for the office of Attorney General of Maryland, becoming the first candidate for that office to do so.

Baker first gained recognition as an Assistant U.S. Attorney for Maryland involved in prosecuting corrupt public officials. In 1973, he was one of the federal prosecutors who investigated and convicted former Vice President Spiro Agnew and others. After a brief period in private practice, Baker returned to public life in 1977 as a Deputy Assistant Attorney General of the United States. In that capacity, he supervised the national Organized Crime and Racketeering program of the U.S. Department of Justice and the 14 Organized Crime Strike Forces across the United States. In 1978, he was appointed United States Attorney General for Maryland, the chief federal prosecutor for the State, and he held that post until he resigned in 1981.

Baker was graduated from Williams College in 1964. He then served two years as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Ethiopia. He was graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1969 where he serves on the Harvard Law Review. After law school, he spent one year as a law clerk for Chief Judge Winter on the U.S. Court of Appeals and then he served as a law clerk in the Supreme Court of the United States where he was assigned to Chief Justice Burger.

Baker, who was born and raised in Maryland, lives in Howard County with his wife, Betsy, and their three children. He is a partner with the Baltimore law firm of Piper & Marbury.

A special meeting of the Aurora PTO on April 29 was held prior to a public meeting with candidates for the Board of Education. At the meeting, it was learned that funding for the purchase of 20 pairs skis for the cross country skiing program will be made available through the school and that the program will take place during school hours with children being alerted as to when they will participate so that appropriate clothing may be worn. At the Board of Education candidate appearance, all were present, including: Marion Mace, Robert Gidley, Kenneth Sypolt, William Larew Jr., Charles Felton and Cathy Ruppenthal. Each spoke of his or her reasons for running and qualifications, then proceeded to answer questions from the audience.

Word was received this week of the death of Carolyn Unger Webster of Winston-Salem, N.C., who died in a hospital there on May 6. Mrs. Webster was the wife of W.D. "Doug" Webster Sr. and she and her former husband, John Unger, had been residents of Aurora. She has three children and one step-son surviving. Funeral services were held Friday, May 9, at the Davis-Weaver Funeral Home in Clarksburg, with burial in the Shinnston Masonic Cemetery.

Mrs. Bessie Heckert of Eglon was notified Sunday morning, May 11, of the death of her brother, Webster Bolyard, Rowlesburg, in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

On May 18 at 6:00 p.m. there will be a demonstration of a carillon at the Stemple Ridge Church. A Mr. McHugh of Uniontown, Pa. will be making the presentation and will be providing information as to types and costs. Anyone interested is invited to attend. The church is anticipating purchase of some type of bell system in the future.

In observance of National Extension Homemakers Week, the Eglon Extension Homemakers met at the Eglon Memorial Building on May 6 and went to Silver Lake for a luncheon together. They returned to the Memorial Building shortly after 1 p.m. to hold their regular meeting of the month with Lorraine Fike teaching the topic, Creative Problem Solving.

Upon call for nominees for office, it was voted to retain the present officers: Linda Lewis, president; Cynthia Wilt, vice president; Ruth Teets, secretary; Avenell Parsons, treasurer; Rebecca Teets, historian; and Jean Winters, reporter. There was a decision to select the club's own committees rather than to participate only in county-named ones. A donation to the Aurora VFD truck fund will be made in memory of Marguerite Shaffer; also a book will be selected in her memory at the Ruth Enlow Library.

Cynthia Wilt closed the meeting by using devotions which had Mother's Day as their theme. Those attending the luncheon and/or meeting were Linda Lewis and Sara, Ruth Teets, Jean Winters, Brenda Hartsell and Allen, Rose Ina Harsh, Florence Minnig, Nina Layman, Mildred Wilt, Barbara Heckert, Rebecca Teets, Lorraine Fike, Ruth Parks, Lillian Knotts and Lectie Bonner.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Starr of Stemple Ridge visited in Ohio with their children and their families during the Mother's Day weekend.

Ellis and Marie Teets of Eglon, visited May 1-6 in Virginia with their daughters and families, the Don Shepherds at Salem and the Merlin Reishes at Harrisonburg.

Members of Maple Spring Church had a Spring Fling party Friday evening at the Church. Singing, games and a skit were the order of the evening and participation in these were followed by refreshments of finger foods.

Mrs. Owen (Flemmie) Stultz visited Wednesday with former neighbors in Eglon. Her husband was attending a church business meeting at Deep Creek Lake and she accompanied him to the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Fike of Eglon were weekend visitors in Virginia where they visited with members of their families and on Sunday the Texiere children, their spouses and their mother, Mrs. Mattie Texiere of Bridgewater, enjoyed a dinner together in Harrisonburg.

Indicators Show Record Year For Maryland Tourism

Several indicators used to calculate the future economic impact of tourism in Maryland, show "a decided increase in the number of travelers coming to the State."

Kurt Alverson, State Tourism Director, said, "The first positive indication that 1986 will far surpass our earlier estimate for a record tourism year are statistics gathered at our eight visitor information centers, and the number of requests for tourist information.

"During the first four months of 1986, the number of travelers stopping at the visitor centers increased by 26 percent above the same period of 1985. For the month of April, this year, there was a 44 percent increase over one year ago.

"Also pointing to a better-than-forecasted year is the number of written requests received for our tourist information brochures. During the first four months of 1986, we filled approximately 67,000 written requests compared to 63,000 received during the same months last year. We also responded to nearly 26,000 telephone requests from January through April 1986, compared to slightly over 9,000 during the first four months last year," Alverson continued Overall requests are up 27%.

Calling the tourism increase in Maryland "a growing trend," the tourism director attributes the growth to a better economy, lower gasoline prices and to an extent, the "terrorists threats" to overseas travel.

"For the last five years," Alverson said, "Maryland tourism has been increasing an average of 10.5 percent each year. I am predicting a 17 percent increase in travel expenditures for 1985 over 1984."

Alverson said that factors leading to this increase are due to an expanded advertising campaign that includes print, advertising in major magazines and now paid television commercials for the first time. He added that greater emphasis is given to public relations, that is, attracting more travel writers to come and see the State's attractions; and offering greater service to bus group operators and tour operators.

We've changed our name . . . our yard post signs and our colors . . . but we still give that same friendly service you've been accustomed to for years from HAYWOOD AGENCY, INC. You see . . . we have come to realize that it is better to be "PERSONALIZED" . . . and not "FRANCHISED". This is what we have discovered after working with so many Property Owners in our marketing area. Our yard signs are no longer yellow and brown on a yellow post. Today they feature the symbolic colors of RED, WHITE & BLUE SIGNS on a WHITE YARD POST. So please, look for our new signs all over Garrett County . . . and don't be surprised to see so many of the same signs all over Allegany and Mineral Counties as well. (We have over 200 properties for sale with yard post signs on them). Burt Lancaster (l.) stars as Army Lt. Colonel Arthur "Bull" Simons and Richard Crenna portrays billionaire H. Ross Perot in "On Wings of Eagles," a five-hour miniseries based on the real-life raid that freed two American businessmen imprisoned in Iran during the 1979 revolution. The miniseries airs Sunday, May 18 and Monday, May 19 on NBC.

Ancient search leads Wood to TV success

By Frank Lovece

It's all Greek to him. And Turkish. And, of course, Trojan. For as the BBC journalist and historian Michael Wood picks his way through the ancient rubble of ancient lands, he is not only in search of historical Troy, but also — as the title of his six-part PBS series attests — "In Search of the Trojan War."

Michael Wood

So? Did the war really happen? "Oh, yes," Wood answers readily, his Manchester accent soft, "it did, as far as we know." And Wood would. As the host and producer of "Trojan War" and the previous "In Search of the Dark Ages," the BBC veteran has studied Troy on and off for 20 of his 37 years.

"I was trained as an academic historian," explains the lanky Oxford graduate, "but after three years something told me I didn't want to spend my life as that. I eventually became a journalist on Beeb Two (the BBC's channel 2), so by now I've learned to investigate things from both an academic and a journalistic perspective. You learn to check," he asserts, "even those archaeologists everyone believes."

While "Trojan War" nonetheless offers no earth-shaking new insights, Wood feels the series synthesizes the major known facts and accepted theories entertainingly. "Television, even documentary television, should enthuse people," he says, "or else it's nothing." Wood has been criticized, however, by British journalists who feel that teenage girls seem to be the most enthused portion of his audience; Wood has, in fact, become something of a pin-up boy back home.

"Yes, that's kind of funny, isn't it?" he asks, grinning. "I certainly wasn't planning on school girls rushing out to buy Homer because of me. But it does show people are watching."

Since the unmarried Wood claims to spend his spare time playing guitar in small-scale rock bands, he seems to be entitled to a teenage fan or two. And as Wood proceeds to take his blue-jeaned self from Rhytion to "the topless towers of Ilium," he may be turning some of them into "rock" fans of a most literal sort.

John Schneider takes a 'Stagecoach' ride

By Marc Minnelli

Most actors would have sold their souls to have worked — even doing the tiniest role — in "Stagecoach," the small-screen remake of John Ford's classic 1939 western. And with good reason. The film, which airs Sunday, May 18 on CBS, boasts a stellar cast: Kris Kristofferson, Johnny Cash, Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Elizabeth Ashley, Anthony Newley and Mary Crosby.

John Schneider

But John Schneider didn't accept the role of burly stagecoach driver Buck just to work with such favorite, famous country crooners. "I get to spit, chew tobacco and drool," says Schneider, best known for his role of good ole boy Bo Duke in the long-running (1979-85) CBS rural sitcom "The Dukes of Hazzard."

The 32-year-old actor may laugh when he drawls on the word "drool," but he's serious.

"'Stagecoach' was a neat experience because it was the first time I was ever offered a role as a character actor," says the actor, who grew a scraggy beard for the role. "Many people think of me as someone with a clean-cut, all-American image, and I guess that comes from all those years as Bo. So 'Stagecoach' was a test. I wanted to prove I could really act."

According to the actor, he received his biggest compliment from CBS, which told the actor "that nowhere during 'Stagecoach' was John Schneider noticeable."

The actor smiles. "That," he says simply, "was great to hear."

Fans will be hearing more of Schneider now that his third MCA album, "A Memory Like You," has been released. His previous albums spawned several hits — "I've Been Around Enough to Know," "Country Girls," "It's a Short Walk from Heaven to Hell" — and "What's a Memory Like You (Doing in a Love Like This"); his latest single, is zooming up the country charts.

"For a long time, people thought my singing was just a hobby," Schneider says. "But singing has always meant a lot to me. Now that I've signed with MCA, my records work. They're not just there."

There's gotta be something better than this. That's what Steff (Tom Cruise) and Lisa (Lea Thompson) decide after they make "All the Right Moves." The 1983 film airs Friday, May 23 on CBS.

MONDAY

First it was Lucille Ball. Now Cicely Tyson takes to the streets as a bagwoman in "Samaritan," a film based on the life of Mitch Snyder, an activist for the homeless. The film airs Monday, May 19 on CBS.

Locklear hooks into 'Dynasty' finale

By Ian Harmer

HOLLYWOOD — Absolutely nothing on earth will dislodge the wide grin from Heather Locklear's face. Her TV series "T.J. Hooker" has been canceled, but since the actress has a key role in "Dynasty" as well, her pink slip didn't depress her too much. An old flame, Mark Harmon, has been saying some uncomplimentary things about her in print, but her marriage this month to rock idol Tommy Lee has rendered her deliriously burn-proof.

Heather Locklear

This is, in fact, turning out to be quite a month for Locklear. First there's her quiet "little" wedding — 500 guests have been invited — and this week, there'll be a double dose of Locklear: a two-hour special edition of "T.J. Hooker" and the season finale of "Dynasty."

She is excited about what "Dynasty" holds in store for her. The cliffhanger sees her taking to water for a tooth-and-nail cat fight with Catherine Oxenberg, a.k.a. Amanda Carrington.

The two women clash over the attentions of Clay Fallmont (Ted McGinley), and when Sammy Jo (Locklear) spots Clay romancing Amanda beside a swimming pool, she decides to introduce some unscheduled watersports to the proceedings. The assumption has to be that the writers of "Dynasty" ran out of excuses to pit Krystle Carrington (Linda Evans) against arch-rival Alexis (Joan Collins), so Amanda and Sammy Jo had to be literally thrown in the deep end. It's supposed to be a happy occasion, with the entire cast of "Dynasty" assembled to celebrate the belated engagement of Dominique Deveraux (Diahann Carroll) to Garrett Boydston (Ken Howard), but Sammy Jo's aquatic attack on her rival dampens the do more than somewhat. Says Locklear: "I've had four years of fighting crime on one show, while being a bad girl on another. I must admit, bad is much more fun."

For the record, Mark Harmon compressed a four-month fling with Locklear into "a few days," and in a People magazine article, the actor described Locklear as "an emotional cup of coffee."

"It wasn't a nice thing to say, but I'm not angry at Mark," says Locklear. "He's a neat guy, but he hasn't spoken to me since we split up, so he hasn't told me why he thinks of me that way. The split was my idea," she adds, "so perhaps that's the problem."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

All about the 'World' of soap star Porter

By Kimberly Redmond

I think Rick Porter, the actor who portrays Larry Ewing on "Another World," is great. What can you tell me about him? — K.S., Waynesboro, Miss.

Rick Porter

Army brat Porter was born in Houston, Texas, but traveled as a child. His family roots stem from a long line of cotton growers and cattle ranchers. Porter majored in theater at the University of Texas, where he acted in a number of plays. At one point in his career, Porter seriously considered becoming a stuntman. Porter joined "AW" in 1977. He's married to former "AW" castmate Deborah Hobart. In a home ceremony reminiscent of a scene from the classic film "Gone with the Wind," the couple exchanged their wedding vows at the ranch owned by Porter's parents. You can write to Porter c/o "AW," NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY 10020.

I know that John Wesley Shipp was killed off in "As the World Turns" recently, but I'd still like to know if he was on another soap prior to "ATWT." If so, who did he play? — D.M., Sullivan, Ill.

Shipp portrayed the role of Kelly Nelson on "The Guiding Light" for several years. He then left for Hollywood, returning to daytime to portray Douglas Cummings on "ATWT."

Watch out Pia Zadora! Mary Hart is acting up

By Gillian George

What scares Mary Hart the most? It's certainly not fouling up as the perkier half of the "Entertainment Tonight" co-hosting team. Knowing that millions of viewers are watching every move she makes just doesn't faze her.

Mary Hart

What keeps the beautiful blonde awake at nights from time to time is the dread of being typecast.

"E.T." has made me a recognizable face and name all over the country," Hart says, "and naturally I'm grateful. But one tends to get typecast after long periods of time and I am solidly placed in the minds of people as Mary Hart, co-anchor. That scares me."

The reason for the scare is that the 35-year-old Hart thinks it's time to move on to her first love: acting.

"It's something I've always wanted to do and one of the main reasons I moved to California five years ago," she explains. "But I just haven't had the time to get seriously started until now."

She spends every free moment taking dance classes and drama and voice lessons. Hart says she was delighted when the latter activity paid off last summer.

"I've been a Los Angeles Dodgers fan ever since moving to L.A.," she says, "and I happened to bump into (team manager) Tommy Lasorda. I rather shyly told him that my dream was to sing the national anthem someday in front of thousands of people. Three weeks later, I was invited to do so at Dodger Stadium."

Hart has also dabbled in acting and dancing. She played herself in cameos in both "Moonlighting" and "Hollywood Wives," and participated in a knockout production number on the last Emmy Awards ceremony.

It may not seem as if Hart has time for affairs of the heart, but she has managed to squeeze in dates with a number of well-known men over the past few years, including Sylvester Stallone. Her current escort, however, is raising more eyebrows than any of his predecessors.

He is Mohamed Khashoggi, the 22-year-old son of Arab billionaire Adnan Khashoggi. "I hate being asked about my personal life," says Hart, "but I know it's only fair, since I've done so much prying myself. Yes, we are very good friends. We spend time together and it's a wonderful relationship. And that's all I'm prepared to say."

TUESDAY

Laura Martinez-Herring, Miss USA 1985, will crown her successor when "The 1986 Miss USA Pageant" airs Tuesday, May 20 on CBS. Bob Barker will also be on hand to add his hosting expertise.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

Could you please give me the address of Nick Nolte? I was recently searching my roots, and discovered that my grandmother had the same last name. — J.E.P., Sorrento, British Columbia, Canada

What can you tell me about Victoria Principal? I've been in love with her since 1982. — J.R., Henderson, N.C.

The actress, who plays Pamela Ewing on "Dallas," was born in Fukuoka, Japan. She was named after her father, Army Air Force Sergeant Major Victor Principal. When she was three months old, Victoria and her family moved to Albany, Ga. When she was five the Principals moved to London. This move was then followed by stays in Puerto Rico, Massachusetts and Florida.

Victoria attended Miami Dade Junior College hoping to become a chiropractor, but she was forced to drop out of school after she was injured in an auto accident. After recovering, she moved to New York, where she became a model.

She made her film debut as Paul Newman's Mexican mistress in "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" (1972). Other films followed, including "The Naked Ape" (1973), "Earthquake" (1974) and "I Will, I Will... For Now" (1976).

In 1975, the actress became disenchanted with acting and dropped out to become an agent. Three years later, "Dallas" marked her show biz return. The actress lives in Beverly Hills with her husband, Dr. Harry Glassman.

Victoria Principal

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Clockwise from top left: Johnny Cash, Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, John Schneider and Kris Kristofferson star in "Stagecoach," a made-for-TV remake of John Ford's classic 1939 western. The film airs Sunday, May 18 on CBS.

CINDY SAYS

Johnson fans will get new look at their vice

By Cindy Adams

Don Johnson will shortly be found in your neighborhood theater. Not that the "Miami Vice" star's movie career is going forward — it's going backward. In 1970, before Don was TV's hottest star, there was a film called "The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart." Martin Poll, whose credits include "The Lion in Winter" and "Nighthawks," produced the flick. Robert Westbrook, whose new novel is "The Lefthanded Policeman," wrote the book on which the film is based. And Johnson — a young stud minus the stubble, stylish clothes and charisma — was in it. MGM owns the movie, and before you can say "Miami Vice," they'll re-release it. Like magic.

Don Johnson

Funny man Dick Shawn is joining the parade of one-man Broadway shows. He comes to the Great White Way next season. "I tested my show in California," Dick says, "and won the Los Angeles Drama Award. The show's about comedians; what goes on in a comic's head. I conceived and wrote it." And the title? "Either 'The Second Greatest Entertainer in the Whole World,' which I've been calling it, or 'The Comic,' which is what I want to call it," says Dick. And where's he bringing it? "I'd like a small intimate house with 50 seats," he adds. "So it can be a hard ticket to get."

Dick Shawn

Mel Gibson has a yen for money. He's agreed to do a Japanese beer commercial. ... Michael J. Fox is now into earrings. The "Family Ties" star had his ears pierced. ... "Dallas" producers are looking for David Lee Roth to guest on the series and boost the ratings.
